BROTHER OF BOB DEFEATS KOHLER FOR GOVERNORSHIP

BAYARD WINS IN DELAWARE

Connecticut Republicans Nominate Dry To Run on Wet Platform—Regulars Win in New York.

Returns of yesterday's primaries in Massachusetts and Wisconsin gave former Senator William M. Butler, dry, a lead for the Massachusetts G. O. P. senatorial nomination and assured the victory of Philip F. La Follette, son of the famous senator and brother of the present senator, the nomination for governor of Wisconsin.

Butler, a former chairman of the republican national committee, running as a dry, was leading Eben S. Draper, a wet, 39,559 to 33,410 for the republican senatorial nomination from Massachusetts when returns from 600 of the 1,649 precincts had been reported. Andrew J. (Bossy) Gillis was a poor third. They were contesting for the seat now held by Senator Frederick H. Gillett, a republican, who did not run for re-election. Boston, expected to show a strong majority for Draper, gave him only a few votes more than Butler.

In Wisconsin, La Follette gained a lead of 113,988 to 83,920 over Governor Walter J. Kohler for the republican gubernatorial nomination on the basis of returns from 1,010 of the 2,824 precincts, and the Milwaukee Sentinel, a Kohler paper, conceded the nomination.

The primary was regarded as a test of strength between the La Follettes and the conservative republicans in Wisconsin. A neck and neck race developed in the contest for the democratic senatorial nomination from Massachusetts with Marcus A. Coolidge, of Fitchburg, slightly in the lead. Joseph F. O'Connell, of Boston, was second and Thomas C. O'Brien third. All are wet.

Two others, former Governor Eugene N. Foss, a dry, and Peter Joyce, of Boston, did not conduct active campaigns.

Returns from 469 precincts gave Coolidge 25,369; O'Connell 25,278; O'Brien 17,168; Foss 4,659; Joyce 1,638.

Governor Frank G. Allen was swamping former Mayor John D. Devir, of Malden, who opposed him for renomination for governor in the republican primary. The vote was:

Allen, 70,709.

Ely Is Democratic Choice.

The governor's renomination was unquestionably assured.

John F. Fitzgerald conceded the democratic gubernatorial nomination to Joseph B. Ely, of Westfield, in the following telegram tonight from his bed at the Robert Breck hospital.

"Nurses sets lights off and am off to sleep. Returns indicate your nomination. I congratulate you and pledge my hearty support."

Arrest of Capone Ordered by Judge

U. S. PROSECUTOR HITS DRY LAWS IN QUITTING POST

Charles H. Tuttle Leaves New York G. O. P. Guessing at Gubernatorial Aspirations.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(UN)—Charles H. Tuttle, United States attorney who has gained nation-wide attention in recent months through his activities in unearthing political scandals in New York city, today forwarded his resignation to President Hoover.

Coincidentally he issued a statement in which he reiterated a wish not to be considered as a republican candidate for the governorship of New York and admitted to a reluctant change of opinion concerning prohibition. He now believes, he said, that the 18th amendment should be repealed and superseded by legislation which would banish the saloon and yet give the states the right to deal individually with the liquor problem.

Tuttle's resignation and the accompanying statement overshadowed the state primaries, held today, in which there were but few contests. It left republicans wondering whether he had definitely eliminated himself as a gubernatorial candidate to oppose Franklin D. Roosevelt in November.

Statement Awaited.

Roosevelt, mentioned in some quarters as a potential democratic presidential nominee in 1932, came out last week on the side of repeal. The statement from Tuttle, generally recognized as the most likely republican candidate for governor, had thus been eagerly awaited. However, his words left little doubt of his attitude toward a nomination.

"I recently urged," he said, "that consideration of the proposal of certain republican leaders that I be nominated for governor be suspended. Theretofore I had repeatedly stated that I was not a candidate for office. I have concluded to adhere to that position. I do not wish to be considered."

Tuttle then added that irrespective of any candidacy he would explain his personal view as to prohibition. Naturally, as a government official in one of the nation's most populous and wettest districts, he has had many liquor law prosecutions.

"Real temperance and respect for law cannot be maintained by means of compulsion," he declared, "unless the means are such as local sentiment approves.

Obvious Dangers.

"While temperance as an aid to the moral and economic progress of our country is desired by all, no one is or could be satisfied with things as they are under national prohibition. The dangers of the present situation are obvious. We cannot definitely ignore conditions in favor of theories."

Tuttle then went further into what he considered present-day evils and said:

"To sum it up, I favor the repeal of the amendment, and replacing it with (1) a constitutional guarantee completely outlawing and forbidding everywhere in the United States the saloon system and its equivalent, the private traffic in intoxicating beverages for private profit, and (2) a constitutional guarantee vesting the national government with full power to co-operate with and assist states which have prohibition in whole or in part."

Tuttle concluded by saying he had reached his conclusion "very reluctantly."

"Frankly," he went on, "it represents a change of opinion, slowly arrived at. I know many of the noble men and women who regard this amendment as embodying a moral principle; and I have worked with them in other causes. Sincerity of purpose and community of object still remain as a common ground of co-operation."

$55 Picture Emerges As $25,000 'Master'

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The Herald Tribune says that a small, apparently ordinary painting, bought six months ago for $55, definitely emerged Monday as a work of the master, Rubens, valued at $25,000.

Julius H. Weitzner found it in a small auction room on Fifty-eighth street. It was a heavily painted, unattractive object. Weitzner, however, thought he saw something. He bought it, had it cleaned.

Several layers of paint had been applied by some picture doctor who thought to improve the work of Rubens. After this was removed Weitzner had Dr. Wilhelm R. Valentiner, of the Detroit museum, and Dr. Otto Burchard, the Rubens authority, of Berlin, view it. They pronounced it genuine.

Jurist Invokes 1874 Vagabond Statute Against Gangster—Penalty Is 6 Months; Seek 25 Others.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—(UN)—Municipal Judge John P. Lyle issued vagrancy warrants tonight against "Scarface Al" Capone and 25 of Capone's most notorious fellow gangsters.

The warrants made it possible for authorities to proceed against the 26 underworld chieftains, listed by the Chicago crime commission as public enemies, under the Illinois vagabond law of 1874.

The law in effect means that the gangsters, if found guilty, must serve six months at labor on the county jail rockpile.

Judge Lyle, whose name has been much in the newspapers of late because of the unprecedented high bonds he has set against hoodlums, said he issued the warrants on his own initiative.

"These men have a veritable strangle hold on the city of Chicago," he explained. "If something were not done soon they would be running the city. In such a crisis I believe all the forces for good in the city will back me in my action."

After "Scarface Al," who headed the list of "public enemies," Judge Lyle named his brother, Ralph, Cicero vice overlord; "Machine Gun Jack" McGurn, Capone executioner; "Terrible Terry" Druggan and Frankie Lake, the "boy beer barons"; Joe Saltis, millionaire retired beer runner; Edward "Spike" O'Donnell, notorious racketeer; Jack "Greasy Finger" Gurick, vicemonger, and William "Klondyke" O'Donnell, hoodlum. The others named were less well known, but, according to Judge Lyle, "just as dangerous."

Slayer of Daughter Indicted for Murder

Retribution for the slaying of Emma Jane Cook, 18, will be sought from her father, William J. Cook, 40, carpenter, in a murder trial, the Fulton county grand jury decided Tuesday in indicting Cook on the capital offense charge. Immediately after return of the indictment, Cook was moved from the city police station to Fulton tower and is being held without bond.

The girl's slaying occurred Thursday afternoon on the front porch of the Cook home at 342 Fowler street. Police said Emma Jane was shot when she pleaded with her father not to hit her mother, the father turning his shotgun on the girl point-blank range and pulling the trigger.

Police said Cook went to his home Thursday afternoon in a frenzy of jealousy, and was upbraiding his wife when the daughter interfered in her mother's behalf and was shot. The slaying occurred in the presence of neighbor children and the slain girl's chum, it was said. The girl died in her mother's arms on the way to a hospital.

2,100,000 Unemployed.

HOOVER DELIVERS TARIFF RAISING RIGHT TO G. O. P.

Names Only Five of Six Board Members and Gives G. O. P. Majority; Harrison Criticizes.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The appointment by President Hoover of only five of the six members of the reorganized federal tariff commission was characterized tonight by Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, as "rank partisanship and inexcusable."

In a statement through the democratic national committe, Harrison added that the personnel of the five members "designated by the president and the method he has employed in that designation is tinged with gross partisanship and discredits the work of the commission before it begins to function."

Harrison said the appointment of only five members would enable the three republicans "to have full sway in the reorganization work" and "that means that the heads of some of the divisions having in charge the investigation and study of certain schedules may be changed."

"It has been no secret," he asserted, "that certain faithful employes of the government, who have occupied for a long time key positions in the tariff commission, such as heads of division, where their impartial study and fair findings have aroused influential interests who sought unjustified higher tariff rates and who thwarted the interests in such attempts, have been threatened with demotion or dismissal.

"The delayed desires of these interests under the method employed by the president may now be realized. The new commission is certainly a hand picked, presidential job.

"Mr. Fletcher, not a tariff expert but a diplomat, whom the president selected as his personal body-guard to accompany him on his South American tour; Mr. Coulter, who was made chief economist of the tariff commission at the instance of Brossard; Mr. Brossard, who was appointed as an examiner for the tariff commission through the influence of Senator Smoot and who as an employe and member of the commission, was the special advocate of the sugar interests, and has been the greatest source of friction within the commission and brought discredit upon it.

"His nomination will certainly provoke the strongest opposition, and it is in the interest of the country that his confirmation should be rejected by the senate. It is unfortunate that Mr. Dennis was the other commissioner, who with Brossard signed a public statement for the press during the closing hours of the tariff controversy in congress, that the tariff bill 'would greatly benefit agriculture.'"

HOOVER SAYS DEMOCRAT REFUSES TO SERVE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Five men, four of them experts in tariff matters and the other a veteran diplomat, today were charged by President Hoover with operation of the flexible provisions of the recently enacted Hawley-Smoot act.

To the three commissioners previously selected—Henry P. Fletcher, of Pennsylvania, as chairman; Thomas Walker Page, of Virginia, and Dr. John Lee Coulter, of North Dakota, chief economist of the commission—President Hoover today added the

WOMAN AND 5 MEN IN EXTORTION CASE INDICTED BY JURY

Six Accused by Dr. Case Each Held Under $5,000 Bond — Habeas Corpus Move Beaten.

Indictments charging blackmail, robbery and assault with intent to murder were returned Tuesday afternoon against Nell Hardin, Charles Hawkins, C. Dempsey Darr, Raymond Williams, John Henry Smith and J. B. Nabors by the Fulton county grand jury. Prior to the grand jury's action, Judge Luther Z. Rosser, Jr., of municipal court, dismissed a serious charge made against Dr. Iverson C. Case, alleged victim of the "blackmail ring," by Miss Hardin.

Bonds of the six defendants were set by the solicitor general's office at $5,000 each. In addition to the blackmail and assault counts, Hawkins, Nabors, Williams and Smith were indicted for automobile larceny.

By return of the true bills, the grand jury defeated habeas corpus proceedings instituted by Hawkins and the Hardin woman. Judge Virlyn B. Moore had set noon Tuesday as the time for release of the petitioners if indictments or warrants were not forthcoming, but he extended the limit Tuesday until 3 o'clock in the afternoon in order to give the grand jury time to hear the case. The indictments were handed down and the warrants placed in the sheriff's hands at 2:30 o'clock.

Defendant Discharged.

After hearing from both sides in the case initiated by Miss Hardin against Dr. Case, Judge Rosser directed that an order be taken discharging the defendant. On the stand, Dr. Case told of the alleged assault upon him in Miss Hardin's apartment, and charged that he was forced to sign a check for $250 to obtain his release.

The blackmail true bill against the defendants contain two counts. The first count alleges that the defendants unlawfully accused Dr. Case of an attempted criminal assault, with intent to extort money. The second count charges them with unlawfully accusing Dr. Case of unlawfully performing illegal operation on Nell Hardin and other women, with intent to extort money.

Other indictments against the six defendants charge that they assaulted Dr. Case with intent to murder, robbed him of a First National bank check for $250, and assaulted him with intent to rob.

An indictment against Hawkins, Nabors and Williams charged larceny of an automobile from Sid P. Childress, of High Point, N. C., on August 28, and a similar indictment against Smith, Nabors and Williams charges larceny of an automobile from Grant-Harris-Rippey Company on September 12.

The Hardin woman, under the name of Nell Hood, is to stand trial Friday with other defendants on a charge of assaulting and beating Irving Socoloff, Decatur street merchant. She also is under a criminal court of Atlanta accusation charging her with larceny of a watch from a student.

Attack on Physician.

The alleged assault and robbery, charged against the defendants by Dr. Case was said to have occurred Thursday afternoon. Dr. Case reported that he was called to the Hardin woman's apartment on a professional visit and, while talking to the woman in her bedroom about her "illness," he was struck from behind and assaulted. Dr. Case said he was beaten badly and was forced to sign the check in order to obtain his release.

On the stand in municipal court Hawkins denied having asked Dr. Case to sign the check. Hawkins claimed that he saw Dr. Case enter the apartment and that he investigated by peering through a window. On hearing the girl scream he rushed to her defense, Hawkins told the court.

The girl was represented in municipal court by Attorney Reuben A. Garland. Dr. Case was represented by Attorney Joe E. Berman, who declared that physicians and other professional men, making calls to strange places, are at the mercy of blackmailers.

Struck by Golf Ball, Dentist Asks $10,000

Damage suits were added to the hazards of golf courses Tuesday when Dr. Shepard Eplan, a dentist, filed suit in the city court of Atlanta against Burton C. Harris.

Dr. Eplan asks $10,000 damages for injuries suffered by him when he was struck in the left eye by a golf ball alleged to have been hit by Harris on the James L. Key golf course on July 6. The plaintiff contends that he shouted "fore" prior to crossing the fairway of the sixth hole and that Harris stepped back from the tee. While he was crossing to get to his own ball, near the fifth hole, Harris let drive and struck him in the eye, fracturing the malar bone and inflicting injuries that impaired his vision, the plaintiff claims. The suit was filed by the law firm of Sims & Berman.

Early American Historical Records Willed to Atlantan

Early American historical records, considered by collectors as virtually priceless, have been willed to an Atlantan in a bequest revealed by probate of an Ohio relative's will in Cincinnati.

The Atlanta beneficiary is named in the will as "John C. Symmes, Jr.," and applies either to John C. Symmes, of the Capital Sales Petroleum Company, who lives at 3497 Piedmont road, N. E., or to his son, of the same name, who is seven years of age. Mr. Symmes Tuesday night said that inasmuch as he has until recently been known as "junior" and that now his young son bears that appellation, he is not certain just to whom the will refers.

According to the will of William W. Symes, oldest practicing attorney in the state of Ohio, John Cleves Symmes, Jr., of Atlanta, is to inherit what is said to be a decidedly valuable number of pioneer American historical data, including original records relating to the settlement of the Ohio valley section, of which the Atlanta beneficiary's ancestor, John Cleves Symmes, was one of the most outstanding land-grant capitalists, owning virtually all the land on which the city of Cincinnati stands.

Advices Tuesday night from Cincinnati referred to the Atlanta heir as the grandson of William W. Symmes, but Mr. Symmes declared that inasmuch as he is the great-nephew of the decedent he believes that in all probability he himself is meant, although it is possible, he said, that the will refers to his 7-year-old son. He was aware of the death September 5 of the aged Ohio Symmes, who was one of the best known specialists in law in America as well as a noted arborculturist and originator of certain fruit specialists honored by the United States department of agriculture.

A niece of the elder Symmes, Miss Alma J. L. Hommediew, was bequeathed the Cincinnati estate of the decedent, as well as all cash in the estate, and she was instructed to hold absolutely intact the Symmes household with all its wonderful collection of the ancestral estate, old-time United States land-grant records, in order that the Atlanta beneficiary should finally possess the same as the real subsidiary ancestral heir. Miss Hommediew is named executrix.

ATLANTA-PACIFIC AIR CONTRACT LET

Two Companies To Share in Mail Service Along Southern Route.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Award of the contract for the carrying of air mail from Atlanta to Los Angeles, has been made to the Aviation Corporation, of which F. G. Coburn is president and Mable Walker Willebrandt, legal counsel, and the Southwest Air Fast Express, of which Earl P. Halliburton is president, it was announced late today by the postoffice department. The route will be via Birmingham, Ala., Dallas, Fort Worth and El Paso, Texas, and such points in New Mexico and Arizona as may be designated.

The contractors are to receive 40 cents a mile for the transportation of mail over this route up to 225 pounds, with an appropriate change in rate in the event this poundage figure is exceeded.

Daylight Route.

The service on this route is to be started within thirty days from the award of the contract and for the present the schedule will be maintained by daylight flying only. When the route is completely lighted for night flying, a new schedule will be followed. The schedule for daylight flying is now being arranged by officials of the postoffice department.

Numerous requests have been received from cities along the new route, asking that they be made stopping places when the schedule is definitely arranged. These requests will be given careful consideration by the postoffice department.

While bids for a second route from New York to Los Angeles were opened at the same time as those for the Atlanta-Los Angeles service, no award of this contract was announced.

Six Companies.

Shortly before the bids were opened, newspapers in various sections of the country called attention to the fact that a clause had been inserted in the specifications which limited bidding to six aviation companies, one of these being the Western Air Express, of which Herbert Hoover, Jr., is radio engineer and William P. McCracken, assistant secretary of commerce for aerounautics when President Hoover was secretary of that department, is legal counsel.

The low bidder was among the companies which were excluded by the

Mrs. Emma G. Wood Passes in Irwinton

IRWINTON, Ga., Sept. 16.—Mrs. Emma Graybill Wood, 82 years of age, widow of the late Dr. John N. Wood and mother-in-law of George Carswell, candidate for governor, died at her home here Tuesday morning. Funeral services will be held from the Irwinton Methodist church at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon with the Rev. J. C. Saville officiating.

Mrs. Wood was one of the oldest and most beloved residents of this section. She was the mother of Mrs. Marvin Williams, Georgia W. C. T. U. president. Three other daughters survive, Miss Nan Wood, of Atlanta; Mrs. J. N. Todd, of McIntyre, and Mrs. L. J. Pritchard, of Tennille.

TWO SHOT IN RIOT AT MARYLAND PEN

Nine Desperadoes Surrender After Two-Hour Siege and Gun Fight.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 16.—(UN)—Nine desperate prisoners in Maryland state penitentiary here surrendered to prison guards tonight after a two-hour seige of their improvised fortress in the prison foundry.

The nine took refuge behind the foundry's thick walls shortly after 4 p. m., when a short gun battle with guards broke up the effort of these men and several other convicts to scale the walls to freedom.

A guard, Arthur Owen, 39, and a prisoner, George Bailey, were seriously wounded in the battle. Owens attempted to stop the rush and was shot with his own gun after a convict wrested it from him. Other guards on the high wall opened fire as the convicts dashed for one spot on the wall, and Bailey fell.

The men surrendered after two hours of waiting, nothing being done to dislodge them, although police were contemplating the use of tear gas.

The wounded prisoner a year ago attempted to escape with Jack Hart, one of Maryland's most notorious gunmen and robbers.

Bailey was marooned on the prison roof when an improvised rope broke, but Hart, hanging to the rope, dropped 20 feet to the ground and escaped. Hart is still at liberty.

Bailey is said to have been shot through the body in the battle this evening. He was taken to the prison hospital.

Headed off by guards, five of the prisoners made a dash for the prison laundry. Others submitted to capture after brief tussles.

Patrolman Joseph Slack and Virgil Dave were detailed to accompany the wounded guard to the University hospital. They quoted Owen as saying he was standing at the bottom of a fire escape when he saw four men descending. One of the four fired on him, he said, hitting him in the right side. He remembered nothing more, he added.

The disturbance began about 4:10 p. m. without any previous indication of an outbreak. First indication of it was noted by Owens when he saw several prisoners hurrying down a fire escape inside the prison walls.

Owen shouted to the men to halt. One of them leaped on him, wrested him gun away and shot him.

The sound of the shot attracted other guards who arrived as the prisoners started a dash across the yard to the wall which separates the state penitentiary from the adjoining city jail.

A dozen other prisoners meanwhile dashed out and joined, the fleeing men, and the group, apparently by a preconceived plan, seemed to have a certain spot on the jail wall as their objective.

But their dash was halted by guards on the wall, who fired repeatedly toward the group. One of the shots struck down Bailey.

He fell and the prisoners, disorganized, halted.

$3,500,000 Deficit Found in New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 16.—(AP)—A deficit of $3,500,000 exists in the finances of the city of New Orleans, according to the report of a special committee of civic bodies, who recently undertook an audit of the finances at the request of Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley.

LEAD IN POPULAR VOTES MADE BASIS OF ELECTION FIGHT

Statement of Parker Claims Tie in County Unit Votes and 1,200 More Ballots Than Foe.

HARRISON TO FIGHT TO FINISH, HE SAYS

Incumbent Declares Move by Opponent "a Deliberate Effort To Steal Wilkinson County."

Claim that he was nominated as comptroller-general in last week's primary was made Tuesday by Homer C. Parker in a statement in which he declared he is tied in county unit votes received with Comptroller-General W. B. Harrison and has a lead of more than a thousand in popular votes, which, under the rules of the primary, would make him the nominee.

Supposedly final tabulations several days ago gave Harrison a lead of two county unit votes, and on the face of these returns he had been congratulated on his victory by Parker. The latter's statement Tuesday afternoon, therefore, came somewhat in the nature of a political bombshell.

"Plot to Steal Wilkinson."

Comptroller-General Harrison Tuesday night issued a statement declaring "a deliberate effort was being made to steal Wilkinson county" and thereby deprive him of the nomination, and declared in emphatic terms he would fight it to the finish.

"If necessary," he declared, "I will file contests in a number of counties and carry this effort to overthrow the will of the people to the floor of the convention. I was notified that efforts in this direction have been under foot for 24 hours and those who supported me may depend upon me that their votes will not be nullified in any such manner without my resisting to the limit."

Comptroller-General Harrison would not amplify his statement, but declared he would give out today detailed the information he has in hand as to the "manner in which this move was gone about."

Parker bases his claim to the nomination on an error alleged to have been discovered in the returns from Wilkinson county, and on final returns from Clinch and Hall counties. According to an affidavit from the clerk of the court of Wilkinson county, the county had been given to B. M. Bullard, a third candidate, on a showing of 402 votes against 274 received by Parker. According to the affidavit, however Parker in reality received 574 votes, thereby carrying Attack By Harrison.

Parker's statement followed by only a few hours a statement by Comptroller-General Harrison in which he made the charge that as the result of "political trickery" an effort was under way to overthrow the result of the primary.

Harrison claimed efforts were being made by former disgruntled employes to use Bullard as a "catspaw" to contest the result in several counties. He paid tribute to Parker and expressed his belief that the latter had nothing to do with what he termed "the dirtiest political effort ever made in Georgia."

Parker's statement claims a total popular vote of 69,504 for Parker, with a popular vote of only 68,304 for Harrison, a difference in favor of Parker of 1,200 votes.

On the basis of this showing Parker then claims the nomination, as follows:

"One of the rules of the primary adopted by the state democratic executive committee, in the event of a tie in the county unit vote, is that the candidate receiving the greatest number of popular votes wins the contest. I therefore claim that I have been nominated to the office of comptroller general in the primary of September 10, 1930."

Parker's Statement.

Parker's statement in full is as follows:

"With reference to the tabulation of the returns submitted by 159 of the 161 counties in Georgia in the statewide democratic primary of September 10, I desire to state that a certificate signed by Hon. Alexander S. Boone, clerk superior court, Wilkinson county, Georgia, under the seal of the clerk of the superior court of Wilkinson county, Georgia, is on file in the office of the secretary of the state democratic executive committee which shows the vote for comptroller general in Wilkinson county to have been as follows:

Comptroller General.

Boone, clerk of the superior court, in and for said county, do hereby certify that the above and foregoing is a true copy of the votes, shown by districts, appearing upon the tally sheet on file in the clerk's office of said county, in the primary of September 10, 1930, for the candidates for comptroller general, in Wilkinson county. It is evident that an error in addition was made in summing up the totals of the votes cast for Homer C. Parker, it being shown by a correct addition of the above that Homer C. Parker received a total of 574 votes instead of 274 as returned by the chairman of the executive committee of Wilkinson county, through error in addition.

"'Witness my hand and seal of office, this the 16th day of September 1930.

"'(Signed)

"'ALEXANDER S. BOONE,

"'Clerk Superior Court,

Points to Error.

"The county executive committee for Wilkinson county had previously sent the returns for that county to the secretary of the state democratic executive committee in Atlanta. These returns, which are on file, are identical with those listed above with one exception. The total vote accredited to Homer C. Parker is shown to be 274 instead of 574 votes. The purpose of this certificate is to explain this clerical error. Apparently in the column showing the totals received by the various candidates the figure 2 was inadverdently made for the figure 5. The tabulations of the returns from 159 counties in the state show the following results:

"The two missing counties are Clinch and Hall. I have a telegram from the Honorable Folks Huxton, Homerville, Ga., the secretary of the democratic executive commitee in Clinch county, in which he advises me that I received in that county 520 votes and that Mr. Harrison received 90 votes. The secretary of the state democratic executive committee has received a telephone communication from Hall county in which it was stated that in Hall county I received 1,218 votes and that Mr. Harrison received 1,200 votes. The change of Wilkinson county from Mr. Bullard's column to my column gives him only 15 counties, with 34 unit votes. It will also give me 69 counties and 180 unit votes. When the returns from Clinch, Hall and Wilkinson counties are finally received by the state democratic executive committee, I will have in my column 71 counties with 186 county unit votes. The addition of the votes received by both Mr. Harrison and me in Clinch and Hall counties and the addition of the 300 votes to my popular vote in Wilkinson county, will give Mr. Harrison 68,304 popular votes and will give me 69,504 popular votes.

"One of the rules of the primary adopted by the state democratic executive committee, in the event of a tie in the county unit votes, is that the candidate receiving the greatest number of popular votes wins the contest. I therefore claim that I have been nominated to the office of comptroller general in the primary of September 10, 1930.

"HOMER C. PARKER."

Harrison's Statement.

The statement made Tuesday morning by Comptroller General Harrison is as follows:

"On the face of the official consolidation of primary election returns from all the counties in the state, I have won the democratic nomination for the office of comptroller general by a plurality of two county unit votes above the unit vote of Honorable Homer C. Parker.

"For this confidence shown in me I desire to express my deepest appreciation to the people of Georgia, and to assure them that the business of the office shall be carried forward in the same efficient and conscientious manner as it has been conducted heretofore.

For some time the final result was in doubt as between Mr. Parker and myself. During that time both of us watched eagerly for the official returns from those counties which were slow coming in. When it was sufficiently completed to determine definitely the result, and it was shown I had carried the state by the margin of two unit votes, Mr. Parker called at my office and offered his congratulations. I appreciated the spirit and the personal broadness of Mr. Parker.

"Subsequently it has come to pass that certain designing political interests in connection with a disgruntled and disloyal former employe of the department which I head are turning every possible and conceivable trick in efforts to manufacture some scheme by which they hope to overthrow the result of the official ballot. This effort is being made not in connection with the vote for Mr. Parker and, I believe, not with the consent or participation of Mr. Parker, although both the men primarily involved in the scheming were believed during the campaign to be loyally supporting and working for Mr. Parker. They have now turned to a third candidate in the race, and are using him, or attempting to use him, as a cat's paw to pull out a rotten political chestnut.

"Question Veracity."

"With absolutely no intention and no possible hope that their chicanery can possibly benefit Mr. Bullard one way or the other, unless they hope to make some side-issue trade with him, these two men, primarily, with some aid from a few others, are now seeking to question the veracity of the official count in certain counties where the vote between Mr. Bullard and myself was close. Their sole and only purpose is to change, if they can, by raising a dispute, one or two of the county returns so as to divert the nomination from me. They are not impelled by any real and honest motive to aid either Mr. Bullard, which on the face of the returns would be entirely impossible, or Mr. Parker. Their sole purpose is, if they possibly can, to prevent me having the nomination which the people of the state have given me.

"My popular vote for the state was 77,131, while that of Mr. Bullard was 50,216 unofficial, clearly evidencing the fact that the trickery now being attempted by the selfish politicians referred to is nothing but an effort by them to thwart the will of the people for their own personal gain and profits.

"It is beyond doubt the dirtiest political effort ever made in Georgia. It can't be otherwise when, on the face of the official returns, both Mr. Parker and myself, the only candidates who could possibly be affected, are entirely outside this under-cover political maneuvering, and Mr. Parker's higher sensibilities and cleaner attitude have already been evidenced by his tender of congratulations to me."

MARCUS LOEB RITES WILL BE HELD TODAY

Prominent Atlanta Business Leader Dies Tuesday After Brief Illness.

Services will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon from the residence, 1142 St. Charles place, N. E., for

MARCUS LOEB.

Marcus Loeb, 77, prominent Atlanta business leader, who died Tuesday morning.

Mr. Loeb, until his death, was president of Marcus Loeb & Company, clothing manufacturers, and was one of the pioneers of the industry. He had been active in the direction of the company's affairs until about three months ago.

A native of Germany, Mr. Loeb came to this country as a young man and settled at Savannah, later removing to Palatka, Fla., where he laid the foundation for his manufacturing career in the retail clothing business.

He came to Atlanta in 1899 and founded the firm which bears his name. From a small venture he guided the business on an ambitious expansion program which made it one of the leading overall manufacturing firms in the United States. Fourteen southeastern states comprise the territory covered by the local plant.

Upon removing to this city, Mr. Loeb became a member of the Hebrew Benevolent Congregation and was active in that body. He was prominent in Masonic affairs in Georgia.

He is survived by his wife and four daughters: Mrs. E. Arthur Haas, Mrs. H. J. Rosenberg, Mrs. Milton S. Rice and Mrs. Marion L. Rosenberg.

Stedman's Condition Is Reported Worse

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Representative Charles M. Stedman, of North Carolina, who suffered an apoplectic stroke last week, has "not responded to treatment." Physicians said today his condition was "decidedly unfavorable."

The physicians said, however, there was a "possibility" that the 89-year-old democrat, only surviving Civil War veteran in congress, might resume his duties.

IL DUCE MAY TAKE HAND AT GENEVA

Mussolini Reported Ready To Play Active Part in Peace Move.

BY SAMUEL DASHIELL,
United News Staff Correspondent.

GENEVA, Sept. 16.—(UN)—Premier Benito Mussolini, the fascist dictator of Italy, was understood today to be planning personal participation in forthcoming negotiations at the League of Nations assembly meeting.

The failure of French and Italian statesmen to settle differences of opinion on naval disarmament and other political questions was said on good authority to have prompted the fascist premier to consider coming here because he was "tired of so much beating around the bush."

It was said the Briand Pan-Europa project was regarded as of greatest importance to Italy and that Mussolini was anxious to make Italy's position clear before the world, removing the present widespread conception that Italy has been obstructing European rapprochement.

The hope of continued progress toward rapprochement was expressed by Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, at the annual banquet of the association of journalists accredited to the league.

Support of the British viewpoint that disarmament affords greater European security than political guarantees was expressed before the assembly today by representatives of Germany and Italy.

At the same time Dr. Julius Curtius, the German foreign minister, and Vitorio Scialoja of Italy, both commented favorably on the Briand Pan-Europa project inaugurated by France, which has opposed the British attitude in negotiations to guarantee the future peace of Europe.

Dr. Curtius, speaking in German, expressed the hope that war had not only been outlawed from the viewpoint of aggression but had been prevented at its source.

He expressed approval of plans for harmonizing the anti-war treaty with the league covenant and also for the league's arbitration act.

"Germany is bitterly disappointed that other governments have not fulfilled their disarmament obligations both moral and juridical," he said.

"It is self-evident that a general disarmament conference must meet next year. The German government expects a solution embracing the security of all states and including full publicity of debates in which disarmament will be considered in all of its phases."

Scialoja, supporting the Briand project, said that "an accurate sense of the history of Europe shows we are going toward a union among the different European states."

Florida Town Scene Of Express Office Raid

MARIANNA, Fla., Sept. 16.—(AP) Ten minutes before he was to have placed $7,500 aboard a train for Jacksonville, two bandits today held up and robbed H. H. McNeil, American Express Company agent here, of the money and escaped unnoticed by persons on the street.

The men entered the express office and asked the rate on shipment of a crate of chickens. When McNeil turned to look up the figures in his rate book, one of the bandits stuck a revolver against his back and the other struck him over the head. The money, principally in dollar bills and 50-cent pieces, was taken from the open safe near by.

McNeil was bound and gagged and placed in a back room and was not released until some time after the robbery by an office attendant who had come in and heard him scrambling on the floor.

One of the men was described as being about 45 and of short and stout stature. The other was said to have been of medium build, about 25 years old and 5 feet 8 inches tall.

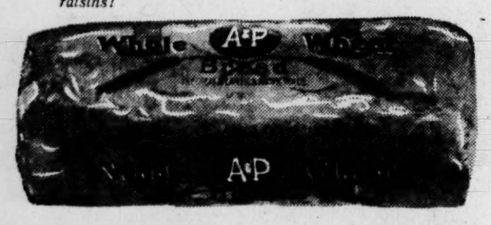

The authorities were seeking a Chrysler 60 automobile bearing Texas license No. 572-809. A similar machine was known to have left Pensacola early today headed eastward, carrying two men and a woman.

Charles G. Hartsfield, claim agent for the Louisville & Nashville railroad at Pensacola, said two men and a woman traded a small car here yesterday for the larger one and that it later developed the small car had been stolen in Texas.

HOOVER DELIVERS TARIFF TO PARTY

names of Edgar B. Brossard, of Utah, the present chairman, and Alfred P. Dennis, of Maryland, now the vice chairman.

The sixth member of the commission, which is to be bi-partisan under the tariff act, is to be announced later. Mr. Hoover said the last-minute declination to serve by one of the proposed democratic appointees would prevent completion of the group for a week or 10 days.

While the president was forming the tariff commission, Eugene Meyer, Jr., of New York, was taking the oath of office as governor of the federal reserve board. Meyer, who served the government for many years as chairman of the war finance corporation and commissioner of the federal farm loan board, replaced Roy A. Young, of Minneapolis, on the board.

In renaming Brossard and Dennis to the tariff commission, Mr. Hoover said he did so to give the group the benefit of their experience and to assure the continuity of investigations started since the tariff bill was enacted.

Experienced Men.

Each of those appointed, except Chairman Fletcher, has had wide experience with tariff matters. Two are former college presidents and the other two were one-time college professors.

Fletcher has been in the diplomatic service for nearly 30 years. After serving with the Roosevelt "Rough Riders" in Cuba, he became second secretary of the Cuban legation, and after holding many diplomatic posts resigned last year as ambassador to Italy.

Dennis, one of the southerners selected by the president, is by his own description a low tariff democrat who believes in "hell, calomel and the democratic party." He voted for John W. Davis in preference to President Coolidge and for Alfred E. Smith in 1928, although formerly one of the personal advisors and a close friend of President Hoover.

He taught economics at Princeton University from 1891 until 1893 while Woodrow Wilson was president of the institution. His first governmental service was as commercial attache of the American legation at Rome and in 1922 he was the personal representative in Europe of Mr. Hoover, then secretary of commerce. Later Mr. Hoover recalled him for special economic studies and investigations, and in 1925 he was named by President Coolidge to the tariff commission.

Appointed in 1918.

Page, the other southerner, was appointed to the commission by President Wilson in 1918 and served as chairman from 1920 to 1922. Previously he was dean of the college of commerce of the University of California, head of the department of economics of the University of Texas and professor of economics at the University of Virginia.

Brossard has served on the commission since 1925. Before coming to the commisison he had been professor of agricultural economics at the Utah Agricultural College, instructor in farm management at the University of Minnesota and economist of the tariff commission.

The president also went to the personnel of the commission for the fifth member, Dr. Coulter, who has been chief economist and chairman of the commission's advisory committee for more than a year. He has been professor of economics and lecturer for half a dozen colleges and universities and was in charge of the division of agriculture of the census bureau from 1912 to 1914. He was a member of the American commission sent to Europe to investigate rural credits and co-operation and during the war was a member of the national export counsel of the war industries board.

President Hoover before naming the commission conferred today with Chairman Fletcher. The new commission plans to be sworn in early tomorrow.

FACTIONAL POLITICS CHARGED TO RUSSELL

Carswell Reiterates Charge of Alignment Between Holder and Russell.

ALMA, Ga., Sept. 16.—(Special.) George H. Carswell, speaking here this afternoon, said that no fair-minded person could put upon Dick Russell's failure to offer any plan for paying the state debts any construction other than an intention to increase the sales and income tax in the event of Russell's election.

Russell, he said, had shown absolutely no concern over the fact that hundreds of country schools have not opened, and will not open until some provision is made for the money due from the state.

"If Dick Russell has any plan for paying the past due debts the state owes the schools, the school teachers, the asylum at Milledgeville, the sanitarium at Alto and other state institutions," the speaker said, "why does he not tell us what it is?

No Character Attack.

"Mr. Russell continues to becloud the real issues in this race. He hides behind a smoke screen and refuses to come out in the open. He said, in his radio address, that he anticipated the circulation of charges that would reflect upon his personal character. No attack of any kind has been made upon Mr. Russell's personal character in this campaign. There has been no intimation that there would be such an attack. His fears, however, bring to mind the fact that when a rock is thrown into a pack of hounds that it is always the hit dog that yelps.

"Mr. Russell claims to have made no trade with John Holder. Will either Mr. Russell or Mr. Holder explain, then, why every interest that supported Mr. Holder is now supporting the Russell campaign? Will either of them explain why Holder started driving the state lining up his forces for Russell no later than the day after the primary?

"And, if Mr. Russell is not up to his neck in the very worst kind of factional politics, and if he has not been one of the most 'practical' politicians of a decade, will he please explain why he talked from the floor of the house against the 1927 appropriation bill; talked for it privately; cast the deciding vote in favor of it, and then asked Governor Hardman to veto it? Has even Georgia politics ever seen anything more 'practical' than that?

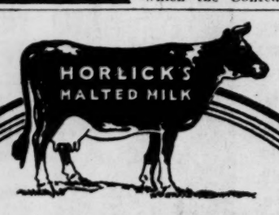

Russell's Responsibility.

"And you must remember that it was this same 1927 appropriation bill that is responsible for the situation in which the Confederate veterans, the schools and other state institutions find themselves today. If we wanted to fullfill Mr. Russell's prediction that his personal character would be attacked we could hope for no stronger indictment than the fact that he is the man most responsible for the state's failure to meet its obligations and fails to show the slightest interest in undoing the harm he has done.

"Elect Mr. Russell and you will find that the state highway department will be thrown into the middle of the most terrific fight the south has ever seen. Captain Barnett has already shown his willingness to play the political game. With Russell—and don't overlook his recent trade with Holder—to show him the fine points of the game you will find roads being traded for votes and your money wasted with no regard for anything except the perfecting of a political machine.

"My campaign has been one of extreme frankness. I have proposed a plan of paying the state debts. I have insisted that these debts be paid promptly. I have asked Mr. Russell to suggest a better plan. The people strongly indorsed by plan last Wednesday. And Mr. Russell lacks the courage to make a suggestion that will endanger a single vote. Let me repeat: Elect me governor, and I will pay the state debts, and without increasing any tax. I pledge myself to veto any bill that calls for any increase in any existing tax or the creation of a new one."

Disclaims Criticisms Against University

Positive denial that he had made any statement reflecting in any way on the University of Georgia is contained in a statement by George H. Carswell given out by his headquarters in Atlanta Tuesday night.

Mr. Carswell spoke in Alma Tuesday, but when his attention was called to reports that he had made such statements, he wired the following to his headquarters:

"My attention has been called to a report of my speech at Baxley in which I am quoted as saying: 'The University of Georgia men seem to be the chief force behind the candidacy of Mr. Russell. I am sorry I was not able to go to the university, but if all the men in the state who could not afford to get one of those long-winded diplomas will vote for me I will be elected overwhelmingly.'

"I did not in this speech or at any other time or place make this statement. I made use of no remarks that could possibly criticize or reflect upon our splendid institution at Athens with its wonderful traditions and great men that the university has given to this state. In every statement, and they have been issued numerously from my headquarters, and in many speeches delivered all over Georgia I have expressly stated that the university system was included in my plan to pay up the appropriations due for 1928 and 1929.

"The University of Georgia is just as dear to me as are any of her other institutions. The plan I promulgated over my own signature in the earlier part of the campaign, offered not only relief to the common schools, Confederate veterans and others, but also included the name, the University of Georgia.

"GEORGE H. CARSWELL."

Rivers Will Reply To Russell Attack

Senator E. D. Rivers announced last night that he would reply tonight to the attack made upon him Monday night by Richard B. Russell, Jr., over the same station.

"I feel that I owe it to my friends," Senator Rivers said, "to reply to the things Dick Russell said about me over the radio Monday night. I have been in politics long enough to know that I must expect certain things from certain politicians. But there are limits beyond which no man can go, and I expect to tell the public some things in regard to Mr. Russell's political life will make him have a bit more regard for accu[illegible] the next time he feels called upon to discuss me or my record. Therefore I have arranged for 30 minutes of time over WSB, from 6 to 6:30, Wednesday evening.

"In order to wind up the affairs of my own campaign and in order to more efficiently support the candidacy of George H. Carswell, I have established temporary quarters at Room 730, Piedmont hotel, where I will be glad to see any of my friends."

M'CULLAR WITHDRAWS FROM SOLICITOR'S RACE

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Sept. 16. Attorney C. B. McCullar, of Milledgeville, Tuesday announced his withdrawal from the solicitor generalship race in the Ocmulgee circuit in favor of Attorney C. A. Giles, of Milledgeville.

Immediately following Attorney McCullar's announcement of retirement from the race, a meeting of the Milledgeville Bar Association was held at which Mr. Giles' candidacy was given unanimous indorsement.

BUSINESSMAN ROUTS FIVE BANK ROBBERS

PORT HURON, Mich., Sept. 16.—(AP)—A Smith's Creek businessman armed with a shotgun faced five robbers as they attempted to open the safe in a private bank this morning and drove them off before they were able to set off a charge of explosive.

Raymond Matecki, the businessman, discovered the robbers attempting to open the safe after they had rifled a number of safety deposit boxes in the private bank of C. C. Peck & Co. After sounding an alarm Matecki fired upon the five men as they ran to an automobile and drove them out of town. He believes he wounded one of them.

The amount of loot taken from the safety deposit boxes has not been determined.

Smith's Creek, which is 15 miles west of here, is noted as the place where Thomas Edison was thrown from a Grand Trunk passenger train many years ago when one of his amateur chemical experiments set fire to the train on which he was a news vendor.

NEGROES WHO ROBBED FILM STAR WIN MERCY

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Three negroes who stole $7,000 worth of jewelry from a berth occupied by Laura La Plante, screen actress, several weeks ago were put on probation for a year in court today upon recommendation of the actress.

Miss La Plante, who recovered the jewelry, agreed to reduce the charge to petty larceny in order to allow the defendants probation.

If you've tried all sorts of corn remedies without getting the relief expected, risk a dime and try "O-Joy Corn Wafers," the wonderful new remedy guaranteed to stop pain at once and quickly remove corn, callous, roots and all or money back.

No thick doughnut-shaped pads or burning acids—just a tiny, thin as paper wafer. Press one on the corn with finger and it sticks there. Away goes pain, shoes don't hurt, dance if you like. No inconvenience, worry or bother. Six O-Joy Corn Wafers for a dime at drug store. Clower Phar. Co., Brentwood, Md.—(adv.)

STEWART ENTERS RACE FOR SPEAKER OF HOUSE

Now Member From Atkinson, He Will Represent Coffee in Next Legisalture.

DOUGLAS, Ga., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Chares H. Stewart, veteran member of the state house of representatives, announced Monday that he would make an active campaign for speaker. He

Mr. Stewart has served almost continuously in the house for the past eighteen years, from Atkinson and Coffee counties. He served three terms in succession from Coffee county until he aided in the creation of Atkinson county in 1918, which automatically ended his stewardship. He represented Atkinson county for several terms and in the last legislature. Moving back to Coffee county he was nominated in the recent primary by defeating J. H. Thrash after a hot political campaign, carrying every district in the county except one.

The announcement of Representative Stewart that he will be a candidate for speaker of the house indicates a warm three-cornered contest for the place. Representative A. D. Tucker, of Berrien county, has already formally announced that he will actively seek the office, and friends of Representative J. W. Culpepper, of Fayette county, say there is no doubt that he will make the race, although he has not definitely made known his intention.

Stewart and Culpepper won out in the recent primary, after spirited contests, Stewart defeating J. M. Trash and Culpepper winning out over J. W. Harris.

RUSSELL OUTLINES CAMPAIGN ISSUES

HAWKINSVILLE, Ga., Sept. 16. (Special.)—Richard B. Russell, Jr., seeking the democratic nomination for governor, today spoke at Hawkinsville, outlining the principal issues between himself and his opponent, George H. Carswell.

Russell said that he takes the position that public offices belong to all the people, while "Mr. Carswell has gone on the theory that public offices and the public interest are things to be the subject of midnight deals between ring politicians and the representatives of the special interests."

He also said that Carswell's plan to divert $5,000,000 from the highway department for payment of general debts was an issue between them. This would cost the state $10,000,000, he said, in order to pay $5,000,000 in debts, as it would "make it impossible to match federal aid funds."

"I propose to pay the indebtedness of the state through a program of economy and retrenchment, reducing expenditures and realizing in cash on non-essential, state-owned properties in Atlanta and Chattanooga," Russell said.

RIVERS-CARSWELL TEAM ASSAILED BY RUSSELL.

Richard B. Russell, Jr., speaking Tuesday night at Alamo, charged Carswell with "getting in the run-over by the help of the school-book trust and the present administration in efforts to keep its faction in control."

Russell said he saw "the tide of public opinion sweeping me on to an overwhelming victory on October 1," and that "George Carswell and Ed Rivers have double-teamed me and are employing all the resources of the old ring politicians in trying to mislead the people."

The candidate said the efforts of his opponents "are futile" because they "are using old political machine methods at a time when the people have determined to take the government into their own hands by the complete destruction of all machines and factions."

Referring to the Rivers-Carswell plan of campaigning, Russell asked: "Who will be governor if Carswell is elected? Will 'we' be governor?"

Continuing his attack on factions, Russell said that "the burning issue in this campaign, vitally important, is that of destroying the remaining faction in Georgia's politics. The people are awake to this necessity. They will not permit the numerous and false statements being scattered throughout the state by this remaining faction."

RUSSELL'S SPEAKING DATES ANNOUNCED.

WINDER, Ga., Sept. 16.—(Special.)—Local offices of Richard B. Russell, Jr., candidate for governor, Tuesday night announced the following speaking engagements for Mr. Russell for this week:

Wednesday: Abbeville, 10:30 a. m.; Rochelle, 1:30 p. m.

Thursday: Baxley, 10:30 a. m.; Jesup, 3:30 p. m., and Waycross, 8 p. m.

Friday: Swainsboro, 11 a. m.; Dublin, 8 p. m.

Saturday: Sandersville, 3:30 p. m.

New Gas Well.

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 16.—(AP) Gas well No. 14 of the Jackson field blew in today with a daily gas pressure of 35,283,840 cubic feet. The well is the Feazel Oil & Gas Company's Millstein No. 1 and is located in East Jackson near the old capitol. Before the gas roared in, the bailer was run 15 times. The depth of the well was given as 2,441 feet.

More Andree Relics Arrive in Norway

TROMSOE, Norway, Sept. 16.—(AP) In rain and gloom the sealer Isbjoern arrived here today with the second quota of relics of the ill-fated Andree polar expedition to be taken from White island.

The Norwegian government steamer Michael Sars and the Swedish gunboat Svenskund escorted the Isbjoern into the harbor, while Norwegian and Swedish marines stood as a guard of honor on the quay as the relics were taken to the hospital for examination. This was done by the same scientists who investigated the original Andree discoveries, brought here recently by the sealer Bratvaag.

The Isbjoern find consists of a remarkable collection of maps, records, geological specimens and personal effects of the three long-lost explorers—Salomon August Andree, Nils Strindberg and Knut Frankel—who set out in a balloon 33 years ago to float over the north pole and instead met death.

The most precious of all the relics are a stained and tattered Swedish flag, which Andree had hoped to hoist in the vicinity of the north pole; the remains of Frankel in a plain wooden box, and a skull.

Let's Make Every Dinner a Company Dinner

Let's have a party tonight . . . every night. For Snowdrift is down in price! Its lowest price in years.

All the nice, light, dainty cookies . . . fine-textured cakes . . . heavenly biscuits and flaky, tasty pastries, you fix (with Snowdrift) for parties, you can now have every day. For each member of your own little family is the most appreciative and important guest you can have.

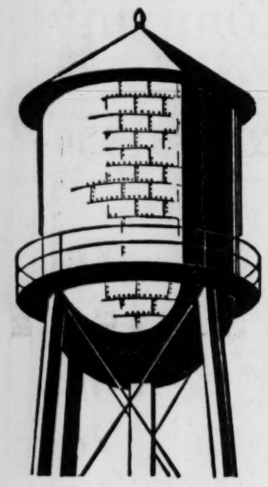

And when you stop to think that an important part of any cake, biscuit or fried dish and almost one-third of pie crust is the shortening you use, you certainly will insist on Snowdrift . . . for the shortening comes to the table as part of the food.

That's why the Wesson Oil people make Snowdrift pure, fresh and sweet . . . good to eat. Only a selected oil as choice as a fine salad oil goes into it. Snowdrift is free from all animal fats, and it comes to you with all its purity and freshness sealed in an air-tight can. Until you break the seal, nothing touches it, not even air, to mar its goodness.

RIVETS MAKE THE WATER-TANK WATER-TIGHT...

LENNOX TORRID ZONE FURNACE for soft coal with outer casing removed, showing riveted construction. (A) Extra-long smoke chamber, or radiator, squeezes maximum of heat from smoke before it can escape up chimney. (B) The specially designed fuel-saving fire-pot with locomotive grates and other features. You can see why this furnace is guaranteed for 10 years, and why its average life, based on the service records of thousands of Torrid Zones, is 21 years.

The TORRID ZONE STEEL FURNACE is gas-tight and dust-tight because it is riveted

YEARS after you've installed a Torrid Zone you can bank the fire for the night with complete assurance that the air from the registers upstairs is as clean, as untainted by gas or dust, as the day the furnace was bought.

For just as the water-tank is sealed water-tight by hot-riveting and cold-calking . . . so the steel Torrid Zone is made gas, smoke and dust-tight. Gas, smoke and dust-tight to keep the woodwork gleaming, the walls and ceilings clean, the curtains bright . . . gas, smoke and dust-tight to shield the family from unpleasant and even dangerous fumes.

The Torrid Zone produces from 10% to 20% more heat from the fuel than other furnaces. That's something to your coal bin! The deep fire-pot uses less fuel and secures better combustion. The oversized radiator takes more of the heat from the smoke and gases before they go up the chimney.

Humidity and ventilation become important health problems when the temperature is low, the windows closed, and the furnace going. The Torrid Zone humidifier has twice the evaporating area of ordinary water pans right inside the casing and because rapid evaporation is also important, it is positioned directly above the firing doors where it gets the most heat. Proper air circulation is guaranteed when an authorized Lennox Furnace man installs your Torrid Zone according to the Standard Code.

Come in and see why this is the most efficient furnace that science has developed and why it makes a warm air system the most desirable. A free booklet describes it in detail. It burns soft coal, coke, hard coal, oil, lignite or gas with greater efficiency than any other furnace. We'll furnish plans and estimates for an installation if you like. Free engineering service is furnished from factory for special problems. Made by the LENNOX FURNACE COMPANY, Syracuse, New York—Marshalltown, Iowa—Toronto, Canada.

PLAINTIFF DISMISSES 'BLACK SHIRT' ACTION

Lawyers Told by Lee To Drop Suit Against Issuance of Charter.

An injunction suit protesting against issuance of a charter to the "American Facisti," order of Black Shirts, was dismissed Tuesday in Fulton superior court by J. T. Lee, the plaintiff.

Hearing of the application of the organization for a charter has not been set, but probably will be fixed in the near future, it was said at the office of the clerk of court.

The injunction petition was called up for hearing Tuesday morning by Judge G. H. Howard, and was dismissed on motion by Murrell & Murrell, counsel for the plaintiff. The attorneys said that they had received instructions from Lee to drop the action. Lee had claimed that powers of the organization had been usurped and that its principles had been changed.

The suit had been directed against R. A. Gordon, R. S. Gulledge, H. J. Gewinner and Walter A. Sims.

Gewinner Promises to Pay.

Gewinner Tuesday informed City Attorney James L. Mayson that he will pay the $40 check he gave R. H. McMurray, tax receiver, for use of the city auditorium one night last week, and which has been returned by the Citizens & Southern bank marked "no commercial account."

Members of the auditorium committee of council Monday instructed Mr. Mayson to proceed with collection.

"Mr. Gewinner promised today that he will pay the check within the next two or three days," Mr. Mayson said Tuesday.

The check was proffered and accepted in payment for use of the auditorium by the Black Shirts.

Rumors that the Black Shirts would not press their application for a charter when the hearing comes up could not be confirmed by Sims, who filed the application. "I was instructed to file the application and now am waiting for the court hearing," he said. "I have not heard that the application will not be pressed."

Boykin Prepares Brief.

Solicitor-General John A. Boykin Tuesday night said that he has prepared a brief on the Black Shirt matter for submission. The brief was prepared in connection with the grand jury resolutions protesting the charter.

The Fulton county grand jury recently adopted resolutions protesting against issuance of a charter to the Black Shirts, and requesting the court to deny the application.

The resolutions charged that "employers of negro labor have been approached with demands that they discharge their negro help." The grand jury said that it is contrary to public policy to issue a charter to "such an organization."

The resolutions declared that 'such methods as are employed by this organization are inimical to the best interests of both the white and colored races," and that "the housewives of Atlanta are very much alarmed at the methods being used by members of this organization to intimidate domestic help."

NEW GERMAN POCKET APPARATUS AIDS THE DEAFENED

Can be had on free trial

From Germany comes a small electrical appliance that bids fair to become the greatest boon to deafened people in many years. So small is this new appliance that it can be conveniently carried concealed in the clothing with as little bother as a watch. This newcomer, Teutonophone, is a product of post-war Germany and is being demonstrated and distributed in the United States by Teutonophone, Inc., Suite 306, 25 West 43rd Street, New York City.

Teutonophone indicates a striking advance over former type earphones. Its power to amplify sounds for even those with only a small percentage of hearing is amazing—yet it is as clear as a bell and produces enlarged sounds with a mellowness of tone not before attained. Included in this hearing aid is a remarkable tiny appliance, a button-like transmitter the size of a silver half dollar and an earpiece small enough to be worn inside the ear without a headband. The weight of this instrument is about two ounces.

While the instruments are superbly made and finished, they are being offered to the deafened at unprecedentedly low prices—so that no one with defective hearing need deprive himself of the benefits of Teutonophone. To appreciate thoroughly the benefit and comfort these instruments offer to deafened persons, an actual test is essential, because mere words cannot portray them adequately.

Stag Outing Planned By Delta Tau Delta

Alumni and members of the local active chapters of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity will gather Saturday afternoon at the Vining Hills Country Club, at Vinings, Ga., for the annual stag outing sponsored by the Atlanta alumni chapter of the fraternity.

The competitive tendencies of Delts, old and young, will find expression in the golf tournaments, over both pee wee and man-sized courses, and in the yearly baseball game between the enthusiastic actives and blase alumni. In addition the club pool will be open to those who swim or those who wish to see Ish Williams, Georgia Tech aquatic star, do some exhibition diving. The afternoon's activities will be climaxed by the traditional chicken dinner.

The men will assemble at the Tech chapter house on Spring street at 1:30 o'clock and any Delt who may be in the city is invited to join the party, regardless of whether he may be affiliated with the alumni chapter.

Committee To Plan Fair Attractions

In pursuance of their campaign to establish a record attendance of 300,000 at the Southeastern Fair during the week of October 4 to 11, the special committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will meet at noon today with the board of directors of the fair association to form final plans for special attractions to be staged each day, in addition to the regular livestock, agricultural and industrial exhibitions and carnival shows already scheduled.

Announcement was made Tuesday of arrangements for a "Sports Day" to be observed Wednesday, October 8, at which a boxing card, several other sports and special athletic features will be staged throughout the day. A number of well-known sports and athletic celebrities will be asked to take part in "Sports Day," it was said.

Boy Campers Donate Educational Fund

The Rotary Educational Foundation, of Atlanta, is in receipt of another loan fund to be used in helping worthwhile boys to continue their education.

The boys of Camp Dixie sent in $138, which they raised among themselves and their leaders at the close of the 1930 camping season, asking that it be used as a loan fund to aid the boys of Rabun county and the country about Wylie, Ga., where their camp site is located.

In making up the sum the boys said it is but the beginning of a fund which they plan to increase annually.

The Atlanta Rotary Club accepted the trust, which was tendered by the campers through Park McGinty, who was one of the leaders at Camp Dixie during the past season.

The Rotary Educational Foundation, during the last nine years, has made loans totaling $125,000 to 460 boys and girls, most of whom are continuing to reside in Georgia after graduation.

Miami Refuses $60,000 Bequest

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 16.—(UN)—The city of Miami has declined a $60,000 bequest on the grounds the donor was demented at the time he made his will and his widow was left penniless.

Increase Is Shown In Tobacco Taxes

Receipts from the cigar and cigaret taxes for the month ending September 15 were $81,947 as compared with $64,457 for the same period last year, R. E. Matheson, commissioner of revenue, announced Tuesday.

Receipts from the tax for the year to September 15 were $738,680, an increase of $241,867 over the same period in 1929.

OPENING ACTIVITIES TAKE COLLEGE STAGES

Local Institutions Prepare for Busy Days of 1930-31 Season.

Opening of the 1930-31 college season will be in full sway among local institutions early next week, according to information from the registrars of Georgia Tech, Emory, Agnes Scott and Oglethorpe. By that time all of the institutions of higher education will have started class work or be in the midst of registration.

Active class work for the new semester will get under way first at Agnes Scott, beginning Friday morning. Matriculations of students is now in progress there and will continue through Thursday.

Next to open classes will be Georgia Tech, with Monday set as the date. Registration of freshmen began Tuesday, followed by sophomore and junior registration today and with the remainder of the week for senior registration.

At Oglethorpe, matriculation was started last Monday, and September 24 was set as the date for opening of class work. Classes at Emory will start September 30, with freshman registration beginning September 23 and that of upper classmen September 29.

Bass Will Seek Place On East Point Council

E. J. Bass, East Point businessman, announced Tuesday he will be a candidate for the East Point borough council, subject to the democratic primary of October 7. He has been active in civic and fraternal affairs of East Point and Fulton county for many years, and is a member of the East Point Chamber of Commerce. He will support a business administration of affairs, he declared.

Sculptor Charges Intimidation to Cuba

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 16.—(AP)—The Daily News said that Mrs. Richard Struyf, wife of a Belgian sculptor, has sought aid from the state department, charging that her husband has been threatened with imprisonment "or a worse fate" if he continues efforts to collect money due him for art work on the $17,000,000 national capitol in Havana.

Mrs. Struyf forwarded a report of the case last night to Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state, in Washington, on her own behalf as an American citizen. At the same time she sent to J. P. Bland, Jacksonville, consular representative of Belgium in Florida, an appeal in behalf of her husband. She came here from Havana yesterday with her son.

Mrs. Struyf told the newspaper that political conditions in Havana have made progress with her husband's claims impossible.

"The Cuban government claims it has no money," she wrote Bland. "There is no work for Mr. Struyf over there and he is completely stranded without enough money to leave there. They have threatened to arrest him if he puts anything in the paper. However, the press in Cuba will not print anything concerning criticism of the government."

Mrs. Struyf said her husband formerly was a Florida resident, having worked on various sculptor contracts at Palm Beach, at Boca Raton and at Fort Myers.

Hitler Addresses German Voters

MUNICH, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler, the fascist leader whose party jumped from 12 to 107 reichstag seats in the election Sunday, told a crowded meeting here tonight that the party's success was the first step toward obtaining power on a legal and constitutional basis.

He told his supporters, who had gathered under the slogan "After victory strap your helmet tighter," that the fascists were revolutionary—but revolutionaries of the mind, not by physical violence. He added that the campaign must not be relaxed for a moment.

It was remarked that Hitler did not mention the possibility of a coalition with other parties in the new reichstag, and this was interpreted by some as meaning that the fascists wish to keep a free hand.

Tennessee Farmer Found Dead in Car

JACKSON, Tenn., Sept. 16.—(AP)—The battered body of A. B. (Ollie) McKenzie, about 30, a farmer, was found today by passing motorists slumped over the steering wheel of his automobile which was in a ditch about three miles from here on the old Medina pike.

No motive for murder could be found by investigating officers. Coroner Ewing Griffin and Sheriff Fred Exum said they were "undecided as to the cause of death," although they said it "apparently was murder." McKenzie's head and body were badly bruised. Officers said his neck "looked as if he had been strangled."

A sister of McKenzie's wife told officers that McKenzie left home last night about 11 o'clock and had not been heard from until they received the report of his death.

Birmingham Mill Head Ends Life With Bullet

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 16.—(AP)—The body of James E. Millar, 57, general manager of the Birmingham plant of the Ingalls Iron Works Company for 10 years, was found in the bathroom of the family residence early today with a bullet wound in the head. Coroner J. D. Russum returned a verdict of suicide.

Members of Mr. Millar's family said he had been in ill health for several months and recently had appeared despondent. He is survived by the widow and two children.

MOTORBOAT PROPELLER FATALLY MANGLES GIRL

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Caught between the blades of a whirling propeller after falling from a motorboat in upper Saranac lake, Elsie Hughes, 14, of East Hampton, L. I., was saved from drowning, but died in the General hospital here. Her left leg was severed between the ankle and knee and her right leg was mangled. Dr. John D. Walker, New York surgeon, operated in an effort to save her life. Miss Hughes was a guest at the J. S. Bache camp near here.

Radio Restrictions Require Raucus Racket Restraint

:: CITY CHIEF CONSIDERS CURBING "CHUNES" ::

BY WILLIAM O. KEY, JR.

There is, in Gilbert and Sullivan's sparkling divertissement known as "The Pirates of Penzance," a witty little couplet that goes:

When constabulary duty's to be done
A policeman's life is not a happy one.

Atlanta policemen may be able to take their comic opera or leave it alone, but the above couplet carries an ominous prophecy for them, coming as it does on the heels of the ordinance now before Mayor Ragsdale for his approval or veto making it illegal for citizens to turn on their radios between 11 p. m. and 7 a. m.

Such suppression of bootleg wavelengths would fall heavily upon the shoulders of the night watch; and, looking a bit into the future, we find Officer X, who, patrolling his residential beat at 11:01, detects a light and a suspicious neutrodyne sound from the 12th floor of a nearby apartment house. Before calling the wagon he decides to investigate, and up he goes. Loudly he knocks and after a few moments—during which he is scrutinized by the occupant, nervous Mr. Blank, through a small hole bored in the door for just this purpose—the door is opened.

Officer X.—Don't you people know it's against the law—

Mr. Blank (coughs nervously)—Good evening, Officer. Heh-heh. Is it that late? You see, we had a few friends up and we were just listening to a splendid talk on cassocks by—

Officer X.—Cassocks, eh? Say, you people ain't reds, are you?

Mr. and Mrs. Blank (aghast)—Mercy, no!

Officer X.—Then why are you tuned in on them cassocks?

Mr. Blank—Surely, officer, you know what cassocks are.

Officer X.—Yeah, I know. They're them Rooshan bulsheviks that ride horses.

Officer (doubtfully)—Where was that program coming from?

Mr. Blank (hopefully)—Los Angeles, officer—just think!

Officer X.—I got Salt Lake City once on my set. It come in late, too.

Guest (life of the party)—I put an oil heater under the bed one time and got hot springs.

Officer (laughing)—That reminds me. I stuck my head out the window one night and got chilly.

They do and Officer X is pleased. He calls Mr. Blank aside.

Officer X.—I guess it'll be all right. But, say—better pull down your windows. If I was you I'd even turn out the lights. Can't be too careful, y'know. My captain's liable to come around on this beat any time.

Night Employment Of Women Opposed

Elimination of night work for women and minors in cotton mills was recommended to mill executives in a resolution adopted by the executive committee of the Cotton-Textile Institute at a meeting in New York.

The recommendation urges that mill executives take that step "as soon as possible and not later than March 1, 1931."

The resolution includes all women and minors under 18 years of age. Night work was described as work between 9 p. m. and 6 a. m.

The employment of women and minors at night was adopted widely in some sections of the industry during the World War to meet emergency demands.

George S. Harris, of Atlanta, a member of the executive committee, attended the meeting.

Morris To Conduct Druid Hills Services

Dr. S. L. Morris, secretary of the Home Missions Board of the Presbyterian church, will conduct prayer services at the Druid Hills Presbyterian church at 8 o'clock tonight, according to an announcement issued by J. A. Craig, of the board of elders. Dr. Morris will replace the Rev. Wade H. Boggs, pastor of the church, who leaves tonight for Louisville, Ky., where he will attend an assembly committee meeting, returning to the city Friday.

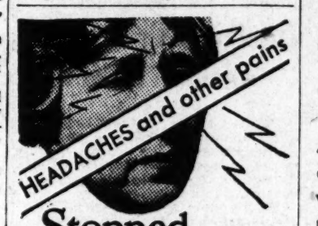

Civitans Addressed By Ralph Ramsey

"Training for Citizenship from the Educator's Viewpoint" was the subject of an address delivered by Ralph Ramsey, principal of Fulton High school, at the Tuesday meeting of the Civitan Club. Another feature of the meeting was the visit and brief talk by Arthur Cundy, international secretary for Civitan, while Mrs. Fred J. White, with a series of readings, provided the entertainment.

A prominent item of Civitan activities is scheduled for next Tuesday's meeting. At this time C. F. Redden, of Brunswick, associated with the Howard Coffin interests in the development of Georgia's coastal region for resort purposes, will address the Civitans. He will speak on "Georgia as a Resort State."

Perryman on Bench In Humphries' Place

Judge C. J. Perryman, of Lincolnton, Toombs circuit, is presiding in Judge John D. Humphries' division of Fulton superior court for several days. Judge Humphries is attending his brother, Joseph W. Humphries, attorney, who is critically ill of pneumonia.

A Statement by the Cadillac Motor Car Company

Concerning the Cadillac and La Salle Program

THE bringing out of the Cadillac V-16 a few months ago and now the new Cadillac and La Salle V-Eights, and early in October the new Cadillac V-12, may give rise to some question as to our manufacturing program.

It is our desire that Cadillac and La Salle owners and the motoring public be apprised of the facts.

The La Salle will remain companion car to Cadillac. It was so introduced, as such it has greatly succeeded and as such it will continue.

Obviously the number of motor cars which any manufacturer may sell in a given price field is finally governed by the ability of the public to buy them.

Cadillac cars having gained almost universal acceptance in the finest car field, any considerable expansion must be through cultivation of a broader market in lower price ranges.

Our experience has been in building fine cars. The Cadillac organization could not adhere to its fine car ideals and successfully produce a low priced car, but through a more complete coverage of the fine car field it was apparent that we could give greater value and appreciably lower prices.

For the broader market, therefore, we created the La Salle out of our Cadillac experience and developed it as a quality car.

For the highest priced fields we have produced the sixteen-cylinder Cadillac and the twelve-cylinder Cadillac.

And between the very broad market for the La Salle and the relatively narrow market for twelve and sixteen cylinder cars, there is a large market for Cadillac V-8's.

These lines of cars contribute to one another a tremendous influence in sales, a marked advance in values and make possible the low prices at which Cadillac and La Salle cars are sold.

Were it not for La Salle, all Cadillacs would be higher in price; and were it not for the Cadillacs, La Salle prices would necessarily be so high as to defeat the purpose for which the La Salle was designed.

Each of these lines is dependent one upon the other—the Cadillac V-16, the Cadillac V-12, the Cadillac V-8, and their companion car, the La Salle. 983

LOCAL ELKS TO HOLD 'OLD TIMERS' NIGHT'

Prominent Officials of State Chapters To Attend Thursday Function.

A galaxy of prominent officials in Georgia Elkdom have announced their intention to attend "Old Timers' Night" to be observed Thursday night by Atlanta Lodge No. 78 under the direction of Lewis J. Baley, exalted ruler, and sponsored by a reception committee of which Walter P. Andrews, past exalted ruler, is chairman, and Marion C. Kiser is co-chairman.

Among those who have signified their intention to be present are: James J. Fernandez, of Tampa Lodge No. 708, district deputy grand exalted ruler, west Florida; Arthur C. O'Hea, of Fort Lauderdale Lodge No. 1517, district deputy grand exalted ruler, east Florida; William Kernaeley, district deputy grand exalted ruler, north Florida; Charles H. Smith, of Macon Lodge No. 280, district deputy grand exalted ruler, north Georgia; John D. Odom, of Columbus Lodge No. 111, district deputy grand exalted ruler, south Georgia; Ben Mendelsohn, of Pirmingham Lodge No. 79, district deputy grand exalted ruler, north Alabama; I. G. Ehrlich, of Albany Lodge No. 713, president of the Georgia Elks' Association; William H. Beck, Jr., of Griffin Lodge No. 1207, member of the judiciary committee of the grand lodge, and John S. McClelland, of Atlanta Lodge No. 78, member of the grand forum of the grand lodge.

The entertainment committee is in charge of Frank M. Robertson, John S. McClelland and I. S. Moss, and the special reception committee is composed of the following: Lewis J. Baley, Walter P. Andrews, Marion C. Kiser, W. A. Jones, J. Gordon Hardy and Newman Laser.

In 3 Minutes Breathing Relieved —Fewer Sleepless Nights

When you wake up in the middle of the night, finding it difficult to breathe, or are attacked with choking spells, there is nothing that will give you the quick relief that a Dr. Blosser Cigarette will. Just a few puffs of this medical cigarette opens up air passages, restores freer breathing and off you go to sleep—all within a few minutes. One Atlanta, Georgia, woman says she never goes to bed without a package of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes beside her. She knows if she has a bad breathing spell in the night, she will be able to get to sleep in a few minutes after smoking one of these wonderful cigarettes. No tobacco in Dr. Blosser's—just a special combination of herbs, berries and flowers, whose medical vapor has a clearing, penetrating action second to none. At all druggists—ask for the New Stronger Cigarette.

Census Court Battle Is Reset for Sept. 19

With announcement that hearing on the mandamus sought by Atlanta to force the United States census bureau to publish enumeration for Atlanta as it does other cities composed of boroughs has been postponed until Friday, September 19, it was stated that a condition on which the delay is predicated is an agreement of the department that it will not publish any further population figures until after the hearing.

Louis Titus, widely-known Washington attorney, representing Atlanta, agreed to the postponement on the representations that the department will not give out any further statistics for the borough of Atlanta instead of the city of Atlanta, he wired City Attorney James L. Mayson.

Mr. Mayson will go to Washington next week to help in presenting Atlanta's claims, he has announced. Monday he declared he would leave for Washington today, but early Tuesday morning received a telegram from Mr. Titus telling of the delay because of the fact that the attorney for the census department is not in Washington at the present time and will not be there this coming Friday.

Accidentally Shot, Girl Is Improving

With her condition greatly improved, Miss Margaret Woodside, young daughter of John J. Woodside, Jr., of 125 Fifteenth street, was able to sit up in a wheel chair Tuesday at St. Joseph's infirmary, where she has been confined several weeks owing to wounds inflicted by an accidental pistol shot. Doctors, who at first believed the injury would prove fatal, Tuesday predicted her ultimate recovery.

RAGSDALE APPROVES PURCHASING INQUIRY

Council Committee Instructed To Investigate Department and Price.

Mayor I. N. Ragsdale Tuesday approved a council resolution instructing the purchasing committee of council to make an exhaustive probe of the borough purchasing department, including William P. Price, purchasing agent, who once before has been under the fire of a council investigation, was tried and freed on a four-count indictment charging him with a conspiracy to defraud the borough in purchase of certain supplies.

In addition, Price has been under the fire of two grand juries of Fulton county as a result of the graft probe, and the March-April grand jury demanded his removal as an incompetent.

Price has declared he will welcome an investigation and will assist in obtaining the truth of any transaction with which he has been connected.

Councilman Nelson T. Spratt, chairman of the purchasing committee, is out of the city, but stated Monday night he would call a meeting as soon as is practicable following his return, the latter part of this week.

The mayor approved practically all other measures sent to him by council, but held, among other minor papers, one outlawing use of radios, phonographs, etc., from 11 p. m. until 7 a. m.

Yancey and Friends Tell of 'Close Call'

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Captain Lewis A. Yancey and two companions arrived here from Nassau today aboard the Munson liner Munargo, following the wrecking Friday of the plane in which they were completing a tour of the Americas.

The plane was wrecked near Georgetown, Exuma island, Bahamas, when the fliers made a forced landing in a rocky swamp.

Yancey was accompanied on the trip by Zeh Bouck, radio operator, and Emil Burgin, pilot. Yancey acted as navigator for the journey.

They spent most of the day here with friends, and were guests at luncheon of the Miami Aero Club. They planned to leave tonight by boat for New York city.

Captain Yancey said all equipment in the plane was lost in an explosion and fire resulting from the forced landing.

"We were lucky to get away with enough clothes to cover ourselves," he commented. "We hadK a lucky break—a mighty lucky break. It was little short of a miracle that we were unhurt."

Hebrews Prepared For High Holidays

Preparations for the Jewish high holiday season, which begins with Rosh Hashanah Monday night, September 22, and is concluded with Yom Kippur ten days later, are being made by the local Hebrew congregations.

Rosh Hashanah, marking the opening of the New Year, 5691, in the Hebrew calendar, and Yom Kippur, corresponding to the Day of Atonement, form the most sacred holidays of the Jewish religious life. Appropriate services for the occasions are conducted in the synagogues and temples throughout the world.

The Hebrew Benevolent Congregation, of which Rabbi David Marx is minister, is now erecting a new temple on Peachtree street, at the intersection of Spring street. It is expected the Sunday school portion of the religious plant will be ready in time to be used by the congregation for the holidays. Another congregation which this season will worship in a new synagogue is the Anshie Sfard, which has just completed remodeling the structure at Washington and Clarke streets. The synagogues of the Ahavath Achim, Rabbi Harry H. Epstein, and the Shearith Israel, Rabbi Tobias Geffen, both of which are on Washington street, are being made ready for the holidays.

Georgia Farm Heads At Carolina Meeting

Euene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, and T. H. Linder, assistant in the department, left Atlanta Tuesday night for Raleigh, N. C., where today they will participate in a conference of southern agricultural commissioners called by Governor O. Max Gardner to consider the present crisis in the tobacco growing industry.

Before leaving, Commissioner Talmadge announced that he would submit to the conference in North Carolina a plan by which farmers would contract with the larger companies to grow only the quantity of tobacco the companies would agree to buy and at a stipulated price.

Ku Klux Klan Named In Suit for $4,359

Suit to recover $4,359.29 alleged to be due the plaintiff because of a loss it sustained in signing bonds for the defendant order was instituted in United States court Tuesday by the Fidelity & Deposit Company, of Maryland, against the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc. Paul Etheridge, who accepted service for the Klan, said the litigation involved a dispute as to the amount of premiums the Klan owed the company.

Victims in Rabun Auto Crash Improve

CLAYTON, Ga., Sept. 16.—Slight improvement in the condition of both Mrs. Susie Lovell and Mrs. Cicero Kirby, injured Monday when a car driven by Mrs. C. P. Goree, of Atlanta, struck one in which they had been passengers, indicated that Mrs. Goree will seek a court order of her release on bond pending trial of a charge of reckless driving.

The condition, however, of both the injured women was still regarded as serious and it was not thought here that a Rabun county court would permit Mrs. Goree's release until Mrs. Kirby and Mrs. Lovell are out of danger. Friends of the Atlanta woman, wife of an assistant United States attorney, have endeavored to post bond to secure her release.

Officer Kills Friend Mistaken for 'Legger

MANSFIELD, Ark., Sept. 16.—(AP) Mistaking him, he said, for one of several men he had arrested on liquor charges recently, Roy Looper, constable and deputy sheriff shot and killed A. J. MacDonald, a farmer of the Cross Roads settlement, near here, and his lifelong friend, as the latter sat in his automobile in front of Looper's home last night.

Looper had not been arrested at noon today, nor had any inquest been held.

MacDonald had gone to Looper's home to inquire about his son who had gone to town with Looper during the day, it was said.

MacDonald called to Looper, who went to the door. As he did so he said MacDonald's automobile started rolling backward. Not recognizing MacDonald and fearing an attack on his life by one of the men he had arrested recently, Looper fired at the car, the first shot breaking the windshield and piercing MacDonald's heart. Looper fired several more shots.

It was not until MacDonald cried, "Roy, you've killed me," did Looper realize his mistake, he said.

One Thousand Suits and Topcoats (Silk Lined) To Be Sold by Metcalf at Less Than Half Price This Week

(Believe It or Not)

$20 Suits and Topcoats For $8.85

All Sizes for Men and Young Men

The tailors that made these topcoats expected to sell 'em at a profit. They never dreamed of loosin' money on 'em. They thought they had a bona fide order at thirteen fifty wholesale, so every coat was hand-tailored and silk lined. When all ready to ship the credit man telegraphed—"can't ship 'em unless you pay C. O. D." Like a red flag in a bull's face, the "Mr. Merchant" got peeved and cancelled the order.

You know and I know that money's mighty tight and not many merchants are willin' to "put out" the dead men's pictures, right now! I made a ridiculous offer for the entire lot and when they saw the Jack in my hand they listened to me.

The thousand suits and topcoats are now in my two big stores in Atlanta and when you see 'em you will believe what Metcalf says is so! Course you wouldn't pay twenty dollars for a suit or topcoat right now 'cause you don't need 'em, but when you can git a twenty dollar suit or topcoat for $8.85 you're goin' to git up the Jack and what I'm talkin' 'bout you're goin' to "do it now!"

You old doubtin' Thomas' who don't believe nobody because nobody believes you—here's what Metcalf says to you: Buy one of these $20 topcoats for $8.85—keep it till the fust of November. If you'd rather have your ole $8.85—bring back the coat and get back your Jack. Don't apologize—don't fuss—just say, gimme back my Jack, and I'll do it!

SOUND ECONOMY SUGGESTS OLDSMOBILE

Body By Fisher

Have you noticed how many business men—how many thoughtful women—how many shrewd and careful buyers in this community have turned to Oldsmobile?

Such widespread public favor shown to anything so important as a motor car is no result of chance. It must be founded on an excellent fundamental reason. And in Oldsmobile's case that reason is sound economy.

Sound economy at the time of purchase. Sound economy that holds through the months and miles. For Oldsmobile's proved design, quality materials, and precision workmanship insure dependability of the highest character.

Finally, the deciding factor in favor of Oldsmobile is that the economy which characterizes this fine car entails no sacrifice of those elements of appearance, comfort, and performance which discriminating motorists value so highly.

Come in—examine this car—consider its moderate price. Drive it and make your own performance tests. We believe that to you, as to thousands of others, sound economy will then suggest Oldsmobile.

So Economical!

GENERAL ELECTRIC ALL-STEEL REFRIGERATOR

The economy of owning a General Electric Refrigerator is five-fold: You save because food spoilage is prevented. You save because waste is eliminated. You save because milk can be kept sweet and wholesome. You save because meats, fruits and vegetables can be bought in larger quantities when prices are most favorable. You save because you can prepare your own delicious frozen desserts.

And you save because the cost of operation is only a very few cents a day.

$10 DOWN 30 MONTHS TO PAY

Now—during our September sale—is the time to buy your General Electric Refrigerator. Take the path to true economy while these liberal terms are in effect. Visit our nearest store right away! Select the model best suited to your requirements.

At less than the cost of an ICE CREAM SODA you can operate your General Electric Refrigerator for two whole days. And this says nothing about the great savings of milk, meats, fruits and vegetables!

MAKE GEORGIA POPULAR.

The discussions had and tentative plans proposed at the conference of state and regional leaders with the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce on Monday indicate a certain co-operative forward movement to develop more profitably the resources and business of the state.

The same qua non of the success of the movement is to get the largest possible association of the representative people of the whole state in the determined prosecution of the plan. The idea of forming county co-operative chambers of commerce all over the state is the basic idea and the more completely those bodies are organized and related to the spinal column, the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce, the more surely will the movement become popular and potential.

A competent committee will formulate the statewide plan and report it on September 22. When reported and perfected the plan should be prosecuted with all the vigor and patriotic earnest of which Georgians are capable when aroused to their vital interests.

We have in Georgia everything desirable to make it a magnet for population, enterprise, agricultural plenty and prosperity, and a playground for the recreation-seeking tourist second to none on the continent. All these muniments of state resources and possible progress are known to us who live and labor here, but they must be demonstrated to observers and made fully known to the nation.

No movement of our people since the revival from the reconstruction era has held forth greater realizable possibilities than this one to coordinate the state-promotion spirits of the Georgia people.

THE CONGRESS OUTLOOK.

Senator Pat Harrison for the democrats and Senator Watson for the republicans have opened the drum fires of the pending congressional campaign. Both of them are adept critics and claimers. What they are saying may be taken as the best that can be offered, in present circumstances, in the way of persuasion to the voters of the nation.

Unless all signs fail in dry weather—and this has been an abnormally dry season all over the nation, speaking meteorologically only—the democrats should recover control of the house of representatives by the fall elections. As for the senate they would have to gain ten straight democratic senators in order to have a bare majority in that body. The most optimistic survey of the field shows a possible gain of eight. An unusual revolution of public sentiment since 1928 might give them the other two.

However that may turn out to be, it is certainly indicated that the democrats and independent republicans in the next senate could, by agreement, control its organization and its legislation. In any event conditions of the present senate organization, show that most of the major committees are either now in the hands of the insurgents, or will be, after March 4 next.

As instances, the committee on agriculture will have as its chairman and four next members Senators McNary, Norris, Capper, Norbeck and Frazier, all insurgents; the committee on banking and currency will have Norbeck for chairman, followed by Brookhart and Steiwer; the committee on commerce will have Jones for chairman, with McNary and Johnson coming next in order; the greatly important committee on foreign relations will have as now Borah for chairman, followed by Johnson, with Capper and La-Follette as colleagues; while the powerful judiciary committee, led by Norris, will have Borah and Robinson of Indiana as runners-up.

Thus it will be seen that whether there should be any working agreement between the democrats and insurgents, the latter will exert an almost determinative control of senate procedure that will not be helpful to the stand-pat and Hooverite element in that body.

It could, of course, easily happen that with the democrats in control of the house and a favorable coalition in the senate the next congress could enact legislation they might believe wished for by the people generally. In such cases President Hoover would have to agree or use his veto power—an exercise frequently perilous to a president's popularity and political prospects.

Evidently the forthcoming congressional elections will produce some momentous results and predetermine many political possibilities. That they will result in any plenary indorsement of the Hoover administration and insure it smooth sailing for the next two years is most improbable.

THIS CONSTITUTION DAY.

On this 143d anniversary of the signing of the constitution of the United States by the state's delegates who framed it in 1787 it is pertinent to hold in mind that the constitution is still venerated and upheld by the mass of the American people. It is going much too far ahead of the facts to say that the people contemn the constitution and are willing to allow its unwelcome provisions to be nullified.

The truth is that the constitution is being more critically studied, is being better understood by the intelligent, and is being more strongly advocated for observance than at any time past in our history.

At first the constitution was an experiment in a new system for the functioning of representative democracy. Then it became a fetish of national creed and devotion. Now it is a working mechanism by the fundamental principles of which the dual system of central duties and states' rights may be operated without friction, usurpations or nullifications.

If there appears throughout the nation a large body of opinion that differs from certain contents of the constitution the conflict does not relate to the original document. In each such case the difference relates to some one or more of the amendments of it that have been made to it since the slavery prohibition amendment was ratified at the end of the War Between the States. The controversial amendments, indeed, are three only—the 14th, 15th and 18th. As to them there are such wide and strong divisions of devotion as to make them "stand in jeopardy every hour," since they lack regionally or generally that respect which is needed to make them enforceable in their full intents.

It was a prevision of the makers of the constitution that events and emergencies might quite surely come to pass when things they had embodied in it might not be wise or workable in new circumstances; so they provided a very operative plan by which such things could be revised, amended or abolished by the people.

A constitutional provision or amendment is always subject to the right and power of the people to revise or repeal it in the mode they have prescribed for such action. Neither original provision or amendment is sacrosanct, so that no one who objects to it and would change or abolish it is chargeable with lawlessness of spirit and treason of purpose.

Just now, when the prohibition amendment is the imminent and inflammatory subject of popular discussion and curative proposals, it is well that the history, fundamentals and status of the constitution should be rehearsed, considered and calmly judged. And the judgment the people should seek to reach is whether it is wise to have anything in the constitution that manifestly revolts a large and honest public sentiment so as to make it unenforceable, or that it would be better and safer to revise, amend or abolish it in the interest of public contentment, order and constitutional morality and integrity.

The suggestion of Governor Huey Long as a possible president of these United States is enough to start another secession movement.

What has become of all those "joy-riders to the grave of John Barleycorn?" Page Dr. Clinton Howard, who got up that excursion party.

There will be a lot of new blood in the next general assembly. Let us trust it will be good red state-saving blood!

It is to be hoped that 13 is an unlucky number of constitutional amendments this year.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Defining Peace.

What is peace? The Academie Francaise, which year in and year out works away at the making of its dictionary, is already in the "p's" and will soon have to define the meaning of this word, the maintenance of which in the world is the aim of peoples and politicians. Is peace simply a negative condition resulting from the absence of war, or is it something positive? Pending the academy's pronouncement, some suggestions have been put forward as to the definition of "La Paix." How, for instance, would this do? "A state of quietude so difficult to attain that it is nearly always demanded in violent language as shown by the phrase, 'Fichez-moi la paix.'" Or this: "An object desired by all good citizens who think like ourselves." This enables the world to be divided into two classes, our friends who are the friends of peace, and our enemies who are the enemies of peace. Or, finally this: "A nomadic traveler always on the move and unable ever to settle down. We speak of the peace of Versailles, peace of Brest Litovsk, peace of Ryswyck, and so on." But in this sense the author of these suggestions has, however, to admit that a somewhat depreciatory meaning attaches to the word which makes of peace nothing more nor less than a frivolous gadabout.

Beating the Government.

Courteline's amusing little one-act farce, "Article 330," was about a man who found ingenious ways of making laws which he disliked inoperative through observing them to the letter. A contemporary pupil of the same school has just discovered and published a means of getting round what he considers to be the tiresome law of the obligatory receipt-stamp on a restaurant bill of more than twenty francs. There are two ways he says. One is that, if your bill comes to seventy francs and you have two guests, you shall insist upon the waiter making out a bill for each member of the party, and paying them separately. The other is to pay for each course as it is served. Neither device is, perhaps, particularly ingenious or particularly funny; but the invention of them is characteristically French, because it represents one of the chief preoccupations of all Frenchmen, which is to evade the payment of taxes. The difficulty of popularizing banking accounts all lies there. The peasant, and even the townsmen, suspects that if once he has a banking account the state may be able to find out what his real income is.

Blul Fights In France.

Killing bulls in a ring is, of course, quite illegal in France. It is done, however, all through the Midi, all summer long. Officials do nothing to enforce the law by prevention. They come to the bull fights, are among the enthusiastic spectators, then draw up a little indictment of those responsible. Some one pays a fine which can be easily spared off the gate receipts. On gala occasions matadors are imported from Spain, but the baiters are all Frenchmen. Alex Small, the Paris writer, who went out of his way to watch one of these southern bullfights, reports that the French picadors may be inferior to Spanish professionals, but that it is hard to imagine anything neater and more skilful than their cape passing. It is not altogether an unfair game he finds in spite of the refuges behind which the baiters can duck. They take perilous chances, in which the slightest miscalculation of the eye or slip of the foot might prove fatal. The bull, of course, is defeated by his own stupidity. He charges with his whole ton of beef at a waving rag, when his real adversary is right beside it, within inches of his horns. It is a fine example of brute strength without a directing brain.

LEARNING TO LIKE MASHED POTATOES, COD LIVER OIL AND CARAWAY SEEDS.

It is now pretty well known to all who can learn, that a child is not born with an instinctive fear of snakes. If you give your baby a playful little snake as a pet, the baby will accept it and get along with it quite as happily as he would with any other plaything. Of course, if you let the baby see that you or others in his environment fear the snake or feel any repugnance for the pet, the baby will soon learn to regard it just as you do. That's the whole secret of the snake and many other phobias of badly educated people.

If you wish to give your child cod liver oil, or even castor oil, the child will take it as readily as he takes his food if you or others in the environment do not teach the child that the cod liver oil or the castor oil is unpleasant. There are more and better ways of teaching a baby things than just telling him. The baby learns to interpret your unconscious facial expression before he learns to understand your oral or verbal expression.

I have just learned to eat, if not to like particularly, caraway seeds in my cookies, buns and similar dewdags. It has taken something like 40 years to break down my repugnance for caraway seeds in or on anything edible. Just how I got that way in the first place I am not sure, but I vaguely recall that Mrs. Kindneighbor used to make the grandest cookies, but besides being subject to eye trouble the good woman always peppered her cookies with a sprinkling of caraway seeds.

Mashed potatoes, well it is comparatively safe to serve 'em to me that way if we're eating some place where it is not permitted to throw things. But it is only when they're mashed that I get peeved about the taters, somehow. I think I associate potatoes in that deplorable state with squash. The most memorable Thanksgiving, so called, dinner was ruined for me because our host insisted on serving a huge mound of squash right along with the turkey. Squash all over the plate, no matter where you tried to spear a bit of meat or stuffin'. And so, ever since, my life has been embittered, for I can't think of Thanksgiving in terms of turkey; it spells just squash to me.

For the dumb there is no moral in this. For the intelligent there should be a good lesson in child training. For the latter class there is nothing more to say. For the former we had better state the precepts:

1. Never discuss food likes or dislikes at table or in the child's presence. Provide proper food in reasonable variety and as attractively prepared and served as possible. Then let all hands take it or leave it.

2. Never urge a child to take any food which he does not like, on the false ground that it will be "good for him." No item of diet justifies that policy.

3. If your offerings fail to appeal to your child's appetite, that's a reflection on your intelligence, skill and tactfulness. Just observe and resolve to do better—but do not scold or harass the child about it.

There Will Be No Lack of Great Men While Poor Boys Continue To Hate Poverty

By Robert Quillen

People who take themselves and the world too seriously look into the future with dread and despair because the "best people" practice birth control while the "common people" remain prolific and no effort is made to mate the best with the best for the development of thoroughbreds.

Their fears are groundless for the simple reason that a man who needs money will try harder than a man who doesn't.

In theory, a man and woman physically faultless and possessed of brilliant minds will have children equally superior to the common run of mankind, and in fact their children will grade higher than the progeny of the stupid and the physically unfit; but all experience has shown that genius seldom is inherited, that the children of excellent parents may inherit the weaknesses of a more remote ancestor, and, finally, that good blood seldom achieves excellence without the benefit of good training.

Nearly all of America's great men of the past came from the ranks of the common people. Our presidents, with few exceptions, were sons of the poor. Nearly all of the big jobs are held by men who know the pinch of poverty.

You may argue that the poor gain more high places than the rich because they are more numerous, but that isn't the reason. Rich men's sons are sufficient in number to fill all of the important posts.

The sons of common people climb higher because they have greater incentive.

Discontent is the inspiration of all progress. A ball doesn't bounce high when it hits something soft. A man never reforms so long as he feels respectable. And sons of the rich and the high are handicapped by the fact that they are content with themselves and their environment.

Aside from the fact that wealth encourages idleness and idleness promotes vice, the sons of the poor have the advantage of a bitter dissatisfaction to spur them on.

In a land where wealth and attainment fix social status, the high are so much like the low and the rich so much like the poor that a child of one class has every natural advantage enjoyed by a child of the other if its parents are sound in mind and body.

If the "best people" quit bearing children, their kind won't disappear. The children of the common people, inspired by discontent, will continue to climb up and qualify as the best.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLLIE MERRICK

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 16.—Eleanor Boardman will come back to talkies and Loretta Young will get the lead opposite Ronald Colman when shooting of the new Colman story begins once again.

Which proves to us that some of the names and faces of the screen are still familiar—despite the cry that new people are displacing all our old favorites. Loretta Young is no old favorite. She is one of the youngest of the pro group to make good; but she made silents also, and that includes her among the crowd identified with movies exclusively.

Eleanor Boardman who has been very much occupied with her new baby of late, returns to the screen in "The Big Meadow" with Johnny Mack Brown. Her talkie ventures have not been gay things from any point of view.

To begin with Eleanor Boardman was the girl chosen by M. G. M. to play opposite Jack Gilbert in that thorough-going flop "Resurrection." Then I saw the Boardman in a picture made by an independent company, a story of Africa called "Mamba," which even Jean Hersholdt couldn't save.

In the interim there was a Roland West story, "She Goes to War," which revealed Eleanor Boardman as a very pretty girl without much to offer the talking picture industry. But one can work wonders with a voice in the time which has lapsed since King Vidor's wife slipped into the semi-obscurity of the non-working element here.

Such is the competition in talking pictures that one finds producers scrapping efforts which do not come up to scratch. From this point of view it is reasonable to believe that Eleanor Boardman has conquered her vocal difficulties else she wouldn't be given a lead in a big picture which is going to cost plenty of money.

As for Loretta Young, she is replacing Constance Cummings, a little girl from the legitimate who had a dizzy experience in a Lonsdale play for Colman.

Loretta Young is capable, available at the time, and of good height and type for Colman. The picture was stopped peremptorily by Goldwyn because it lacked quality, so a choice had to be made quickly. Fortunate for Loretta Young.

Dolores Del Rio and Walter Huston will begin actual filming of a new picture within a week Rehearsals now going on promise one of the best roles for Del Rio that she has had in a long time. As heroine of "The Dove" there is legitimate place for her Spanish accent.

Physical frailness threatens Dolores Del Rio's career. According to Hollywood rumor the toil of movie making is telling on a delicate constitution.

It is hard to rest in Hollywood if you belong to the picture group. Six months' rest is almost equal to being forgotten. Janet Gaynor ran as near to the annihilation line as it safe in this community. And all the efforts of Fox to hasten present production proves the contention.

We are a dear and loyal public when we see our favorites. But we forget them quickly when they are out of sight.

Said the Hollywood wife in speaking to her wandering husband:

"I look at your waistline, your eyes and your hair, darling, and at the rate they're going you'll soon belong to me."

The Hen-Rooster Of Dahlonega Not a Rarity

Editor Constitution: Regarding the cackling egglaying rooster, I fear Dahlonega must be contented to rest its fame on that great editor, W. B. Townsend, and his Nugget.

Such a rooster as you describe is by no means a rarity. They are found among birds of various kinds, but chiefly observed in henneries and among pigeons.

The phenomena is known in science as "gynandromorphism." It is as common among insects (!) as are the crowing prohibitionist cackling over their highballs and cocktails, among us (gynalchomorphs).

As a physiological problem it has been extensively studied. The latest work dealing with it is called "The Development of Sex in Vertebrates," by Professor Roger Brambell, of Kings College, London.

In working out his theories from practical observations and minute studies, he opens up an extraordinary vista for the human race.

FRIENDS OF MURPHY TAKE FIGHT TO COURT

DETROIT, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Court action to force the retirement of Mayor Charles Bowles and the certification of the election of Frank Murphy was started today by a group of attorneys who said they represented the executive committee of the "Citizens Public Rights Club of Detroit."

Murphy's inauguration yesterday was halted when Mayor Bowles filed a petition for a recount of the votes cast in the special election last Tuesday.

The action was filed in circuit court today and was directed against City Clerk Richard W. Reading, John C. Nagel, president of the common council; William P. Bradley, president pro tem. of the council, and members of the city election commission.

clause above mentioned, which limited bidders to concerns which could show at least six months' experience in daily nightly flying over a route of at least 250 miles in length. It is believed that this criticism has caused the holding up of the award of this contract.

SERVICE TO BOOST ACTIVITIES HERE.

Award of the transcontinental contract, one of the most important events in Atlanta's aviation history, is expected by local observers to have the effect of increasing all forms of activity at Candler field, the city's municipal airport, by at least 100 per cent within a short time after the new service is put into operation.

Lee Sanders, local division manager of Gulf Coast Airways, Inc., Atlanta subsidiary of the Aviation Corporation, stated Tuesday night that passenger service over the entire distance would be inaugurated within 30 days after the air mail route is opened. To that end, he said, the company has on hand at its Dallas base three tri-motored Fokker monoplanes, capable of carrying two pilots, 12 passengers and several hundred pounds of mail, and has ordered three other planes of the same type which can be delivered within a week.

Personnel of Service.

Pilots for the new line will be recruited from the present Gulf Coast Airways route from Atlanta to New Orleans and from Southern Air Transport, Inc., Texas subsidiary of the Aviation Corporation, which operates passenger lines throughout that state and other parts of the southwest.

In addition to Atlanta and Los Angeles, Mr. Sanders stated, division points will be maintained at Dallas and El Paso, with most of the motor and plane overhaul work concentrated at Dallas, where shops costing $250,000 recently were erected by Southern Air Transport.

To take care of Gulf Coast's increased activity at Candler field, a lease has been arranged for ground space on which a $30,000 hangar addition 120 feet long by 80 feet deep, will be erected. In addition to augmented storage space for the larger equipment which will be put into use, the new building will provide larger shop facilities, a radio room and a pilot's rest room. B. A. Slater, airport engineer for the Aviation Corporation, is scheduled to arrive here within the next three days to superintend construction of the building.

Mr. Sanders stated Tuesday night that he anticipated the new transcontinental line would carry from 800 to 1,000 pounds each way, daily.

Everybody's Business.

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR.

When Eugene Meyer, Jr., Takes Over Reins of Federal Reserve Bank He Will Find Conditions Far Easier Than Did Any of His Predecessors—Standard Oil of Indiana Head More Hopeful Over Business Future.

When Eugene Meyer, Jr., takes over the office of governor of the federal reserve board at Washington, he will find the federal reserve banks in a particularly easy credit condition.

The rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve bank, of New York, is 2 1-2 per cent, and has been since June 20. Boston, where Roy A. Young has just become governor, has a rate of 3 per cent, established July 3. Each of the ten other federal reserve banks is now on a 3 1-2 per cent basis, Minneapolis being the last to drop from 4 to 3 1-2 per cent, in the last few days.

One or two examples will show the federal reserve banks are loaded with money. September 10, Boston had $212,410,000 in gold reserve and only $10,893,000 in bills discounted by member banks. New York had $982,196,000 in gold and only $26,122,000 in bills discounted; Minneapolis $65,586,000 in gold, and only $4,141,000 in bills discounted, while San Francisco had $295,936,000 in gold reserves and only $7,221,000 in bills rediscounted by member banks.

Together, the twelve federal reserve banks have almost three billion dollars in gold reserves, and only $183,195,000 lent to member banks.

No governor ever took office under easier conditions.

Copper prices are now away below cost of production. When the domestic price was reduced Monday to 10 3-4 cents a pound (the lowest in thirty years), it became a far cry from the 18-cent price in effect from April, 1929, to April, 1930.

Foreign demand is down to little or nothing. So Copper Exporters, Inc., have begun another drive to increase export demand . . . by lowering prices again.

Foreign exporters, knowing there is a huge surplus of copper throughout the world, are sitting tight and waiting. The new prices may start things going, and then again they may not.

Today American copper mines are running in low gear, because copper cannot be produced in any American mine and laid down in New York, at the price quoted above.

Copper, however, can be produced in Chile and other foreign countries and laid down in New York with a profit. As there is no tariff on copper imports these foreign mines can continue to operate with a profit. But the spread even for them is getting pretty thin.

Proration in the oil industry is having its effect. It is still uncertain and confused, and plenty of problems have accompanied it which have not yet been cleared up. But the shutting in of production is largely responsible for the average daily crude oil output having been cut from 2,056,330 barrels on September 7, 1929, to 2,437,050 barrels on September 6, 1930.

The new hydrogenation process, for the production of motor fuel and heavy oils, soon will be given wide sweep in the large plant now being constructed by the Standard Oil Company at Bayonne, N. J. By this new process, under the right conditions, 100 barrels of crude oil can be converted into 100 barrels of gasoline, as against the present average yield of 44 barrels. The new process undoubtedly will revolutionize the industry.

E. G. Seubert, president of the Standard Oil of Indiana, and just back from Europe, is hopeful that the last quarter of 1930 in the United States will equal or exceed the last quarter of 1929.

"Much improvement has been made in the basic economic condition of the oil industry through consistent limitation of crude oil production and runs to the refineries, and recently through reduction of refinery stocks of gasoline," said Mr. Seubert.

"However, continuance of success in these measures hinges upon continued widespread co-operation by voluntary efforts of many producers and refiners. In the marketing end there are serious difficulties because of the unnecessary duplication of outlets. This situation has made competition unusually severe."

"Has business recovery, in your opinion, started?" I asked.

"The growing revival of confidence is perhaps the most promising force at present exerting its influence upward for business recovery," Mr. Seubert replied. "After a period of considerable alarm brought on by declining business, industrial and financial leaders are realizing that the situation is not as bad as it has seemed.

"Comparison with the boom year, 1929, has made 1930 look bad, but comparison with a normal or average year has relieved it of its terrors. It has been recognized that the way to bring about better conditions is to believe in the future, to work hard, to encourage employment and buying."

"If basic conditions are not bad, why does not business recover more quickly?"

"Overcautiousness is holding the recovery back," was the answer. "The buying public had the feeling of prosperity last year and perhaps spent more freely than was wise. The pendulum has swung to the other extreme this year. Depressed by the stock market crash, buyers have held back more than they needed in the exercise of reasonable economy. This, together with the general feeling of depression, has been sufficient to start the cycle of decreased activity, reduced employment and lessened buying power, which must be reversed to bring recovery.

"The general business situation is showing some signs of improvement. I hope the upturn has come. If it has not, we must work still harder and with confidence in improvement shortly."

When E. E. C. Mathis, the producer of the Mathis automobile, small French car, learned how successful the British Austin has been in the United States, he completed plans for the financing of a plant in the United States to market the French automobile.

The plant is being planned with a capacity of 50,000 cars for the first year, and manufacturing is expected to start early in 1931. The site, so far, has not been selected.

2,139,571 Jobless.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Official unemployment figures showed today that on September 8 the number of men out of work in England was 2,139,571. This is 79,127 over the previous week and 989,879 over the previous year.

PACIFIC HOP BACKER STICKS BY BROMLEY

Wife Also Approves of Another Try at Perilous Flight.

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 16.—(NANA)—Approval of another attempt by Lieutenant Harold Bromley and his navigator, Harold Gatty, to span the Pacific by air from Japan to Tacoma was given here Monday by John Buffelen, principal backer of the flight, who has steadfastly maintained that the two fliers were qualified and properly equipped to make the trip.

"Of course, it is up to Bromley," said Buffelen. "He is on the ground and knows the conditions exactly. I will leave it up to him to make the decision. I am back of any decision he may make and I have confidence that he can make the flight. His flight of 25 hours over open sea in face of adverse conditions has clearly demonstrated his ability to fly in the face of heavy odds."

The wealthy Tacoma flight backer expressed satisfaction that the fliers were safe and declared that was his major worry at all times. "I want them to make the flight, of course," he said. "But more than anything I want them to fly to safety. Lives must not be sacrificed in a venture such as this. I expect word from Bromley direct any time now and then we will decide on the next move."

Plainly disappointed but still confident that her husband could span the ocean in his monoplane City of Tacoma, Mrs. Bromley, wife of the intrepid birdman, waited further word here today. "I do not doubt that he will get his machine in shape and try again within the next few days," she said. "He apparently got into some trouble with his plane and had to go back. With that remedied I expect he will just start out again and fly over to Tacoma. Donald and I plan to meet him at Tacoma field one of these days."

YOUNG LA FOLLETTE WINS IN WISCONSIN

tions were held in Delaware and Connecticut.

Former Senator Thomas F. Bayard, a wet, was nominated by Delaware democrats as their candidate for the senate.

He will oppose Senator Daniel O. Hastings, the republican incumbent who is running for relection as a dry. The democrats also adopted a platform advocating repeal of the 18th amendment and the Volstead act.

Bayard was opposed by Josiah Marvel, democratic national committeeman, who was noncommittal on prohibition but was generally supported by the drys.

Connecticut republicans nominated Lieutenant Governor Ernest E. Rogers, a dry, as their candidate for governor, and adopted a platform advocating restoration of liquor control to the states. Mr. Rogers will oppose Dr. Wilbur L. Cross, dean emeritus of Yale University graduate school, who is the wet democratic candidate. The democratic platform advocates repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act.

ORGANIZATION MEN WIN IN NEW YORK.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Organization candidates for republican nomination for congress were successful in the first five of the contested districts in New York state to be reported tonight.

Wetness or dryness seemed to make no difference in the result of the voting.

Mrs. Ruth Pratt, New York's only woman member of the house of representatives, backed by the party organization in the sixteenth, or "silk stocking" district, was given a renomination, defeating George Hiram Mann.

In the twenty-fourth district, former Representtative Ben L. Fairchild was successful in his fight with Charles S. Witwer. This district was captured by the democrats two years ago.

Further upstate, Representative James S. Parker, in the twenty-ninth district, easily defeated Theodore A. Knapp, who is also the democratic designee. Parker's dryness did not seem to count against him in the city of Troy where Knapp was counting upon the support of wet republicans.

Representative Frank Crowther was renominated in the thirtieth district. Crowther, a dry, was opposed by E. Watson Gardiner, who appealed for wet support.

Representative Edmund F. Cooke, with the backing of the Erie county republican organization, was renominated in the forty-first district, defeating Albert C. Killian. Both candidates were wet.

The first democratic district to be heard from, the 40th, showed another organization victory in the success of Roland Crangle, who defeated Frank C. Perkins.

OHIO DEMOCRATS IGNORE PROHIBITION.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 16.—(AP) Battle lines for the November election were completed by Ohio democrats today with adoption by the state convention of a platform free of prohibition utterances, but demanding faithful observance and enforcement of all laws and denunciation of illegal law enforcement.

The platform and speeches teemed with criticism of both the national and state republican administrations and pledged reforms in state matters. The platform pledged reduction in general property taxes, opposed an income tax, general sales tax "or any other new form of tax which will exact a larger toll from those now bearing more than their just share of taxation."

Branding the administration of Governor Myers Y. Cooper, republican, as the "most extravagant, wasteful and unbusinesslike in the history of Ohio," the platform pledged a program of "real economy" in both state and local government.

Though the two chief party candidates, George White for governor, and Robert J. Bulkley for United States senator, are at variance on the prohibition question, White standing for retention and Bulkley for repeal of national prohibition, each considers this a personal matter and the party platform respected their views. Each unequivocally endorsed the other's candidacy and the platform commended both.

BAYARD IS WINNER IN DELAWARE.

DOVER, Del., Sept. 16.—(UN)—Former United States Senator Thomas F. Bayard, of Wilmington, was nominated for United States senator on a wet platform by the democratic state convention here tonight.

Colonel John P. Lefevre, of Dover, also a wet, was nominated for congress.

Senator Bayard defeated Josiah Marvel, of Wilmington, president of the American Bar Association, for the senatorial nomination. Bayard received the votes of 115 delegates, Marvel received the votes of 95 delegates and Bayard received nine votes more than a majority.

SURVEY OF POSTOFFICES COMPLETED BY BROWN

Postmaster-General Will Submit Report to Hoover Soon.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—A survey of the postoffice lease situation, requested by President Hoover in March, has been completed by Postmaster-General Brown. It is to be delivered to the president some time this week.

The just-completed summary has been considered but another step forward in the plan to make the United States owner, not tenant, of the country's important postoffice buildings.

In addresses and annual reports, the postmaster-general repeatedly has called attention to these facts: The department now occupies about 6,500 buildings under leases running from five to 20 years, for which annual rent bill is approximately $17,000,000. In 5,000 tons the main postoffice is in a leased building. In large cities, 1,300 buildings are being leased for branch offices, 100 for garages, 53 for railway mail stations. Highest rental is $36,000 per year, for Chicago's Van Buren street station.

Brown, commenting that the World War compelled the abandonment of federal building at the very time the growth of the parcel post system was necessitating increased quarters, has frequently discussed the rise of the "professional bidder" for postoffices.

These men, he said, specializing in erecting and equipping postal buildings, often offered the government marked advantages over other bidders. But their financing, he said, had sometimes called down criticism, and was "poor business" for the government. He balanced rentals equaling 10 1-2 per cent on the investment against the 4 per cent at which the government can borrow money—and with its real estate tax-free. He noted that sometimes during the comparatively brief term of a lease the government pays full cost of the building—and yet has nothing to show for its investment.

Looking toward ownership, the postoffice department now renews leases only with option to buy. Postmaster-General Brown believes such ownership would mean buildings better suited to postal needs, greater operating efficiency, better working conditions.

"And," he remarked once, "it would free the department from the embarrassment and criticism which has naturally resulted from the practice of negotiating with individuals and corporations for the lease of extensive and valuable properties for government use."

Father Sends Son Back to Chaingang

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 16.—(AP)—The long arm of the law was reinforced by a strong parental hand last night and D. M. Stephens, 21, was back on the county roads today.

Young Stephens, serving three months for petit larceny, escaped yesterday by leaping on the running board of an automobile driven by his 15-year-old wife.

His father, E. G. Stephens, located the couple in Birmingham last night, took him back to camp, and juvenile authorities took charge of his young wife.

200,000 Chinese Face Death by Starvation

SHANGHAI, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Two hundred thousand persons are facing death by starvation near Checheng, Honan province, as the result of warfare, bandit depredations and floods, said a Chinese press dispatch from there today.

The entire number is doomed unless immediate air is givend, the city authorities informed the nationalist government at Nanking.

The afflicted area, within the zone suffering from warfare during the past six months, has been reduced to famine principally because of continual levies of the various war lords.

Militarists, said the dispatch, have taken foodstuffs, carts, mules, cattle and seed grains, rendering the people incapable of sowing crops and otherwise preparing for winter. Bandits and floods completed the destruction.

Canada House Passes Unemployment Bill

OTTAWA, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The $20,000,000 government unemployment bill was passed by the house of commons last night.

Final passage followed defeat of an amendment by J. S. Woodworth, labor member from Winnipeg, that fair wages be instituted in all public work carried out under the fund.

The government's bill, designed to eliminate the dumping of foreign goods in Canada, was before commons on first reading today.

Under the terms of the bill the government may fix the value for duty purposes of "goods of any kind" provided the minister of national revenue reports the goods in question are being imported into Canada under conditions which "prejudicially or injuriously" affect the interests of Canadian producers or manufacturers.

NAUGHTY JAPAN DOLLS ARE ORDERED DEPORTED

SEATTLE, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Ten gross of Japanese Bisquen dolls, which federal authorities said were too naughty to be described in legal phraseology, will be "deported."

A libel action aganst the dolls was dismissed yesterday after persons who had shipped them here for consignment to a New York novelty company agreed to order them sent back to Japan.

NEGRO WORKER KILLED IN SAND PIT CAVE-IN

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Three negro workmen were buried beneath tons of dirt today by a cave-in at the city sand pit here. Other workers rescued two alive, but the third was dead when diggers reached him.

John Forbes, 38, was the negro killed. The others, Isham Roberson and Abram Small, were slightly injured.

Dean Resigns.

OXFORD, Miss., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Dr. J. O. Crider, dean of the University of Mississippi Medical school, has resigned his position, it was announced by college authorities here today. Dr. Crider is now in Philadelphia, where he has accepted the position of professor of physiology of Jefferson Medical College, at Philadelphia.

Coste-Bellonte Reception Plans Fast Taking Shape

Mayor Ragsdale Calls Meeting Friday To Perfect Program for Visit to Atlanta.

Preliminary plans for entertainment of Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, heroes of the first east-west trans-Atlantic plane flight, Tuesday took shape when a committee under Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, general chairman, laid out a pretentious list and decided to perfect details at a meeting to be held at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at his office in the city hall. John K. Ottley, Jr., of the Eastern Air Transport, Inc., is assistant general chairman on arrangements.

W. A. Dunlap, local representative of the department of commerce and secretary of the Atlanta Aero Club, acted as secretary of the meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Included in the entertainment program, as outlined, was a general reception as the famous fliers swoop down on Atlanta at Candler field the morning of October 6, Charles Loridans, French consul, heading the local French club. Hundreds of Atlanta admirers of the pair will be on hand at the reception.

French to Tender Banquet.

That night the French colony in Atlanta will tender the guests a banquet. Early on the morning of October 8 a fleet of cars under the general direction of Al Bell Isle, and furnished by the Atlanta Packard Company, will take them on an extensive tour of Atlanta and its environs, exhibiting historic points of interest. They will return in time for a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock at the Atlanta Athletic Club, tendered by the Atlanta Aero Club, of which Jesse Draper is president.

During the afternoon they will attend the Southeastern Fair at Lakewood with the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce and witness the presentation of aviation day there, and that night will be honor guests at a banquet at the Ansley hotel tendered by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

Lieutenant R. R. Brown, of the army air corps, will represent operators at Candler field, in servicing, storing and otherwise protecting the planes of the fliers and their party. This will be done free of any cost.

Ovation Planned.

Declaring that the plans for entertainment of the guests will equal if not surpass the ovation given to Colonel Charles Lindbergh following the first east-west trans-Atlantic hop, Mayor Ragsdale Tuesday called on Atlanta to join him and other members of the committee in "making the stay of the famous fliers in Atlanta the most delightful of their entire tour."

Mr. Ragsdale asked that all committee members and especially the heads of the various committees attend the meeting Friday afternoon.

In addition to accepting the offer of Mr. Bell Isle and the Packard Company for transportation service, the committee accepted an invitation of the Ansley hotel that the fliers make that hostelry their home as guests of the hotel during their stay in Atlanta.

Members of the committee follow: G. C. Bowden, chairman of the aviation committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce; Henderson Hallman, governor of the Georgia branch, N. A. A.; I. N. Ragsdale, mayor of Atlanta; William B. Hartsfield, former chairman of the aviation committee of the Atlanta borough council; Joe W. Ray, president of the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce; Jesse Draper, president of the Atlanta Aero Club; T. M. Smith, chairman of the aviation committee of the Atlanta borough council; B. S. Barker, executive vice president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce; E. K. Davis, Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills; John K. Ottley, Jr., Eastern Air Transport, Inc.; Charles Loridans, French consular agent, Atlanta; Joe Duckworth, representative of the Curtis-Wright Flying Service; C. H. Dolan, Eastern Air Transport; Lee Sanders, Southern Air Transport Company, Inc.; R. R. Brown, United States army hangar, Candler field; William A. Dunlap, local representative, department of commerce and secretary of the Atlanta Aero Club; Beeler Blevins, pioneer Atlanta commercial flyer, and J. H. Gray, engineer in charge of Candler field.

Chicagoan Named To Federal Reserve

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The advisory council of the federal reserve board today announced appointment of Melvin A. Traylor, of the First National Bank of Chicago, as representative of the seventh district, succeeding the late Frank O. Wetmore, of Chicago.

Howard Loeb, of the Tradesmen's National Bank and Trust Company, of Philadelphia, was announced as the successor on the council of Levi L. Rue, of Philadelphia, resigned.

The council elected B. A. McKinney, of Dallas, former vice president of the council, as president in place of Mr. Wetmore. Walter W. Smith of St. Louis, was elected vice president. These officials will comprise the executive committee of the council together with William C. Potter, of New York; Harris Creech, of Cleveland, Mr. Loeb and Mr. Traylor.

NEWSPAPERS OFFER BEST ADVERTISING

Sears, Roebuck & Co. Plans To Increase Space as Business Grows.

Newspapers afford the most productive forms of advertising, per dollar spent of any media used by Sears, Roebuck & Company, it is reported by officials of the concern, which is planning to celebrate its forty-fourth anniversary beginning Thursday.

"We expect to stick with the newspapers and expand our expenditures as the business grows to warrant it," J. J. St. George, manager of the company's Atlanta district, explained to Arthur Wasser, manager of the retail store here.

For the anniversary observance, the company is using advertising in 543 newspapers in the United States, according to Mr. St. George, and newspaper advertising will form the backbone of the advertising for this anniversary event.

"My information is that Sears, Roebuck & Company will spend approximately $4,250,000 in newspaper advertising during this year," said Mr. St. George. "Part of this will, of course, be spent in telling the world about the anniversary event. We expect to do more advertising than is customary during our anniversary celebration."

It was pointed out that each of the stores in the Atlanta district will share in the increased advertising budget allowed for this anniversary event of the company.

"This forty-fourth birthday of our company finds us larger than ever before," said Mr. St. George. "It is a far cry back to 1886, when our company was founded, but our company has grown more in number of units in the last four years than in the previous 40 years. For this particular celebration we have done everything possible to bring to each city those things which are most wanted. Our buyers have been in the markets for months making special purchases for this celebration of nine days' duration."

Drennan Will Handle Metropolitan Assets

Roy Drennan, an attorney, Tuesday was appointed temporary receiver for certain personal property assets of the Metropolitan Company. The appointment was made by Judge G. H. Howard, of Fulton superior court, at the request of creditors of the company in a hearing on a petition filed by Sig Samuels. Drennan made $2,500 bond as receiver. The order signed by Judge Howard stated that the receivership order should in no way interfere with the right of Mrs. May Inman Gray, owner of the land on which the Metropolitan building is situated, to take steps for repossession of her property.

Howard Coffin Joins Tax Revision Group

Announcement that Howard E. Coffin, chairman of the boards of the Hudson Motor Company and the Sea Island Corporation, had accepted a place on the board of directors of the Georgia Tax Revision Association was made Tuesday by Ernest Camp, secretary.

"Since coming to Georgia," association officials said, "Mr. Coffin has shown a very laudable interest in the affairs of the state and has become profoundly impressed with its opportunities and possibilities. He fully appreciates the inequalities of Georgia's taxing system as it relates to industry and the state's advancement, and is anxious to render the Tax Revision Association all the assistance at his command."

Civil Service Exam Applicants Sought

Applications for civil service examinations to fill positions of senior topographic draftsman, topographic draftsman, assistant and junior topographic draftsman will be received until October 1 at the offices of the commission in the Federal building. These positions pay $1,440 to $2,000 annually.

Until September 24, applications to fill the position of gardener at the Veteran's hospital in Atlanta, which pays $1,320 to $1,620 annually, will be received by the commission also.

LAFAYETTE LANIER DIES AFTER SHORT ILLNESS

Prominent North Georgian Succumbs in Longdale Hospital.

WEST POINT, Ga., Sept. 16.—Lafayette Lanier, 48, son of the late LaFayette Lanier, Sr., and Mrs. Ada A. Lanier, of this city, died at the Longdale hospital at 9 o'clock Monday morning following an illness of only three days.

Mr. Lanier was stricken last Saturday and underwent an operation to relieve intestinal obstruction Sunday night. He seemed to rally favorably following the operation, and Monday morning was thought to be recovering. At noon Monday, however, it was found that the relief had been temporary.

Mr. Lanier was a member of one of the south's most distinguished families, and was widely known. He was a member of the West Point Christian church and of the board of deacons of that church. He was a Mason and Shriner, a member and past president of the West Point Rotary Club, and of the Ivanhoe Lodge, No. 21, Knights of Pythias. He was identified with all civic movements, a member of the board of education of Chambers county at the time of his death, an office to which he had been elected without opposition for several terms.

Mr. Lanier was a man of fine business ability and a leading figure in the large business enterprises of this section, being agent of the West Point Manufacturing Company, operators of the six textile mills of the Chattahooche valley, president of the Wehadkee Yarn mills, at Rock Mills, Ala.; director of the Citizens Bank & Trust Company, West Point; director of the Chattahoochee Valley railway, and of other large local enterprises.

Funeral services will be conducted from the home in Longdale at 3 o'clock Wednesday, and interment will be in the Marseilles cemetery here.

Mr. Lanier is survived by his widow; two daughters, Misses Mary and Alice Lanier; five sons, Lafayette, Jr., Henry, Robert, Bryant and Harry Lanier; a brother, George H. Lanier, and three sisters, Mrs. R. D. Dixon, of West Point; Mrs. Harold H. Hinton and Mrs. Deupree Hunnicutt, of Athens, Ga., and a number of other relatives.

FUTURE FARMERS' CONTEST OCTOBER 25

ATHENS, Sept. 17.—(AP)—The southern elimination meet of the national speaking contest of the Future Farmers of America will be held at the Georgia State College of Agriculture here October 25.

Contestants from Georgia, Florida, Oklahoma, South Carolina, North Carolina, Tennessee, Virgina and Arkansas have entered.

The winner will represent the south in the national contest at Kansas City. Georgia will be represented by Bill Smith, of Mt. Zion.

Second Hart Brother Held in Lee Shooting

EASTMAN, Ga., Sept. 16.—(AP) Rufus Hart, 18, today had joined his brother, Edgar, 24, in jail here on a charge of murder arising from the fatal shooting of Andrew Lee last Thursday night.

Rufus surrendered last night to Sheriff G. C. Rogers. Both brothers have refused to discuss the case. Authorities were proceeding on the theory that Lee was shot in an automobile quarrel and thrown over a fence into a field.

BEEKEEPERS CONVENE AT WAYCROSS TODAY

WAYCROSS, Ga., Sept. 16.—Officers of the Georgia Beekeepers' Association, including President L. N. Hodges, of Oliver, and Secretary J. R. Hunter, of Quitman, arrived in Waycross today make final plans in conference with J. J. Wilder and the Waycross Chamber of Commerce, for the eleventh annual convention of the association, which will be held here Wednesday and Thursday.

The convention will bring to Waycross several outstanding bee authorities of the United States, among them being James I. Hambleton, federal authority on bee culture, of Washington, D. C.; also Professor E. Oertel, of Baton Rouge, La.

Among the other speakers on the two-day program will be A. B. Hamlin, of Macon; R. E. Foster, of Gainesville, Fla.; J. M. Cutts, of Montgomery, Ala.; J. J. Wilder, of Waycross, who is known as "The Bee King of America;" Mrs. L. J. Loos, of Savannah; Miss Lizzie Mae Hancock, of Waycross; N. L. Stapleton, of Colquitt; President L. N. Hodges and Secretary J. R. Hunter.

The address of welcome at the opening session Wednesday morning will be by E. J. Trotter, secretary of the Waycross Chamber of Commerce.

A visit to the Okefenokee apiaries of Hamp Mizell, south Georgia naturalist, will be one of the outstanding features of the two-day convention. A fish fry will be arranged on the banks of Suwanee lake by Mr. Mizell.

Too Much Business Closes Matrimonial Mart of Glen Toole

MACON, Ga., Sept. 16.—(AP)—The Glen Toole and Dave Jones marriage bureau here has closed. Too much business.

It started when Jones, a lonely Texan, wrote to Mayor Toole requesting his aid in locating a suitable spouse. Scores of women answered the appeal and then men began writing asking the names of the left-overs.

Other women, hearing this, wrote asking the names of the extra men. It soon was worse than a chain letter affair.

Enough was too much. If Jones can't pick a wife from among the names he already has it is just too bad, said Mayor Toole, and announced that all letters received on the matter from now on will find a hasty home in the official waste basket.

PRESCRIPTION
tested by 47 YEARS' PRACTICE

THERE'S one way to help the bowels that is safe, and sure. It empties them of all the poisonous waste without doing any harm. Its action is thorough but so gentle that it never causes the least discomfort.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin always does the work, and it leaves you feeling fine. You can take it freely, reducing the amount as the bowels grow stronger.

If you feel sluggish, can't eat, have dull headaches, feel tired, weak and run-down, this famous doctor's prescription will help get rid of the waste that is probably clogging your system. If the children have coated tongue or bad breath; if they seem bilious, fretful, upset, give them a little Syrup Pepsin, too. It tastes so good they'll like it, and it can't hurt them. Its gentle aid is ideal for women.

By taking a little at those times when they are most likely to be constipated, they can avoid much discomfort. Its mild but thorough action commends it to older men and women, too.

Dr. Caldwell specialized on the bowels. His prescription of laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other ingredients has been tested by 47 years' practice. Get a bottle from your drugstore. Take some next time you feel the need. Then you'll know why "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin" is the family laxative of millions.

SOCIAL LAWS NEEDED, GRAND JURY IS TOLD

Good Citizenship First, Judge Persons Says in Henry County Charge.

M'DONOUGH, Ga., Sept. 16.—"If America should fail in her social democracy it would not be because she lacked natural resources, invigorating climate, or opportunities to develop her latent potentialities, but it would be because America is bankrupt in developing civic character," said Judge G. Ogden Persons in his charge to the grand jury at the opening here of the superior court of Henry county.

Judge Persons called the attention of the grand jurors to the fact that they were supposed to be of superior intelligence and of a higher type of character. "A tremendous responsibility rests upon you, gentlemen of the grand jury," he continued. "You are called upon to judge the innocent as well as to ascertain the guilty; to see that justice is done and to preyent persecution."

In addition, Judge Persons said: "It is claimed that the grand jury is full of cumbersome circumlocution. My opinion is that you stimulate public opinion as to civic righteousness. Every grand juror, every trial juror, every judge, every prosecuting attorney, every sheriff, every bailiff, every officer has a tremendously serious duty to perform. Because of the seriousness of this task people in authority should be righteous."

Outlines Duties.

In outlining the duties of the jurors Judge Persons stressed the necessity of each juror himself searching before he attempted to weigh the his own life and making it righteous balances.

"Every man who breaks any law is unfortunate," he declared, "and not just the ones who get caught."

In showing that he believed that the great body of the American people was trying to lead upright lives, Judge Persons cited the public school system of the United States. "The public schools show how people are growing better. The children are being transported to and from school by the counties, are being taught in good schoolhouses by the counties and are given every opportunity by their communities to be developed into high types of citizens.

"Our national success depends upon the quality of our citizenship. Our government is a social democracy. If that should fail, no form of government would be left but a dictatorship or anarchy," he declared. "If this government should fall it would be worse than the fall of ancient Rome, which plunged the world into darkness for a thousand years. In thinking of the seriousness of the situation, I am appalled at the fact that men who should be leaders are indifferent and apathetic."

As an illustration of the tendency to disregard social laws, Judge Persons called attention to the evasion of the 18th amendment. He traced the development of the prohibition sentiment in Georgia and cited cases to show how each modification of the present law resulted in evil.

Grave Danger Seen.

"Americans should be aroused to the dangers in the present situation," he declared. "We need to arouse a resistance to crime in the lives of children in every school."

He deplored the present "lynching epidemic" and congratulated Henry county on the fact that in so far as he knew no such outrage had been committed in the county. He pleaded with the jury in case such a circumstance should arise to provide for the accused party all due process of law.

"One of the most serious things we have to consider," he went on, "is the improper use of the automobile. Putting whisky into a man who is driving a car is making him a potential murderer." He also cited the abuse of the motor vehicle laws that have to do with licensing drivers of freight trucks and motor busses.

"If something cannot be done to regulate the use of automobiles," he said, after disclosing figures showing that the number of people killed by automobiles this year in the United States exceeded the number of Americans killed in the World War, "it would be better for the country to revert to the solid-wheel ox-cart age in which there was some regard for human life."

He pointed out the fact that there were laws regulating fire and urged investigation of these statutes. In conclusion he said, stressing the enforcement of every law, "Laws are passed for the ultimate gain of society."

E. M. Copeland was elected foreman of the grand jury, and G. B. D. Beard bailiff. The following men comprise the jury:

E. M. Copeland, T. W. Peterman, J. H. Chafin, Epps Rowan, E. B. Daniel, A. H. Tingle, M. R. Stephenson, O. W. Price, R. R. Askew, J. H. Haynes, L. C. Dupree, H. A. Adams, J. I. Elliott, J. C. Cook, A. C. Richardson, T. A. Sloan, Jr., M. W. Hooten, M. M. Crumbley, Fred Carmichael, J. O. Rutherford, T. H. Rosser, G. C. Clark, J. Harvey Jordan.

Civil cases are being considered this week and criminal cases will be disposed of next week. Only routine work will come up at this term of court.

Florida Men Pay $190 for Killing Deer Out of Season

ST. MARY, Ga., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Two deer, found in their possession out of season, cost Mike Tilliakas and John Kolissick, of Fernandina, Fla., $190 each.

The two men were assessed a $50 fine each in Fernandina, $30 court costs and they paid a fine of $50 against Grant Truebloom, negro, held on the same charge.

Later Sheriff Payne, of Camden county, Ga., swore out warrants against Tilliakas and Kolissick on information that the deer had been killed in Georgia.

George, Sutton Address Convention of Kiwanians

JACKSON, Ga., Sept. 16.—Features on Tuesday's program of the fourteenth annual convention of the Georgia district of Kiwanis International, being held in Jackson for three days, were addresses by Harper Gatton, vice president of Kiwanis International, of Madisonville, Ky.; Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools in Atlanta, and an impromptu address by United States Senator Walter F. George.

Mr. Gatton brought the Georgia district a message from the international organization while Mr. Sutton spoke on "Vocational Guidance and Placement," one of the prime objectives of Kiwanis. Senator George, member of the Vienna Kiwanis Club, and a visitor at Indian Springs, was one of the distinguished visitors attending the convention and spoke briefly.

The morning session was devoted to the registration of delegates and the convention was opened with W. B. Gibbs, district governor, of Jesup, presiding. Visitors were welcomed to Jackson and Butts county by O. A. Pound, past governor of the Georgia district, and Lieutenant-Governor Erwin Sibley, of Milledgeville, responded.

At 1 o'clock the six divisions, presided over by the lieutenant governors, were entertained at luncheon.

At that time nominations were made for lieutenant governors for the ensuing year. In the afternoon the speakers' contest, "Kiwanis—What Is It and Where Is It Going"—was held and Miss Susan Mathews, of the Georgia College of Agriculture, made a talk on "Food Problems on Georgia Farms."

Features of entertainment Tuesday consisted of the division luncheons, and a barbecue on the Jackson school grounds.

Ladies attending the convention were complimented with a tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Buttrill. The governor's ball was held at the Foy hotel, Indian Springs.

The business session was to be concluded Wednesday morning. Reports of District Secretary and Treasurer W. L. Harwell, reports of the committees on nominations, credentials, convention attendance, resolution, and elections will be made. Orville A. Park, of Macon, will make an address Wednesday morning on the constitution. Gainesville and Augusta are bidding for the 1931 convention. It is understood that Fred Sned, of the Atlanta club, will be elected district governor for the ensuing year.

ARGUMENT IN SWAMP LEADS TO SHOOTING

COLQUITT, Ga., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Hubert Vann, of Miller county, lay critically wounded in a Bainbridge hospital Monday while authorities sought to reconstruct his account of the shooting in which he named Keller Godfrey, gin worker, as his assailant.

Vann was found unconscious Monday by E. E. Hornsby and his son near Twilight bridge in the southern part of the county. He had been shot in the head. After an examination here, he was taken to Bainbridge.

Decatur county officers said he had named Godfrey as the man who fired the shot.

Vann said he, Godfrey, J. W. Ludlum and Redden Sheffield gambled at Sheffield's home Sunday night and that he was winner. After the game, Vann told authorities, they got in an automobile and started home. The statement did not say whether Sheffield was in the machine.

All had been drinking, Vann said, and as they approached a swamp an argument arose. Vann said Godfrey shot him. Vann then was thrown from the car, he said, and the others drove away.

Fearing they would return, he said he ran through the woods until he stumbled over a log and lost consciousness.

M'INTYRE MAN KILLS HIMSELF WITH SHOT

McINTYRE, Ga., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Francis W. Patterson, 30, night foreman for Edgar Brothers' clay plant, shot and killed himself in his home here tonight, according to the report of officers who investigated.

Relatives said that he had recovered from a recent operation and was back at work again.

Tonight Mrs. Patterson said she was preparing supper, and asked her husband if he was going to work and his reply was said to have been: "After you get supper I'll tell you."

Mr. Patterson had appeared in good spirits late in the afternoon, playing with his five little children.

When his wife left him to prepare supper he is said to have obtained a pistol. With this he shot himself in the head, according to information furnished county officers. When Mrs. Patterson reached him, she said, he was dying.

GEORGIA FRUIT CROP PROSPECTS IMPROVED

Potatoes and Sweet Potatoes Badly Hampered by Drouth.

Production prospects for peaches, pears and apples have improved slightly this month, the weekly bulletin of the bureau of agricultural economics, United States department of agriculture, issued Tuesday, said.

The potato crop was cut sharply by the drouth. Sweet potatoes were reduced several million bushels.

Grape shipments were increasing rapidly, and heavier movements also were indicated for potatoes, apples, onions and cabbages. Higher prices were registered for potatoes and lettuce.

The peach crop now is forecast at about 48,461,000 bushels, approximately 6 per cent larger than the 1929 crop. In the southern states where the crop has been harvested shipments confirm the forecast and production has been estimated at 10,088,000 bushels.

A slight improvement was reported in Florida citrus with the September condition of oranges at 84 per cent, grapefruit at 80, and tangerines at 79.

Prospects still were good for an abundance of market supplies. Forwardings of new crop grapefruit from Florida points were becoming quite heavy by mid-September and imports from Cuba and Porto Rico were numerous.

Florida shipped 190 cars of grapefruit last week to California's eight.

The condition of California oranges and grapefruit was 85 per cent.

WESLEYAN TO OPEN 1930-31 TERM TODAY

MACON, Ga., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Wesleyan College students will assemble in the gymnasium at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning with their parents and friends to hear an address by Dr. Goodrich C. White, dean of Emory University, and to participate in the exercises which mark the formal opening of the institution.

Bishop John M. Moore, who has recently assumed charge of the Georgia and Florida conferences, is expected to conduct the devotional exercises.

Welcome to the student body will be expressed by Elizabeth Anderson, Macon, president of the student goverument, and by Miss Sarah Erwin, Cochran, president of the Y. W. C. A.

A musical program will be given on which Miss Eunice Harper, contralto, and Edgar Howerton, tenor, will sing.

One of the features of the program will be the presentation of a large copy of the painting, "The Last Supper," by Dr. Samuel C. Dobbs, of Atlanta, member of the board of trustees, to the college. Dr. William F. Quillian, acting president, who will be in charge of the exercises, will accept the gift.

Exercises for the opening of the conservatory will be held at 11 o'clock Thursday morning in the chapel on College street.

Sumter Is Lacking Funds To Conduct Runoff Primary

AMERICUS, Ga., Sept. 16.—Politicians here today were busy arranging ways and means for holding a run-over primary in the gubernatorial race between George M. Carswell and Richard B. Russell. Investigation has revealed there are no funds at the disposal of the Sumter county democratic executive committee and several hundred dollars will be required to defray expenses of the balloting, funds for holding the first primary were furnished through the payment of entrance fees by local candidates but it appeared this afternoon that some other means would be necessary to find funds to defray expenses of the run-over.

Friends of the rival candidates are discussing the matter and unless it should develop that the county is authorized to defray expenses of the primary, these, in all probability, will furnish needed cash for that purpose.

ATLANTAN IS ADDED TO MUSIC FACULTY

WAYCROSS, Ga., Sept. 16.—The Ware Conservatory of Music here announces the addition to its staff of Miss Isabella Smith, of New York city, and Jake Matthiesen, of Atlanta.

Miss Smith studied at the Cincinnati Conservatory and later under Lynwood Farnum, in New York, and Marcel Dupre in Paris. She has the distinction of being the first woman to give a public organ recital in Paris. She has served as choirmaster in Nice and in New York.

Mr. Matthiesen studied at the Zechwer Conservatory and for the past 25 years has been one of the outstanding musicians of Atlanta, being the organizer of the Atlanta Symphony.

GREATER EXECUTIVE POWER IS FAVORED

MACON, Ga., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Douglas Carlisle, Bibb county representative-elect, in a speech before members of the Exchange Club today urged more power for the governor, simplified educational system and merging of small counties. He said he also would seek to reduce the amount of money spent annually for highway work, explaining that the state revenue was only $30,000,000 and $17,000,000 spent for roads.

Seeks One Prisoner, But Takes Home Two

MACON, Ga., Sept. 16.—(AP). Police Lieutenant George F. Wiggins, of Saginaw, Mich., came here late Monday to get one prisoner, but he will leave on his return trip tomorrow with two, it developed.

The prisoner for whom Lieutenant Wiggins came is Elic McTrice, holdup man, who has just completed serving a term of two years in the Bibb county chain gang. He will return with McTrice and Orville Snyder, McTrice's companion in the attempted holdup of a filling station here in 1927. Both are wanted for similar offenses in Michigan, the officer stated.

McTrice had completed his sentence here, but Snyder had 60 days more to serve. In order to avoid making another trip south, the officer obtained permission from the prison board and from Governor Hardman to return both men. Requisitions were signed today.

DUBLIN, Ga., Sept. 16.—(AP)—A number of Laurens county farmers, meeting in the courthouse here, have started a movement for a co-operative marketing organization in this section.

C. H. Kittrell was named temporary chairman of the organization and W. H. Protor was elected temporary secretary.

HAPEVILLE MAN SHOT, ACCUSES MYSTERY TRIO

Authorities Suspect Hijack-Moonshine Feud as Cause of Gunplay.

GRIFFIN, Ga., Sept. 16.—(AP)—While Charlie Brannon, 23, of Hapeville, lay at the point of death here Tuesday night, authorities were seeking to determine if unidentified assassins shot him down without provocation or if he is the victim of a moonshiners-hijackers' feud.

He stumbled into a filling station here early today. He would not talk until doctors told him he had been shot through the body and probably would die.

Then he said three unidentified men shot him without warning last night as he waited on a highway near here to "pick up" a ride to Miami.

A theory was advanced to officers that Brannon was a member of a party of hijackers who were fired on last night by a Pike county moonshiner. The hijackers attempted to make the moonshiner "pay off" and he shot at them.

GRAND JURY RETURNS 9 MURDER CHARGES

AUGUSTA, Ga., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Seven indictments for murder were returned Monday by the Richmond county grand jury.

Three persons, Jesse Godwin, Clifford Rollins and Charles Godwin were indicted in the slaying of Walter Barnes, negro clerk employed by Nathan Widener, operator of a store in the county. Charles Godwin was named in the indictment as the actual slayer and the other two as conspirators.

W. H. Morton was indicted for murder in the death of J. W. Young who was fatally injured when struck by an automobile said to have been driven by Morton.

Henderson House and Henry Sanders, negroes, were indicted for the slaying during an attempted holdup of Loo Chong, Chinese store owner.

GEORGIAN, 17, SLAYS BRIDE OF 2 MONTHS

TAMPA, Fla., Sept. 16.—(AP)—John Hicks, 17, who lives on a farm near Moultrie, Ga., shot and fatally wounded his wife, 16, at her home here this afternoon. He shot her three times with a .38-caliber revolver and she died two hours later in a hospital.

Hicks, found by police with the gun, calmly told police of the shooting which climaxed a domestic quarrel. The couple had been married about two months, he said, and his wife left him to stay with relatives here. He said she refused to return with him to Georgia. A quarrel followed and he shot her. Hicks arrived here yesterday to persuade his wife to return with him.

PRISONER BELIEVED LOST IN BIG SWAMP

Apprehension Expressed for Escaped Florida "Lifer."

VALDOSTA, Ga., Sept. 16.—Some fears are being expressed over the fate of W. C. Sword, an elderly white man from Sarasota county, Florida, who made his escape recently from the state prison at Raiford, Fla., where he was serving a life sentence for first degree murder.

Sword, while fleeing from the Florida prison, was brought nearly to Valdosta by his son, Victor Sword, the elder man leaving the truck at Mud Swamp, a few miles south of this city, last Thursday. Sword was quite ill when he left the truck and his family and entered the edge of the swamp, fearing to continue on to Valdosta. Subsequent search for the missing man failed to show any trace of him despite the fact that the county track dogs were used for several hours.

Officers say that it is possible that Sword may have made his way through the swamp and detoured Valdosta and continued northward. However, there are those who believe that the man ill and weak may have wandered far into the swamp and become lost, finally passing away from exposure.

Captain Brown, from the Raiford prison, spent several days here carrying on a search for Sword, being assisted by local officers. However, he never found the slightest clue to indicate what became of the fugitive after he left his family south of the city.

Chicken, Roosting On Darkened Light, Costly to Motorist

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Policemen here are wise in the ways of chickens, but even less alert men should know in this age that all chickens shun light at night.

And thereby hangs this tale.

Comes the defendant charged with driving his automobile without a tail light. "But judge," he said in police court, "I know it was burning. My wife and I noticed it when we left home."

A policeman examined his car and returned to the court with a little red hen.

"This your honor," said he, "is a hen. She is the property of the defendant and was roosting on his tail light. It is obvious she got on it at home and—"

The motorist lost.

BANK DEPOSITORS TO MEET THURSDAY

MACON, Ga., Sept. 16.—(AP)—George L. Blossom, receiver for the defunct Merchants and Mechanics Bank, has announced that a meeting of depositors will take place next Thursday when the institution's creditors will be given a summary of its financial status.

The bank was closed recently after T. Wallace Hawkes, president, had admitted a shortage of more than $91,000.

Hawkes is now held in the Bibb county jail refusing to let friends make bond for him.

DRY LAW VIOLATOR SUED FOR DIVORCE

MACON, Ga., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Mae Giles Jabo filed suit in superior court here today seeking divorce and alimony from J. A. Jabo, who recently was sentenced to serve nine months in prison or pay $1,000 fine for violation of the prohibition law.

In her petition Mrs. Jabo claims her husband "is constantly having affairs with other women," but she did not name a co-respondent. She asked that the court restrain her husband from disposing of an automobile, she valued at $400, saying she paid for it with her own money.

KENTUCKY

By Ed Danforth.

Kentucky this season shares with Vanderbilt, Tennessee and North Carolina the doubtful honor of having been written into the Southern conference championship months ago.

Away back yonder when it rained that time, if you can remember that far, one heard that Kentucky had 'em, just like Vanderbilt, Tennessee and North Carolina.

It was with no little curiosity that I approached Stoll field to look at this squad that was held as one of the good things of the 1930 gridiron tournament. For one thing I wanted to see what Coach Harry Gamage could find wrong with the situation. Coach Gamage, for a young man, is a most pessimistic customer. Things never have been exactly right. A year ago he admitted they might be worse which was tantamount to his predicting a successful season.

It had not rained in Lexington, Ky., since early in April (about the close of the spring race meeting) folks said. The upper end of Stoll field on which the Blues practice was covered with dusty bluegrass. As the vast squad of piano-movers lumbered around in their workout they kicked up puffs of dust that hung like fog over the field. They coughed and sputtered but did not complain. They are too well schooled in the Gamage system of business admin- ing it.

Lost Entire Second Team

"I thought we were going to be in fine shape this year," Coach Gamage began, "but, doggone it, we lost all our second team. The men that we had counted on from spring practice as reserves this fall have not shown up for one reason or another. One of them went off to beat his way around the world; he may be mixed up in the Chinese revolution by now; I hope he is. He was a fine lineman. Then the man we had counted on to fill in at Drury's old tackle did not come back to school. It does look like out of all that bunch of bruisers out there we could find one tackle, but there is not a single one. We will have a pretty good first team, but when we make a substitution they had better call the ambulance."

Now that is Kentucky's trouble, acocrding to Coach Gamage. A visitor might think that he saw a good tackle in Burt Aldridge, a 190-pound sophomore who worked this summer digging coal. Or another in Bob Baughman, who won a letter last year as a reserve, or in Frank Seale, 230, sophomore, or any one of several others in the line squad.

But the head coach says that Babe Wright, who played tackle last year, is his sole dependable player at that position. He added that all his time from now on will be the discovery and development of one or two hunks of Kentucky brawn to labor along with Wright.

Otherwise it appears that Kentucky is set for its most serious bid for the conference championship. The line that manhandled the Tennessee forward wall that snowy Thanksgiving Day in 1929 has returned almost intact and the backfield crew again is ready to weave through the intricate Illinois shift and run with the ball. Backfield substitutes are numerous, too.

Powerful Veteran Line

At center is Howard Williams, 210, who played so well in Atlanta in the All-Star game. Behind him is Max Colker, as he was last year. Williams is sure to be one of the outstanding centers this season. At one guard is Captain "Floppy" Forquer, 200, another who is certain to make a reputation this fall in fast company. His running mate will be Connie Rose, 190, a veteran. Behind them are John Kipping, a 195-pound sophomore, and John Drury, 190, brother of the last year's captain.

Babe Wright, 205, is the only veteran tackle. Aldridge and Baughman are candidates for the other berth. Coach Gamage is experimenting with one or two of his ends as tackles and is working some with "Big" McGinnis, a basketball star who has not played football at college, in hopes of finding hidden treasure.

Four letter ends—Ken Andrews, Jim Cavana, George Yates and Jake Bronston—are available. However, Darrell Darby, no relation to the Kentucky Darbys, is a hustling sophomore who threatens to horn in on the flank party.

With exception of the tackles, that should be one of the best rush lines in the conference.

Versatile Backfield Returns

Behind the line the Blues sparkle and glitter. Carey Spicer, veteran quarterback of last year, is back and with nim as reserve signal caller is Bo Myers, a letterman of light poundage.

Listed as a quarterback also is Ellis Johnson, the sophomore of whom Kentuckians have been talking since his freshman year. Johnson is a good kicker, runner and passer and has a fine competitive temperament. Yet he probably cannot live up to what his constituents expect of him. No man could.

Two regular halfbacks, "Shipwreck" Kelly and Cecil Urbaniak, are on the job again. Shipwreck spent the summer running under the auspices of the New York Athletic Club. He finished second in the "220" at Pittsburgh in fast time and undoubtedly is much improved in speed. Shipwreck is due to have a great year and no mistake. He looks less like an athlete than any man you ever saw, yet he gets where he is going in a hurry. Foster, Bickel and Evans are sophomore reserves.

Schedule Task Not Difficult

Kentucky plays what should be an easy schedule for a strong team. Only two games with championship contenders are carded. These are with Alabama and Tennessee.

The presence of Alabama on the card in Kentucky's case is the equivalent of four hard games, however; something always happens when Kentucky plays Alabama and the Tide wins. Kentucky would have to be five touchdowns better than the Tide to win by one point.

The Blues start off with Sewanee and Maryville. Then they take on Washington & Lee and Virginia before meeting Alabama. Duke and V. M. I. come next, followed by Tennessee in Knoxville. None of these games except Alabama and Tennessee should upset the Wildcats.

Kentucky has a royal chance to win them all. Be sure that eventually Coach Gamage will manufacture a tackle or two; and the Blue will be ready to step out. They have a magnificent line that will average close to 190 pounds and is smart. They have a backfield that can pick them up and put them down. The punting and passing will be first-class and the defensive play sound and well coached as to passes. Barring accidents, the Kentuckians should come mighty close to a championship.

Orioles Purchase Durham Battery

BALTIMORE, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Purchase of Dick Cherry, left-handed pitcher, and Bill O'Malley, catcher, from the Durham (N. C.) club of the Piedmont league, was announced today by the Baltimore Orioles. They will report next spring.

Sixth Game Rained Out in Sally Series

MACON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The sixth game of the post-season championship series between Greenville and Macon was postponed here today because of rain. Greenville leads in the series with three victories against two for Macon. The two teams will meet here again tomorrow.

SUITABLE FOE BEING SOUGHT FOR STRIBLING

By Walter P. Wilkes.

Atlanta fight fans who have been languishing for a real close-up, in-the-flesh view of Young Stribling since that famous Georgia product rose to international prominence as the foremost contender for Max Schmeling's synthetic crown, are to have their wish gratified at an early November date.

This became known Tuesday afternoon, after a conference of Atlanta Baseball and Amusement Corporation officials with "Pa" Stribling, who came up from Macon for the meeting and agreed to terms for an outdoor bout at Spiller Field against the best opponent procurable.

Definite announcement of Stribling's opponent is expected within the next few days. L. W. (Chip) Robert, president of the corporation, and R. J. Spiller, vice president, have seven men under consideration—K. O. Christner, Tuffy Griffiths, Maurice Griselle (French champion who stayed 10 rounds in Paris with W. L.), Primo Carnera, Babe Hunt, Ernie Schaaf and Arthur DeKuh—and the most suitable of these fighters with whom satisfactory terms can be arranged will be the man chosen.

It is certain that this will be the biggest outdoor bout ever staged in Georgia. Seating arrangements for around 25,000 spectators will be provided, and a reasonably priced ticket scale will be adhered to, the primary purpose of the whole affair being to show Stribling in action against a worthy opponent before "home folks."

EAGER TO FIGHT.

There was no difficulty in getting the Striblings to agree to terms. They welcomed the chance to show before Atlanta fans to whom they will always be grateful for the encouragement and backing extended W. L. years ago when—as a raw school boy—he began his long, but brilliant climb to the top of the pugilistic ladder.

Other plans of the Striblings are still in a state of uncertainty. Indications are that W. L. will take on a warm-up bout at Grand Rapids, Mich., next month, and there is still a chance that Nate Lewis will close the Stribling-Griffiths match he has been seeking for the Chicago stadium October 24. It is by no means certain, however, that this will go through, and Atlanta may yet land this fight, one of the greatest attractions available in boxing today.

Pa Stribling will leave Atlanta today for Macon, go thence to join W. L. on the family farm at Ochlochnee, and probably will return here Friday for another conference with the local promoters.

It was also learned yesterday that Mike Benton, chairman of the Junion Chamber of Commerce "Sports Day" committee at the Southeastern Fair October 8, has arranged for Stribling to referee a bout to be held at Lakewood under direction of Jake Abel.

Strib To Referee "Sports Day" Fight.

Featured by the presence of W. L. (Young) Stribling as the third man in the ring of a main boxing event, Sports Day at the Southeastern Fair will be staged on Wednesday, October 8, at the Lakewood Park grounds, it was announced Tuesday.

Assurance Young Stribling will act as one of the principals on the Sports Day program, which is being sponsored at the Southeastern exposition by the Junior Chamber of Commerce was givin Tuesday afternoon by "Pa" Stribling in a conference here with representatives of the Jaycees, who several days ago invited the world's championship boxing contender to participate in the Sports and Aviation Day programs.

The Striblings will come to Atlanta from Macon on October 7 by airplane and will take part in the welcome ceremonies which will be given at the Fair grounds for Dieudonne Coste and Maurice

W. L. Forced Down By Storm Clouds

MACON, Ga., Sept. 16.—(AP) W. L. (Young) Stribling, heavyweight fighter who carried Jack Dempsey from Macon to Augusta in his plane this afternoon, was forced to land at Louisville, Ga., on the return trip, according to messages received at the local airport.

The forced landing was made on account of rain, rough weather and a low ceiling, it was stated.

Stribling's wife and Mrs. Foy Boone were with him on the return flight. They expect to return here when the weather clears up.

Over the long-distance telephone the fighter said that he had reached Milledgeville, 30 miles from the Macon airport, when the storm around Macon was so bad that he tried to fly around it. He failed to find a way through, he said, and then returned to Louisville's field, where he landed safely.

He said that he might go to Augusta tonight. When informed that he had been expected to referee in that city tonight he expressed surprise.

Visits Hoover

Bobby Jones, king of all golfers, yesterday paid a visit to President Hoover before the Atlanta's benefit match at Washington. The President wished Bob all success in his battle for his fourth major title of the year.

HOOVER WISHES BOBBY SUCCESS

Jones Visits President; He and Mac Smith Win Match.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The president of the United States and the king of golfers met today at the White House.

Robert T. Jones, American open and British amateur and open champion, who is on his way to the American amateur tournament, stopped in and was greeted by President Hoover, who wished him success in his attempt to capture the fourth of the major golf crowns.

Jones was accompanied by Freddie McLeod, Washington professional; MacDonald Smith, veteran professional, and Roland MacKenzie, a member of the American Walker cup team, with whom he played a benefit match at the Columbia Country Club here today.

Bob, Mac Smith Win in Exhibition.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(Special.)—The exhibition golf match on the Columbia Country Club course today in which Robert T. Jones, Jr., winner of 12 major championship titles, was paired with Roland MacKenzie, of the home club, against McDonald Smith, runner-up to Jones in the British and American national opens, and Fred McLeod, Columbia club professional, resulted in a victory for the two amateurs when, on the 18th green, Smith failed to run down a 10-foot putt, which would have halved the match.

At the halfway mark the players, who were followed by a gallery of over 3,000 golf enthusiasts, were all even, but MacKenzie gave his side a one-hole margin when he ran down a birdie 3 on the 10th hole.

McDonald Smith, holing out a 15-foot putt for a birdie 3 on the 14th hole, squared the match again, but both Jones and MacKenzie won the 16th with par 3's. MacKenzie narrowly missing a birdie 2, while Smith missed a 4-foot putt which would have halved the hole.

Smith compensated for this error by holing a long putt on the 17th green for a birdie 3, again making the match all square.

On the 18th hole, Jones, who was the only player on the green in two, secured a safe four, while MacKenzie played out of a trap close to the pin for another four. Smith and McLeod, both short of the green on their second shot, holed out in five and lost the match by one up.

Jones	35-36—71
MacKenzie	38-35—73
Smith	35-34—69
McLeod	36-37—73

Goodman Plays Amateur Course.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16.—(AP) Johnny Goodman, youthful Omaha golfer who routed Bobby Jones from the national amateur championship at Pebble Beach, Calif., in the first round last year, played his first round today over the east course of the Merion Cricket Club and scored a 72, only two strokes over par. He went out in 39, three strokes over perfect figures, and returned in 33, one under par.

Goodman arrived in the city with a group of British, Canadian and Pacific coast stars. He played a round with Ted Johnston, holder of the Philadelphia amateur title, and was one stroke below his partner. Jones is expected tomorrow.

Lawson Little, the Presido, Calif., youngster who eliminated Goodman in the second round of the 1929 national amateur tournament, was another of today's arrivals. He also played a practice round, scoring 38-35-73.

Chick Evans, who has been practicing on the course several days, went around in 35-40—75.

By Herb Clark.

What with one thing and another, those Yellow Jackets Coach Bill Alexander is molding out at Georgia Tech looked quite well in their scrimmage session at the Rose Bowl Tuesday afternoon.

They did not, to be sure, look anything like finished products. They did not look as the coaches hope they will in time. There were glaring faults in almost every play. Few were run as they should have been. There were faults in the work of individuals, too numerous to breed satisfaction.

LOOKED BETTER.

But, by comparison with the scrimmage of Monday, the Jackets looked good. On the basis of that comparison, of course, they should have felt badly indeed had they not looked good. For they were terrible Monday.

Tuesday there were fine spots in the scrimmage. There were plays which clicked like a Swiss watch. There were players who performed in mid-season form, and the varsity as a whole did more of the up-ending than the Grey Devils, which was gratifying to the coaches who had watched what they deemed their best elevens handled rudely by those same Grey Devils Monday.

DUNLAP AT QUARTER.

The first team which took the field against the Devils, with Captain Earl Dunlap calling plays for Barron and Graydon and Cain and a line of Jones and Herron, ends; Speer and Fincher, tackles; Edwards and Ezell, guards, and Farmer, center, tore through, over and around the Grey Devils with a decision induced by a desire for vengeance and a spirit induced by what seemed to be a real wish to do better.

The line still showed the effects of the earliness of the season, tiring after their exertions in tearing holes open and stopping ambitious Grey Devil backs. They did that job well, too.

Dunlap handled his backs skillfully, working them for two touchdowns and a number of nice gains. Texas Tom Cain smacked the Devil line for the first score after a long march, crashing his way for about eight yards.

Pat Barron reeled off a 30-yard trek through what might well have been an unpopulated waste for the other just before that crew left the field. Those were the scores, but all the backs did their part in carrying the ball along.

NEW SQUAD.

Coach Alex called him up a crew of Isaacs and Goldsmith, ends; Maree and Holt, tackles; Brooke and Stalnaker, guards; Neblett, center; Flowers, quarterback; Hart and Cherry, halfbacks, and Oltz, fullback, and sent it out to see.

That crew was led by "Parson Jim" Brooke, who took the day's line laurels by real play, opening nice holes and blocking well on the attack, and making life hard for the Devils in general.

The holes were used, as intended, by all four of the backs, with Jap Hart and Ben Cherry doing most of the gaining in a march capped by a plunge over those last two lines by "Stutz" Oltz, the Indiana blizzard.

WEATHERFORD HURT.

Bus Weatherford, speedy back, was injured in the closing moments of the drill when he was tackled smashingly after snapping a forward pass. Injured, but not for long, opined Trainer Mike Chambers. Chambers also reported that he would have MacArthur's charley horse and Hungerford's knee in good shape again before the end of the week.

Another scrimmage is planned for this afternoon. The week's program includes one day of rest, just which one being uncertain at the moment, with a stiff scrimmage slated for Saturday's closing.

Tech Freshmen To Start Today.

Freshmen, whole gobs of them, are slated to don uniforms for the first time of the season at the Rose Bowl field this afternoon as yearling practice is started.

The opening of classes for the first-year men will be the signal for the activity.

Coach Kid Clay expects to have a bulky squad for the first few days, with precedent calling for approximately 100 of the yearlings to come out and trot around.

A number of former prep school stars from all over the south have filed to enter school, and it is expected that Dixie's "Little Napoleon" will be able to mold himself a good club out of the material on hand.

Selling Plater in Spectacular Rise

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Jem, a four-year-old son of Friar Rockcubanita, owned by Mrs. Emil Denemark, of Chicago, has hoisted himself from the selling plater class to the handicap division by five straight victories.

Jem was claimed by Mrs. Denemark from C. W. Ogle after he had won three straight over indifferent fields at Hawthorne. Yesterday at Lincoln Fields he easily defeated a field that included Rolled Stockings, Typhoon and Jean La Fitte, in a mile and a sixteenth race.

CHILEAN IS VICTOR.

What's the Matter?

His Chicago Cubs knocked from the top of the National league by the pennant-mad Brooklyn Robins and St. Louis Cardinals, Manager Joe McCarthy, Bruin pilot, is doing some serious and fancy worrying as the close of the race draws near. Cub officials are also worrying about having to return the world series ticket applications they are now holding.

Gamecocks Hold Fast To Traditional Spirit

South Carolina Gridmen Bear Title Made Famous by Sumter During Revolution.

By Ralph McGill.

When the Boston tea party brought the boys in buckskin pants out with their long rifles there were quite a lot of the British to shoot at in the neighborhood of what is now South Carolina.

South Carolina had many famous generals in that era who had a strong dislike for a tax on tea. What they would do now with a tax on cigarets and what have you is problematical. In those days men were men.

Two of South Carolina's most famous generals were Sumter and Marion.

Marion was called "the Swamp Fox" because of his proclivity for sticking around on some island in the swampy morasses of the Palmetto state and descending on the British just when they least expected it.

Marion did not attack until he was sure of victory. He was a great source of annoyance to the British because he made them appear very silly indeed by beating them with a handful of muddy, ragged men who could shoot those squirrel rifles.

ANOTHER PAIN.

General Tom Sumter was another who caused the British more than ordinary pain. He was, as the boys say over at the gas house, the antithesis of Marion, the Swamp Fox.

He was always ready to fight. Not only that but he was always looking for a fight. And how that man could find them.

HIS NAME.

And it is his name which has come down to the South Carolina football team, which meets Tech here October 4. It is a name that the South Carolinians hold very dear because it has a tradition behind it.

The South Carolina football team got the name in 1902 when they had a team which averaged about 145 pounds.

They won some games too, a fullback named Guy Gunter, tearing up opposing lines with great ferocity that year. The Atlanta papers said of him that he couldn't be stopped.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS.

And that was in the day of the giant lines, chosen for their beef and size and not for their speed or what they had above the ears. Gunter could crack those lines and his mates were equally game.

The story goes that an old-timer was sitting in the stands that year watching the little Carolinians fight their heavier foes from up state. He became quite stirred up about them.

"Just like old Sumter and his gamecocks," he yelled. And the name stuck. Since then the South Carolina football team had that name and attempted to live up to it. No Gamecock team ever quits.

MANY NAMES.

There are many attractive football names. Many are named Tigers or Bulldogs, for obvious reasons.

Kozeluh, Richards Win First Matches

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 16. (AP)—Form held its own at the opening of the fourth annual American professional lawn tennis championship today as Karel Kozeluh, of Czechoslovakia, defending champion, and Vincent Richards, of New York, advanced without trouble.

Kozeluh eliminated Captain Valerian Yavorsky, a one-time Russian nobleman, now coaching at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., 6-1, 6-0, 6-0, while Richards put out two rivals, John Collom, of Baltimore, 6-1, 6-4, 7-5, and John Cardegna, Ardsley, N. Y., 6-0, 6-2, 6-2.

Pierre Etchebaster, of France, world's court tennis champion, was beaten in the first round by Murray Dolman, of White Plains, 4-6, 6-2, 6-1, 6-1.

Cotton States Ace Purchased by Cats

FORT WORTH, Texas, Sept. 16. (AP)—The purchase of P. B. Schmidt, young right-hand pitcher, from the Eldorado club of the Cotton States league, has been announced by the Fort Worth baseball club.

"Schmitty" is only 19 years old and 1930 was his first season in professional baseball. He is 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 190 pounds. He won 12 and lost 6 games while with the Eldorado team.

VANCE SUFFERS 1-TO-0 DEFEAT IN GREAT GAME

Al Lopez Ruins Chance for Victory by Hitting Into Twin Killing.

By George Kirksey,
United News Staff Writer.

EBBETS FIELD, BROOKLYN, Sept. 16.—(UN)—The St. Louis Cardinals beat the Brooklyn Robins, 1-0, in a titanic 10-inning struggle here today, breaking Brooklyn's 11-game winning streak and taking the National League lead by the margin of 1 percentage point.

A crowd of 28,000—the biggest of the season at Ebbetts Field—witnessed the game, and most of them left the park limp, and exhausted after sitting through more action than has been packed into a big league baseball game in years.

Through nine innings Dazzy Vance, Brooklyn ace, and "Wild Bill" Hallahan, St. Louis southpaw, the latter with a smashed finger on his glove hand, were deadlocked in a thrilling pitching duel.

Victory came to the Cardinals in the tenth inning, after they had been handcuffed by Vance on every previous opportunity they had to score. Little Andy High batted for Gelbert to start the tenth and drove a double to right field. With two strikes on him, Hallahan sacrificed, High moving to third.

WINNING RUN.

The Cardinals had won the game, as it turned out, but they had to save it in the tenth. Glenn Wright, first up for Brooklyn, drove a long double to left center which almost hopped into the circus seats for a home run. Bissonette worked Hallahan for a walk.

Then Hendrick sacrificed with a bunt down the third base line, moving Wright to third and Bissonette to second.

STAGE ALL SET.

The stage was now all set for Brooklyn to win the game, with men on third and second, and only one out. Jake Flowers, a dangerous hitter, was sent into bat for Finn. Hallahan elected to pass Flowers, filling the bases.

Then Lopez came up. The crowd went wild, throwing newspapers, programs and other debris onto the field. Lopez lashed a liner toward Adams, who had moved over to short in place of Gelbert. The ball took one bound and Adams fielded it near second base.

He juggled the ball, as Wright was racing home with the tying run and Bissonette was tearing for third with the winning run. Many ball players would have given up, but Adams didn't. He finally got hold of the ball, tosed it to Frisch to force Flowers. Then Frisch whipped the ball to Bottomley with a rifle-like throw to nip Lopez by a step and complete a double play which ended the game.

THE STANDING.

The standing of the two leaders as they go into the second game of the all-important three-game series tomorow is:

	W.	L.	Pct.	Games Behind.	Games to Play.
St. Louis	83	60	.580	...	11
Brooklyn	84	61	.579	...	9

For thrills, few baseball games have ever equalled this one. Many plays which happen only once in several seasons happened today.

FINGER SMASHED.

Hallahan, who had the middle finger of his right hand smashed in a taxicab door last night, had a no-hit game in his grasp until Hendrick singled with one out in the eighth. Until the seventh inning Brooklyn failed to get a man on base, Herman reaching first safely after two were out when Hallahan fumbled his easy roller.

Vance's pitching was only a trifle inferior and he had to pitch himself out of a couple of close places. In the first inning Bissonette saved a run with a great catch of Bottomley's liner after Adams had doubled.

Babe Herman made a spectacular running, one-hand catch of Douthit's long fly to center in the fifth which cut off two runs. Watkins had singled and Gelbert had doubled before Herman made his catch with two out.

Sparky Adams almost stole home on Vance in the sixth. Adams led off with a single, took second on Frisch's out, and went to third on Bottomley's sacrifice fly to Moore. Then, with Hafey at bat, Adams caught Vance napping and was almost across the plate before Vance let the ball go. The ball hit Hafey, and became dead, thereby nullifying Adams' daring effort. Hafey took first as a result of being hit by a

Taken for 'Ride', Rhem Returns to Hurl Today

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 17.—(AP)—(Wednesday)—The Globe-Democrat says today Pitcher Flint Rhem of the Cardinals, due to pitch today's crucial game against the Brooklyn Robins at Brooklyn, returned to the Cardinals' hotel last night in New York and reported he had been forced to go riding with two armed men who poured liquor into him all last night and today. Rhem had been missing since yesterday.

Rhem said the men, after taking him to a roadhouse and forcing him to drink, drove him back to within several blocks of the Cardinals' hotel last night, warning him not to pitch against Brooklyn.

"It sure is a funny thing," Rhem told Manager Gabby Street, the Globe-Democrat's staff correspondent reported. "Here I am tryin' to be good and this turns up. What could I do? They just made me go along with them. I haven't had any sleep for more than 36 hours, but I don't care what they warned me not to do. I am ready to pitch."

Chicks Have Score To Settle in Title Series at Memphis Today

PANTHERS OWN GREAT RECORD IN DIXIE SERIES

Texans Have Beat Chicks Twice; Won 5 of 6 Starts.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 16.—(AP)—When the Fort Worth Panthers and the Memphis Chickasaws go forth to battle tomorrow in the opening tilt of the 10th official Dixie series, the Chickasaws will have as a score to settle two previous defeats of a Memphis club by a Fort Worth team against the urge to the Texans of maintaining the prestige of seven victories in the nine times Southern and Texas league champions have clashed in post-season fray.

This in addition to the high prize at stake, the glory of being crowned southern Class "A" baseball champions of 1930.

It will be the sixth time Fort Worth has carried the colors of the Texas league into the series and the third time Memphis had the honors for the Southern association, each time against Fort Worth. In 1921 Fort Worth won four games to two and in 1924 four games to three. Fort Worth has lost only one of its six starts, to Mobile in 1922.

This year the Chicks will enter a team strong both offensively and defensively. Latest statistics for the Southern season which ended Sunday gave the Memphis club a team batting average of .307 and nine players hitting .300 or better. Memphis lead the league in fielding with a percentage of .966.

Two former major league players, Thompson "Doc" Prothro and Frank "Pancho" Snyder, will direct the play of the contending clubs. Prothro as a playing manager will do his directing of the Memphis club from third base. Snyder will pass orders from the coaching line.

Three players who took part in the 1924 meeting will have a hand in the 1930 tussle, Prothro and Harry Kelly, a Memphis pitcher, and Jack Tavener, Fort Worth shortstop.

Series Applications Stack Up On Cubs

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The present status of the Cubs in the National league standing has not dampened the hopes of more than 1,000 middle western fans.

That many applications for world series seats were stacked away yesterday in the Cubs' offices, not to be opened until the club either does or does not get up there.

Queen of Olympic Divers To Marry

GREENWICH, Conn., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Helen Meany, holder of the woman's Olympic low board diving championship, and Henry Russell Ballé, New York broker, applied for a marriage license here yesterday it was learned today.

The couple did not announce the date of their wedding, but under a Connecticut statute five days must elapse after an application for a license is made before they can be married.

Miss Meany gave her age as 25 years, while her prospective husband said he was 38 years old. Their engagement was announced some time ago.

PTOMEY SIGNED FOR ATTAWAY

Another of the series of open-air boxing bouts will be held Thursday night, September 25, at Fort McPherson, it was announced Tuesday by Lieutenant E. C. Mack.

Stiles Attaway, who recently defeated Harley Baker, has been matched with Willie Ptomey, the Fort Benning ace, in the main go.

Neither of the boxers need any introduction to local fight fans. Both have given good account of themselves in former auditorium fights and are ready to stage another of those knockout battles.

Piedmont Junior 11 To Play Carrollton

WADLEY, Ala., Sept. 16.—The Piedmont Junior Tiger football team will do battle here with the strong Carrollton A. & M. football team on Saturday, September 20, at 1 p. m. Speeches by Will Walton, Dr. Jenkins, Dr. Beougher and Tom Heflin will follow the football game.

Both teams are practicing hard for the fray, and as it is the first game of the season for both, each wants to make a creditable showing. Piedmont will depend on six sophomores and five freshmen to bear the brunt of the battle.

N. B. A. GRANTS CARNERA CLEAR BILL OF HEALTH

Italian Ranked Number 3 and Has California Ban Lifted.

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Primo Carnera, the giant Italian seeker of the heavyweight throne, monopolized the late session of the National Boxing Association yesterday.

Primo first threw his shadow across the convention when the business of ranking the heavyweight fighters was begun. Primo loomed just as big to the delegates when it came to rating his fighting prowess as he does to opponents when he heaves his bulk into the ring.

Primo passed every heavyweight in America with the exception of Young Stribling, of Georgia, even Jack Sharkey taking a back seat.

He was No. 3 in the ratings, with Stribling No. 2 and Sharkey No. 4.

Max Schmeling, of Germany, was No. 1, but that was a matter of mere voting.

Primo next took the spotlight when his California suspension was brought up. Again he was a winner, the association giving him a clean bill through the process of passing a resolution.

This resolution was to the effect that hereafter the N. B. A. would not recognize any suspension placed against a fighter by a non-member state. The resolution further read that in recognizing the California suspension, the N. B. A. had been in the wrong inasmuch as California was not a member of the association.

Carnera Faces Gross Tonight.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Primo Carnera will make his second professional appearance in Chicago, and his twenty-third in the United States, tomorrow night in the Chicago stadium. Jack Gross, a left-handed heavyweight from Philadelphia, will be his opponent in what is billed as a ten-round bout.

N. B. A. Is Seeking Control of Boxing.

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 16.—(AP)—A resolution providing for suspension of boxers participating in contests held in states other than those affiliated with the National Boxing Association was passed at the closing session of the organization tonight. The action, by which the association hopes to obtain control over the fistic profession in all states, was sponsored by Stanley Isaacs, of Cincinnati, former president.

"After January 1 any boxer that performs in New York, California, Pennsylvania or Massachusetts (not members of the N. B. A.) will not be used in the N. B. A. member states."

Commenting that New York at present is the center of the fight industry, Isaacs said "either New York will have all the boxers or we (the N. B. A.) will.

"If we all stick together it will work," he continued. "These states, I think, will come in and join the association. You must have a central body controlling boxing or you will have no boxing at all."

Passage of the resolution was unanimous.

John V. Clinnin, of Chicago, chairman of the Illinois boxing commission, was elected president of the N. B. A., succeeding Stanley M. Isaacs. The association voted to establish permanent headquarters in Chicago.

The association also organized a national wrestling association, which will have no connection with the N. B. A. Colonel Harry J. Landry, of New Orleans, was named as president and New Orleans was chosen as its headquarters.

CARDS DEFEAT ROBINS FOR LEAD

pitched ball and Adams was forced to go back to third.

Brooklyn made a bid to win the game in the ninth when Lopez opened the inning with a single. Vance bunted almost on top of the plate, and was thrown out at first, Lopez taking second. Frisch made a vigorous protest that the ball was foul, and Umpire Rigler at first concurred with him and then Umpire Klem at the plate reversed his decision. This caused an uproar among the players of both teams.

Then Vance bunted down third base line and was safe when Adams tried for Lopez, but the Robin beat the throw. With one out, Eddie Moore, one of the best bunters in the league, attempted to sacrifice and the result was a foul pop fly which rolled off his bat into Mancuso's glove, and Lopez was doubled off second.

TWIN KILLING.

These two double plays in the ninth and tenth ruined Brooklyn's efforts to score, but Hallahan really outpitched Vance, who had a couple of great plays to help him out of holes. Vance fanned 11 men, within two of his season's record of 13 made last Thursday against the Cubs. Hallahan fanned four.

Charley Gelbert, Cardinals' shortstop, was knocked unconscious and received a bruised and cut face when Finn charged into him in the eighth inning in an effort to stretch a single. Gelbert was revived and continued play, but later had to leave the game.

Adolfo Luque for Brooklyn and Flint Rhem for St. Louis will pitch the second game tomorrow.

By Jack Troy.

Oglethorpe's first and second elevens combined forces Tuesday afternoon to score five touchdowns against the freshmen cohorts of Coach Hoke Bell. The yearlings offered stubborn resistance, however, and the majority of the counters came as the result of see-saw battles up and down Hermance field.

Coach Harry Robertson started his second team in the fray and they were slow in gaining the momentum necessary to push the tenacious first-year gridders back over their goal line. That was the ultimate result, however, John Putno, fullback, bucking to the first touchdown.

The varsity, with the exception of Parker Bryant, on the sick list, then trotted out into their regular places, and Frank Anderson, Jr., and Dapper Myers swung into action, with Captain Claude Herrin, who was getting his first taste of the contact work in several days. Herrin wore a hose guard which didn't hamper his play.

After gaining on bucks and end runs, a pass play was called and Anderson dropped back and flung a long, accurate forward to Lefty Sypert, who didn't stop until he had crossed the goal line for touchdown No. 2.

Jimmy Woodard replaced Captain Herrin in the backfield and was responsible for the third score, taking a short pass from Anderson and dashing through the broken field, dodging and twisting across the final stripe.

Myers bucked the fourth counter over and Ray Walker flashed away on a sweeping end run, aided by stellar interference, to complete the day's scoring.

The varsity squad exhibited plenty of life and fight and interference, for the most part, was considerably improved. More scrimmage will be the order today, together with plenty of signal drill and practice in various phases of offense and defense.

Pros of Atlanta Meet on Thursday

A meeting of the golf professionals of the four Atlanta municipal courses will be held at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon in Robert Parks' office at 26 Cain street.

Plans for a municipal golf tournament will be discussed at the meeting. Robert Parks is secretary of the Atlanta Municipal Golfers' Association.

LOSSES BOTHER AT DARLINGTON

ROME, Ga., Sept. 16.—With only four lettermen back, Charlie Scott, coach of the Darlington school, is working like a Trojan to prepare his gridders for his "suicide schedule," which opens with Boys' High on Spiller field, Atlanta, September 27.

The Tigers' power was greatly weakened by the loss of Marion Talley, its All-Southern fullback captain, now at Auburn; Bob Tharpe, stellar end, who is out for a berth on the Georgia Tech rat squad, and 10 others.

Frank Rogers, of Rome, brother of Jelly Rogers, of All-Southern fame at the University of Georgia several years ago, is Scott's best forward. Although young Rogers weighs only 145 pounds, he starred as guard last season and is in fine fettle this year. Phil Jones, a blond streak from West Point, tipping the scales at a scant 132 pounds, is the sole monogram man in the Purple backfield.

A squad of 30 other candidates representing six southern states and California, are grinding daily for places on the Darlington eleven. Although extremely light, many of them show good form.

Lanier High (Macon) at Rome.
Morgan School (Tenn.) at Rome.
Castle Heights (Tenn.) at Rome.
McCallie (Tenn.) at Rome.
T. M. I. (Tenn.) at Sweetwater.
Riverside (Ga.) at Gainesville.
A. M. I. (Ala.) at Rome.

'THE FOX' RUNS TODAY IN RICH GOLD CUP RACE

Turf Champion Enters Two-Mile Event—Sande To Ride.

The Fox steps out of his class for the second time this year tomorrow, when he starts in the longest race of his career—the $10,000 jockey gold cup at two miles—but unlike his other appearances he will have only one horse to beat. That horse is A. C. Bostwick's Yarn, also three-year-old, but considered to have very little chance of turning back the Fox and his great riding partner, Earl Sande.

Thoroughbreds of the handicap division, which incidentally is unusually weak this season, have evidently been scared out of Belmont Park's closing day's classic by the brilliant record of the Fox, who seems to revel in distance and more of it. On his first appearance with older horses, Gallant Fox easily won the Saratoga cup. Both the Fox and Yarn will pack 114 pounds tomorrow while there may be an added starter, as second and third money is worth battling for.

FIVE MEN HOLD FATE OF VOLS' GRID MACHINE

McEver, Hackman, Dodd, Brandt and Hug Will Bear Burden.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 16.—(AP)—A sturdy team built around five of the south's most colorful gridmen will carry the University of Tennessee's hopes into the Southern conference football conflict this season.

Tennessee's quintet of veteran stars, on which the life of the team will largely depend, are the well-known Eugene McEver and Buddy Hackman, scoring halfbacks; Paul Huz and Fritz Brandt, flashy ends, and Bobby Dodd, gawky six-footer, who places footballs with deadly aim with toe or hand.

The Vols face a hard schedule. North Carolina, Kentucky, Alabama and Vanderbilt are rated as Tennessee's toughest foes, with Florida and Mississippi expected to give plenty of trouble.

Coach Bob Neyland, starting his fifth season at Tennessee, predicts that only a run of injuries will keep the Orange and White eleven from wrecking the championship hopes of several of its mighty opponents.

Tennessee's coaches—Neyland, Britton and Parker—have a wealth of backfield and line reserves this season. Their greatest problem is to find substitutes for Endmen Hug and Brandt. More than 50 men have been going through the grind of early season practice.

Tennessee fans are highly hopeful that the Vol eleven, undefeated since 1926, will carry through to the 1930 Southern conference championship. Coach Neyland says little. He has expressed concern over McEver, who was kept out of the opening practice by a bad knee injury suffered in a baseball game during the summer.

These 'Enterprises' Prove Excellent Teachers Of Conduct and Racing

By Tom Horgan,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 16.—(AP)—There was once a little navy schooner called the Enterprise and she taught the Barbary pirates a thing or two about international deportment. Tomorrow Harold S. Vanderbilt and the sloop Enterprise which he and his associates built to defend the America's cup, are to give Shamrock V, her skipper, Ned Heard, and her owner, Sir Thomas Lipton, their third lesson in yacht racing.

Yesterday and Saturday Enterprise led Shamrock V over the 30-mile open ocean course, which has its start nine miles southeast of Brenton reef lightship. Today's race was halted by a heavy fog.

Enterprise scored her two straight victories in air so light that the theory that the British challenger was a dangerous invader in mild weather has been discarded by the few who still retain any faith in the green sloop. The breeze Saturday had a maximum velocity of about eight miles an hour and yesterday it reached ten. In both races Shamrock followed Enterprise over the course.

Yesterday the 80-year-old Irish baronet's fifth challenger left part of her ballast ashore, a ton of it, in the hope she could be got going, but her performance was even more sluggish than in the opening contest.

As a result the decision was reached, after a conference of Shamrock's afterguard, to restore the ballast to its original content. It was a tacit admission of the challenger's mistake and, simultaneously, her intention to rely on better luck and seamanship in whatever prospect she may have of staging a comeback.

BIGGER MARGIN.

Where Enterprise took the opening race by slightly less than three minutes' margin, she romped home ahead by 9 minutes, 34 seconds, approximately two miles of water separating the rivals.

Those of Shamrock's afterguard who watch the races from Sir Thomas' steam yacht Erin hoped that no race would be sailed today. Some change in rig was contemplated in the hope of getting more speed out of the green sloop and the one day intermission was used in experimentations.

Enterprise now needs but two more victories to keep the America's cup, won in 1851. Shamrock to lift the cup would have to take four of the possibly five remaining races.

TARHEEL BACKS GET TEST TODAY IN SCRIMMAGE

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Sept. 16. With first scrimmage tentatively promised for Wednesday, weather permitting, the Carolina football squad took a good rest today in preparation for a third week's practice that will call for more intensive work.

The big squad of 70 men was whipping into shape fairly well as Saturday's two practices brought a temporary cessation of training. Much remains to be accomplished, however, before Coaches Collins, Cerney and Fetzer present their 1930 machine to Wake Forest here September 27, and there will be no let-up.

Scrimmage will be no new thing to the Tarheels' line candidates, for line scrimmage has been the order of the day almost since the opening of practice. The backs, however, have worked only at running, side-stepping, day will tell the tale of whether Collins's eight galloping veteran horsemen may be expected to keep last year's dizzy pace.

These ball carriers—Wyrick and Branch, quarters; Captain Nash, Magner, Slusser, Maus, Erickson, halfbacks, and House, fullback—as well as several of the rookies looked good in blocking practices the last of the week, and concensus of opinion is that the Tarheel backs will be outstanding again.

Line problems remained serious as the coaches planned their third week's work, and training will probably be concentrated on solving these problems during the next few days.

Duke Frosh Have Three Home Games

DURHAM, N. C., Sept. 16.—Duke University freshmen will begin their fall football activities on Wednesday afternoon under Coaches Herschell Caldwell and Ellis Hagler. Approximately 100 youngsters are expected to report.

All five of the freshman games will be played in North Carolina this year, three of them in the home stadium.

A special freshman athletic field has been set aside for their use and goal posts and tackling dummies installed. The quality of the material comprising the squad will be an unknown matter for several weeks.

The freshman schedule:

October 18—N. C. State at Durham.
October 25—Oak Ridge at Durham.
November 1—Wake Forest at Wake Forest.
November 11—University of N. C. at Durham.
November 21—Davidson at Davidson.

Tartans Enter Third Week of Training.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 16.—A signal drill in the morning and scrimmage in the afternoon today started the Carnegie Tech football squad on its third week of training at Skibo camp.

The scrimmage session in the afternoon showed rapidly increasing smoothness on the varsity, but naturally, there is still much to be done before the opener. With the opening of school just a few days away, when the time allotted for workouts will be cut down to but a few hours each evening, the men are being pushed rather severely. Coaches Steffen and Waddell have designed a program for the next five days which will show up any faulty timing in the many intricate plays for which the Tartan teams are famous.

Ted and Foe Have Old Grudge To Settle Friday Night.

Fans may not realize it, but it looks as though the battle between Tod Smith, of Cleveland, and Ted Goodrich, "Atlanta's own," as "Fat" Elrod would say, is going to develop into something resembling a grudge fight Friday night at the Atlanta theater.

Tod has been making insinuations that Goodrich ran out of a scheduled bout with him not so long ago, and Ted is anxious to show Smith that he should have been really glad that the match fell through, for Ted is determined of one thing and that is to drop the middle-westerner with as little delay as possible.

Goodrich, with this bout as his main objective, has been working hard during the past two weeks, and when he enters the ring Friday night is going to be in the best shape of his career, if Billy Lotz has anything to say about it. Lotz is Ted's new trainer and he has been working on Ted with the idea of making him able to stay the entire limit, if necessary, and still battle at top speed.

Smith is no novice at the game, having battled some of the best welterweights in the middle west, and on a recent battling tour in the east he made a very fine impression with the fans and sport writers there. He has put away some good boys and feels confident that he will be able to do the same to Goodrich.

So far, besides the 10-round main attraction, Matchmaker Jay Jarvis has been successful in signing Johnny Flynn, of Chattanooga, to battle Jack Taylor, of Birmingham. Flynn is an up-and-coming welter of the first water, and has held his own with Farmer Joe Cooper, Billy Algers, Ted Goodrich, Tod Smith and Jimmy Sullivan. In fact, Flynn has a record that reads like this: 140 bouts, 115 victories, 15 draws and 10 losses. He has never been knocked out and has scored 28 kayoes.

Jack Taylor will be hard put to it to get by with a victory, but as he put up a real battle against Stiles Attaway last week, Jarvis feels sure Taylor will be able to take care of himself.

These two matches alone will be worth the price of admission, but the usual list of preliminaries will be added.

Tony Manero Wins Glen Falls Tourney

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 16. (AP)—Tony Manero, Elmsford pro, smashing par on three of the four rounds, today won the Glens Falls open golf tournament with a 276 for the 72 holes. He was four strokes ahead of Gene Sarazen and Bobby Cruikshank, tied in second place with 280 each.

Manero put together rounds of 67, 72, 68 and 69 to lead the field of more than 130 players. Sarazen and Cruickshank both shattered par twice in the four rounds, the former scoring 67, 76, 72 and a remarkable 65 and the Purchase, N. Y., Scot shooting 73, 68, 70 and 69. Sarazen's last round saved him after a bad 76 on the second 18 holes.

Following the three leaders came a parade of outstanding professionals. Johnny Farrell, Craig Wood and Bill Mehlhorn tied at 285. Then came Joe Tunesa and John Golden with 287 each, Horton Smith with 289, and Jim Barnes, Billy Burke and Al Espinosa each shot 291. Several of these broke or tied par at some stage of the tournament, but 73s and 74s sprinkled over their cards ruined any hopes of pressing the leaders.

Manero carried off the $1,000 purse. Second place was worth $500. Eddie Miller, Gadsden, Ala., finished with a score of 302.

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 16.—Some 40 splattered Georgia Bulldogs splashed their way through their third scrimmage of the year in a sea of mud and a driving rain on old Sanford field this afternoon.

Harry Mehre told his squad yesterday that they would scrimmage today, "rain or shine," and the Bulldog head coach kept his word this afternoon. For the Bulldogs took the field after an all-day rain that had left mud puddles all over the playing field. The rain was falling steadily when the Bulldogs went out and it was still coming down when they went to the showers an hour and a half later.

The Red Devils got the brunt of the work this afternoon, although they were on defense all of the time.

Mehre pulled a surprise today when he put Lloyd Gilmore, sophomore fullback from Worcester, Mass., into the lineup with the varsity. Gilmore, who brought himself before the eyes of Coach Mehre by his work Saturday, took the place of Jack "The Ripper" Roberts, out for several days on account of injuries. He covered the field this afternoon and broke through the hard-fighting Reds on two occasions to get in the clear for touchdowns.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(AP)—John the Barber, boxer, fight promoter and one of Broadway's best known figures for three decades, died Sunday in Lebanon hospital. Death resulted from an infected finger. He was 57 years old.

His real name was John J. Reisler, and one of his claims to fame was that he discovered Jack Dempsey.

"I bought Dempsey his first suit of clothes," John was quoted as saying. "He didn't weigh 160 pounds then. His toes were sticking out of his shoes. I bought him everything from underwear to collar buttons, and what did he do? He ran out on me."

Reisler eventually sued Dempsey for breach of contract, and after prolonged litigation the case was settled out of court.

One of Broadway's show places was John's barber shop, reconstructed from the Mayfair theater in West 44th street. There amid Versailles mirrors, green marble basins and near-jade fittings worked a corps of 25 manicurists, who, John said, had been recruited from the "pick of Broadway beauty choruses." The manicurists were ready to sing or dance for the patrons as well as groom their fingernails.

TIGERS IMPROVE IN THIRD BATTLE

AUBURN, Ala., Sept. 16.—Scrimmages, with emphasis placed on the blocking, are being given to the Auburn Tigers every afternoon by the Auburn mentors. Tuesday the third scrimmage in a row was given the aspirants to positions on Chet Wynne's initial team at Auburn.

After the usual routine of group work two teams were picked from the varsity squad and were sent through a 45-minute scrimmage. The offensive team was composed of Lee Johnson, center; Wood and Jones, guards; Miller and Molphus, tackles; Grant and Mason, ends; Parker, quarterback; Creighton and Hitchcock, halves, and Brown, fullback.

The defensive eleven also had a large number of sophomores, as Hill was at center, Paterson and Bush, guards; Wilson and Bush, tackles; McRee and Creel, ends; Shackleford, quarterback; Phipps and Young, halfbacks, and Wible, fullback.

LOOKING AHEAD.

Building for the future is what Coach Wynne is doing. The offensive team cannot be considered as the first team, but most of the players will probably start in the opening game against Birmingham-Southern. Ten of the players on this team are sophomores and the lone remaining one, Felix Creighton, a junior. It is almost a certainty that seven sophomores will start in the first clash of the season.

Coach Wynne had the players alternate from the offense to defense and vice versa. They were given a chance to display their ability in both departments of the game.

Tom Brown, Will Bassett, Frock Pate, Kenneth Phipps and Jimmie Hitchcock, all first-year varsity men except Pate, who is a junior, did some nice work advancing the ball. Brown also looked good in backing up the line. He is small for a fullback, but hits a fellow with 166 pounds of T. N. T. when tackling him.

BETTER BLOCKING.

The blocking was much better than what has been shown in previous scrimmages. The guards are gradually beginning to whip out of the line fast, and also large holes were opened in the forward wall when jaunts over center were taken.

Coaches McFaden and Kiley are not entirely satisfied with the performances of the candidates for the front, but believe that they are improving as fast as possible considering that so much hard work is being given daily.

Since the initial game of the 1930 season is only nine days distant, the coaches have started to remind their Tigers that the Panthers will be a strong team for them to face in a curtain raiser or at any other time during the season. The strength of Jenks Gillem's forces is realized fully on the Plains. The game was not scheduled as a warm-up affair and it will be anything but that. "Beat Southern" is heard quite frequently on the campus here at the Cornerstone.

Johnny Davidson and Tommy Moran tossed a couple of neat passes for the remaining touchdowns scored by the first offensive team. The team lined up with McWhorter, center; Patterson and Bennett, guards; Thornton and Hamrick, tackles; Crenshaw and Miller, ends; Moran, quarterback; Davidson and Mott, halfbacks, and Stoinoff, fullback.

The first varsity team piled up six other mythical touchdowns when they took the field. Marion Dickens, the gentleman from Ocilla, was reminiscent of last fall when he crashed the Red defense for two touchdowns and tore up their line in general. Dickens knocked the Red tacklers off their feet today in the best blocking seen around the Bulldog camp this year.

LeRoy Young, subbing for Austie Downes, tossed two passes for other touchdowns.

The first string was composed of Tassapoulas (Collings), center; Leathers and Maddox (Hazlehurst and Reynolds), guards; Lynn and Rose (Swygert), tackles; Smith and Maffett (Kelley), ends; Downes (Young), quarterback; Chandler and Dickens, halfbacks, and Gilmore (Eberhardt), fullback.

Coach Mehre this afternoon announced the 32 men who form the Bulldog varsity from now on, barring future changes.

The SPORTLIGHT

THE BIG THRILL.

IN THE midst of a wild sporting melee, involving most of the leading competitions, the National league race has been packed with more excitement than any two other sports you could mention, so far as the last week goes. It has been a race full of sudden shifts and turns, all cluttered up with the unexpected.

For example, the Dodgers go west and lose 15 out of 18 games, dropping five in a row to the Reds. A day or so later the same Dodgers return, have one or two men crippled, and then proceed to break the season's record for consecutive victories against the same ball clubs that rumpled them into a shapeless mass. This is close to a record in reversing the field and putting on the big baffle.

Then consider the woe of the Cubs. They get pretty fair pitching in Brooklyn, but score only one run in 27 innings. Then they go to Philadelphia, score 33 runs in the first three games and lose two of them. For these three games they averaged 11 runs per contest and played at a .333 clip. There are times when the game can be as seamy as the ball it is played with.

In a race of this sort anything can happen. One might go back to 1908 when the Giants had the pennant sewed up and the lowly Phillies, with a young Pole named Coveleskie, beat them three in a row and thereby twisted the dope completely out of shape. The Cardinals were the first to be counted out—10 1-2 games behind. Then the Dodgers were counted out, six games behind.

After the Brooklyn and Philadelphia trips the Cubs were counted out. But there are still nine or ten games and after what has happened it will remain a guess until the returns are all in.

ABOUT JOHNNY GOODMAN.

JOHNNY GOODMAN will be at Merion next week and he will be something to watch. The majority among golfers at large rate him as one of the outsiders who happened to have a lucky day at Pebble Beach, never to be heard of again. They overlook Goodman's record for two years. For two years he has been one of the law scorers in his district for the United States open. He has broken 70 time after time around western courses. He has played extremely well in more than one big event this season. In fact, two of the best known pros in the recent P. G. A. tournament rated Goodman next to Jones among the amateurs for all-around ability, including competitive temperament.

Johnny Goodman has a fine golf swing and he believes in his swing. He is willing to trust it. He is only 22 years old, but he has had his share of experience and it might be said that he has never acquired it over any easy route. He has had to hitch-hike, to live in a tent, to walk part of the way at more than one big tournament. But he can play a lot of golf, and this is what counts.

Goodman is fairly sure to be seeded with most of the Walker cup entries. His season's record is better than many of those who went across last April. Others likely to be seeded will include Johnston, Von Elm, Voigt, Moe and possibly one or two more members of the international cast. But there will be more than a few among the unseeded list capable of exploding a bomb or two over the 18-hole route. After all there will be only eight survivors by next Wednesday night and this means the explosion of several bombs.

Apparently "the Vanderbilt convention" is even more effective on the water than it is at a bridge table. Is Skipper Vanderbilt working in the direction of a grand slam? The bidding seems to be that way.

PICKING AN ALL-TIME STAR.

A GROUP of old-time managers and players happened to meet at Cub headquarters last night and the argument swung to the best first baseman baseball had ever known.

Most of the votes were cast for two men—Hal Chase, of the Yankees, and Bill Terry, of the Giants. Terry's rise in the last year from a fine first baseman to a great first baseman and a .400 hitter has been a little too fast for most of the crowd to follow. Yet he has proved his place as one of the best of the all-timers and he will need only a few years of the 1930 type to be the outstanding candidate.

Terry has had one of baseball's greatest years, viewed from any capacity. He has outhit anything Chase ever knew, but it will be a long time before such a spectacular figure on defense appears around this bag.

THE Cubs recently have lost something like four games in which they got 19 hits. No one can make Joe McCarthy believe any longer that "a strong offense is a good defense."

"WHAT," asks a reader, "has happened to the Babe?" Maybe some fiend in human form has moved the fences back.

SHARKEY is in a tough spot against Campolo. If he loses it will end his final chance in the heavyweight shot. If he wins the main reply will be "What of it?" And the tall South American may not be any too easy to bring down. Even if hit on the chin it may take him longer than 10 seconds to drop from that height.

ATHLETICS 6-10; CHICAGO 4-2.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—The championship Philadelphia Athletics took a tighter grip on the American League pennant today by grabbing both ends of a double-header from the White Sox and boosting their lead over the idle Washington Senators to eight full games.

"Lefty" Grove pitched his 27th victory of the season to win the first game, 6 to 4. In the second the A's bunched hits in the sixth and eighth innings for five-run scoring splurges and won, 10 to 2.

YANKS, 19; BROWNS, 10.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 16.—Unloosing a thunderous storm of hits in the first five innings, the New York Yankees gave the Browns a sound trouncing today by a 19-to-10 score. The Yanks hammered four St. Louis pitchers for a total of 23 hits, 20 of them coming in the first five frames.

Goose Goslin, of the Browns, hit his 33d home run after Sam Gibson, who only joined the Yankees yesterday, had walked the first two men he faced. Schulte also hit a homer.

COLORED TEAMS SET FOR SEASON

Schedules Complete, Squads Drill for Opening-Day Games.

Colored teams throughout the south started training for the approaching football season last Monday. The three local institutions, Clark, Morehouse and Morris Brown University, settle down to hard work today. Candidates are filing in at a fast clip and it is expected by the end of the week that all will be in camp.

Morris Brown and Morehouse college have hard schedules in front of them with only a short time to whip their squads into condition. Their season opens October 4.

Clark University, with the hardest schedule of the three and a new leader in Coach Aiken, is said to have a suicide schedule. Plans are already under way to make the intersectional game with Wilberforce University, of Xenia, Ohio, the homecoming day for the Clark alumni, the greatest of all celebrations ever held by a colored school in the south. The game will be played at Spiller field November 1. The opening game of the season will be played on the Clark athletic field October 4 with Benedict college as the opponent.

Morehouse college, on the same date, meets Allen University on the Morehouse athletic field. Negotiations are under way to have one of the dates changed to Friday so as to give the fans a chance to witness both games.

Below is the official schedule of the southern colored intercollegiate conference. Several games of intersectional interest have been carded.

All important games listed in Atlanta with local institutions will be played on Spiller field. A special section for all these games will be provided for white fans.

The schedule:

SUMTER PASSED GOOD TITLE ON

Auburn sometimes calls her team "the Plainsmen" for another obvious reason. Or maybe it isn't. Does anyone read Goldsmith anymore? Headline writers discourage the use of the word, however.

UNIQUE ENOUGH.

New York University has a unique one that always excites the risibilities of sports writers for a reason even more obvious than any noted before.

They are called "Violets," but they do not play like one, not by any means.

There are many attractive names, but somehow the tradition of the South Carolina Gamecocks makes one of the better stories.

Old General Thomas Sumter was quite a man and it is good to keep his memory alive.

Tuneful numbers from a musical comedy success of former days, Gustav Luders' "Prince of Pilsen," will be played by the Chicago Little Symphony orchestra directed by George Dasch during the Halsey, Stuart program from the NBC Chicago studios and WSB at 7 o'clock tonight.

Louis Robert "Hack" Wilson, of the Chicago Cubs, will be interviewed by Grantland Rice, sports writer, before a microphone over WSB and a National Broadcasting Company network at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

Wilson is the champion home run hitter of the National league, having broken "Chuck" Klein's record, established last year, of 43 home runs. Early in September Wilson passed Babe Ruth in the current race for the major league home run record. "Hack" is one of the most colorful players in the game.

Leonard Joy and his all-string orchestra, assisted by Chester Gaylord, vocalist, will supplement the interview with a program of popular selections.

* * * *

"Mighty Lak' a Rose," the ever popular composition from the pen of the famous composer, Ethelbert Nevin, will be sung by Olive Palmer, soprano, during the Palmolive hour to be broadcast tonight at 7:30 o'clock over an NBC network to WSB. Miss Palmer will also sing Schutt's waltz, "A la bien Aimee."

An unusual arrangement of "Where's That Rainbow?" and a current song hit, "You Darlin'," will be included in the group of selections which the Palmolive orchestra, directed by Gustave Haenschen, will play. Elizabeth Lennox and Elliott Shaw have chosen "Moonlight and Roses" as their contralto-baritone duet, and the Palmolive Revelers will sing a pleasingly varied group of popular numbers.

Irigoyen Sounds Appeal for Peace

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Ex-President Hipolito Irigoyen, through his nephew, Luis Rodriguez, today appealed to his party adherents to accept the new provisional government of President Jose Francisco Uriburu.

The former president, who was overthrown early in the month by Uriburu and his followers, now is a prisoner on the cruiser Belgrano, anchored in the river Plata.

After a conference with Irigoyen, Rodriguez informed leaders of the radical party that his uncle would regard as "a veritable crime" any act of sedition against the existing regime.

Announcement of the deposed president's views was made shortly after the Uriburu government published a charge that firearms and ammunition have been distributed among Irigoyenistas with the object of being used in violent opposition to the army and navy now controlling the country.

Leaders of the radical party—the Irigoyen organization—received the former president's message at a meeting called especially for that purpose. After learning the attitude of Irigoyen they adopted a resolution which stated:

"In view of recent occurrences it is necessary for all of Argentina to contribute to the continuance of public tranquility and the maintenance of order. This conception of duty will guide our conduct and this is the thought that we wish to communicate to radical compatriots throughout the country."

X-Ray Equipment Prices Attacked

BALTIMORE, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The assertion that X-ray specialists are handicapped in their war on cancer by "a phohibitory price" charged by a leading American concern for apparatus used in diagnosis, and by a foreign monopoly in the production of radium, was made today by Dr. Edwin C. Ernst, of St. Louis, president of the Radiological Society of North America.

Addressing radiologists, physicians and surgeons from 41 states attending a post-graduate conference on methods of cancer control, Dr. Ernst charged "the company at present enjoying the X-ray tube monopoly" filed away useful patents.

"These patents," he said, "could and should have been employed by others in the interest of humanity and especially the treatment of cancer by a more effective X-ray radiation.

"This unfortunate condition will continue indefinitely unless the radiologists of America in co-operation with other interested scientists and medical organizations and our own government prepare ways and means of combating these practices," he said.

New York Drys May Enter Candidate

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 16.—(AP) The Women's Christian Temperance Union will put a dry candidate for governor in the field this fall if the republican party adopts a wet plank in its platform or nominates a wet candidate, Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, state president, said after a conference of county workers here.

She said the organization would gladly support Charles H. Tuttle, federal attorney in New York, if he took a stand for prohibition, but said the organization feared he would declare for repeal or modification.

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, the democratic incumbent, who is said to be a candidate for renomination for a second term, has already declared himself in favor of repeal of the 18th amendment and regulation of liquor by state.

Julian Boehm Heads Magicians of Atlanta

Julian V. Boehm was elected president of the Atlanta Society of Magicians at its annual meeting held Tuesday night at the home of the retiring president, H. H. MacKirgan, 1251 Peachtree street, N. E. Other new officers are Cecil Stoddard, vice president, and A. G. De Vaughn, secretary and treasurer. The program included the formal admission of Lindsey Hopkins, Jr., and E. D. Morgan to membership in the society.

Interallied Veterans Welcomed at Capital

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(AP)—A colorful ceremony of welcome to foreign members of Fidac, interallied war veterans' association, marked the opening of its eleventh annual congress today.

Responses were made for each delegation to an address of welcome by Frank J. Schoble, Jr., blind national vice commander of the American Legion.

Lieutenant Colonel Milan G. Radossavljevitch, vice president of Fidac for Yugo-Slavia, declared the name of Woodrow Wilson remains closest to the hearts of Europe's small nations. King Alexander, of Yugo-Slavia, he said, commanded him to deposit the Yugo-Slav medal of valor on the tomb of the American Unknown Soldier.

Five Men Arrested As Bond Thieves

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Five men were arrested today in a Broadway office in the financial district from which police said they conducted a regular business of bond thievery.

Several hundred thousand dollars' worth of bonds were said to have been stolen by the five men during the past year. The system was to place a man with a broker's office as a clerk. The man would receive a bundle of bonds from a messenger, sign a receipt for them, and then disappear, taking the bonds with him to the gang.

The prisoners, all of whom have criminal records, are Samuel Borden, called by police the "brains" of the group; Harry Griffin, Sydney Gottlieb, Thomas Thomson and Nathan Wilson. They described themselves in the line-up as brokers.

Three Burn to Death.

JACKSON, Mich., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Three children of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Martin lost their lives last night in a fire which destroyed the Martin home in Knollwood Park, a suburb. Martin was burned in attempting to rescue the children from the flames, which resulted from an overheated stove.

Poison Dose Victim Succumbs at Grady

What was thought to be an overdose of poison resulted Tuesday night in the death at Grady hospital of Mrs. J. M. Stringer, 35, of 87 Harris street, who had remained unconscious since arriving at the hospital Sunday afternoon. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by Ed Bond & Condon Company.

The husband, who said he found Mrs. Stringer unconscious in her bed, was unable to assign a motive for her alleged act. Oxygen was administered constantly and stimulants were resorted to but doctors announced Tuesday afternoon that her condition was hopeless.

Austrian Rotarian Visitor to Atlanta

Rudolph Mumb, of Vienna, Austria, who is visiting the Rotary clubs of America under auspices of the Rotary International, addressed the local organization Tuesday at the Capital City Club. Mr. Mumb outlined the plans for the international convention of 1931, which is to be held in Vienna.

One of the organizers and a charter member of the Vienna Rotary Club, Mr. Mumb has become temporarily affiliated with the Rotary International headquarters since the decision to hold the next international convention in his city.

He was greeted by George Bland, chairman of the program committee for the local Rotarians, when he arrived in Atlanta Tuesday morning. Mr. Mumb left for Montgomery shortly after the luncheon.

HULL URGES CHANGE IN IMMIGRATION PLAN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—An extension of the principle of selective immigration to insure that no American citizen would be thrown out of work by aliens coming to this country was advocated in a radio address Monday night by Harry E. Hull, commissioner general of immigration.

His address, over the National Broadcasting chain, followed the announcement last week by President Hoover that applications for future immigration visas would be rejected if the applicants were likely to become public charges upon reaching the country and add to the unemployment total.

While Commissioner Hull did not refer to the president's announcement he quoted Mr. Hoover as saying in his last message to congress that "our present problem is to formulate a method in which a limited number of immigrants whom we do welcome shall be adapted to our national settings and our national needs."

"My appeal to you, my countrymen," Hull added, "is that we follow this far-seeing vision of our president so that in the future immigrants shall not enter the country who are unneeded or undesirable."

Hull said 241,700 immigrants entered the United States last year and that it was a reasonable estimate that more than 50 per cent of them "are today displacing American citizens who are gainfully employed.

"Scientific selective immigration is a far-reaching, progressive move to solve our unemployment and farm problem," he asserted.

"If we had had selective immigration 50 years ago," he added, "there would have been no underworld problem of the magnitude nor character that our peace officers now have on their hands. And while the criminal is primarily a social menace and should be dealt with first as such, he also presents an economic problem of great importance."

The commissioner said selective immigration would afford to the laboring man "the same protection we give to the industries by a tariff.

"With unemployment as it is at the present time in this country," he continued, "we should refuse admission from any country to those who expect to make their living as miners, musicians, textile workers, brick layers, carpenters, plumbers, common laborers, tile setters, stone cutters, actors, asbestos workers, bakers, boilermakers, bookbinders, shoe workers, iron workers, cigar makers, hat makers, draftsmen, garment workers, tailors, glass workers, section men, waiters, porters, barbers and shoe shiners."

Noah Beery Reveals Wife's Disappearance

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Noah Beery, motion picture actor, revealed today that his wife, Marguerite, has been missing from the Beery ranch, near North Hollywood, for a week. He said he would appeal to police to help locate her.

The actor said Mrs. Beery left home September 8 with her automobile, leaving no explanation. She has been ill for several months and Beery said he attributed the disappearance to her illness. She left home several months ago during a similar illness.

They have a 17-year-old son.

Man Who Wed Another's Wife Wins Freedom

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 16.—(AP)—K. G. Johnson, who has been in state prison since 1928 because he eloped with a married woman, was free on parole today with plenty of time to think about husbands who change their minds.

The story must be told without names, except that of Johnson's as pardon officials refused to name the others involved in the strange marital tangle.

Johnson and his wife became estranged in 1928. Another man and his wife who lived with the Johnsons also became estranged. Johnson and the other man's wife became infatuated. It was arranged between the four that Johnson and the wife of the other man should go to Reno, Nevada, where they would each secure a divorce and marry.

Apparently everything was going to be all right, but Johnson reckoned not with the other man's fickleness.

After the couple had departed for Reno, the woman's husband became angry, had the pair arrested in Tennessee and returned to this state. Johnson was tried and sentenced to four years in prison.

When he was released today he came out to find that since he has been a prisoner, the woman he eloped with has become reconciled with her husband, and the woman who was his wife has divorced him and re-married.

Britain Recognizes Argentine Junta

LONDON, Sept. 16. — (AP) — The Daily Herald, organ of the labor government, announces that Great Britain has decided to recognize immediately the new Argentine government formed by revolution.

Necesary instructions have been sent to the British ambassador in Buenos Aires, the paper adds.

German Fascists In Street Fight

ULM, Germany, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Fascists who organized a street procession here tonight clashed with members of the social-democratic party, with a fascist leader named Dreher, and 12 others from both sides, being severely injured. Several were arrested.

LE CONTE-HADDOCK WEDDING PRECEDED BY PARTIES

Bride-Elect To Wed at Home Of Maternal Grandparents

Miss Lillian King Le Conte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson Williams, whose engagement to John Newton Haddock, Jr., of Baltimore, Md., formerly of Atlanta, was recently announced, is to be entertained at a number of prenuptial parties. The Le Conte-Haddock wedding will be a brilliant social event taking place at the home of the lovely bride-elect's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. King, on Peachtree street, in October, the date to be announced later. Miss Louise Girardeau entertains at a bridge party at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, September 20, at her home on St. Charles avenue, honoring this attractive future bride. Wednesday afternoon, September 24, Mrs. William Akers entertains at a bridge-luncheon at her home on The Prado.

Other Parties.

Miss Elizabeth Cole entertains at a bridge-tea at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, October 3, at her home on Fifteenth street, honoring Miss Le Conte. Mrs. Francis Dwyer will be hostess at a bridge-tea at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, October 8, at her home on North Decatur road in compliment to this bride-to-be. Saturday evening, October 18, Miss Mary Crenshaw will be hostess at bridge at 8:30 o'clock at her home on Peachtree road in compliment to Miss Le Conte and Mr. Haddock.

Mrs. Clark Broward will be hostess at dinner at 6:30 o'clock Sunday evening, October 19, at her home on Peachtree Battle avenue, honoring the members of the wedding party. Among others who will entertain for Miss Le Conte are Mrs. Hamilton Hart, who gives a bridge-tea at her home on North Ivy road; Miss Julia Napier and Mrs. Forest Fowler, the dates to be announced later.

Miss Ethel Hunter Is Honor Guest.

Mrs. John R. Radford, Jr., was hostess at tea yesterday at her home on Winslow drive, complimenting her niece, Miss Ethel Hunter, whose marriage to William Frederick Ogden will be an event of this week. Mrs. Radford was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Ross Hunter, mother of the bride-elect; Mrs. M. E. Farmer and Miss J. T. Farmer, grandmother and aunt of the bride-elect.

Covers were placed for Misses Hunter, Elizabeth Hunter, Ellen Newell, Virginia Torrance, Margaret Stovall, Mesdames Ralph Paris, Preston Arkwright, Jr., Edward Friendly, of New York city; Ross Hunter, M. E. Farmer, J. T. Farmer and Radford.

P.-T. A. Presidents Appoint Chairmen.

Atlanta P.-T. A. presidents are requested to appoint and report reading chairmen to Mrs. R. R. Ritchie, Atlanta P.-T. A. council chairman of children's reading, Hemlock 3808-J, by Tuesday, September 23. A meeting to supply material and outline the work in detail will be called in the near future. Chairmen appointed after that time will be handicapped in putting over the year's work, as they will not be able to get systematic reports on the summer work nor advise mothers of the plan to be used in the 1930-31 program of reading. A chairman at work now means more of an opportunity to the children of the school.

North Fulton High P.-T. A. To Be Formed.

W. F. Dykes, principal of North Fulton High school, calls a meeting of the women in the vicinity of the school whose children attend this county school, to meet Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for the purpose of forming a parent-teacher association and electing officers.

Harris-Cottreaux Wedding Plans Are of Interest

Plans for the wedding of Miss Nell Bronston Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holt Harris, to Stephen Pierre Cottreaux are of interest. The ceremony will be solemnized Saturday morning, September 27, at the chapel of All Saints' church. The Rev. W. W. Memminger, rector of the church, will perform the impressive ring ceremony in the presence of a gathering of relatives and friends.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Harris will entertain at a wedding breakfast at their home on South Gordon street, honoring the young couple and a group of intimate friends. The future bride and groom will leave for a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., making their home afterward in Montgomery, Ala.

Miss Richardson To Be Honored.

Miss Eleanor Keenan will entertain at a luncheon party today at the Piedmont Driving Club in honor of Miss Josephine Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Richardson, who leaves at an early date for New York where she will attend Miss Nightingale's fashionable school for girls. Miss Keenan has invited Misses Richardson, May Latimer, Virginia Fortson, Jane Sharp, Celeste Martin, Lundye Sharp, Elizabeth Hunter, Vaughan Nixon, Helen Howard, Jane McMillan and Nancy Keeler.

Popular Belles To Attend Week-End Events At Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity House

The trio of attractive belles pictured above will be numbered among the college contingent attending the round of social gayeties to be given during this week-end by members of the Delta Sigma Phi fraternity at the chapter house on Williams street prior to the opening of Georgia School of Technology next Monday morning. Left, Miss Nell Starr, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. K. W. Starr, of Newnan, Ga.; center, Miss Peggy Fuller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Fuller, of this city, and right, Miss Charlotte McCrea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. McCrea, of Atlanta. Photograph of Miss Starr by Elliott's Peachtree studio; of Miss Fuller by the Wheelan studio and of Miss McCrea by Thurston Hatcher.

With the fall session at Georgia Tech opening September 22, the social activities of campus organizations again enlivens the calendar of interesting events that usher in the cooler weather of early autumn. The Delta Sigma Phi fraternity has arranged a series of opening events that present unusual interest to local and out-of-town friends of the Georgia Tech chapter. A dinner-dance honoring a group of local and visiting belles will be held Saturday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the chapter house at 762 Williams street.

The chapter will entertain at breakfast Sunday morning at 8:45 o'clock and with an open house in the late afternoon. The week-end activities will end with a breakfast early Monday morning to permit attendance to the first classes of the scholastic year.

Among the friends of the Delta Sigma Phi fraternity attending these events are Governor and Mrs. L. G. Hardman, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. Boykin, Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Cooledge, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. James H. Whitten, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. MacKirgan, Mrs. J. Stanley Moore, Mrs. C. A. Whittle, Mrs. John T. Hancock, Mrs. Marion Moore, Miss Nell Starr, of Newnan, Ga.; Miss Annie Laurie Smith, of Greenville, Ala.; Miss Mary Lovejoy, of LaGrange, Ga.; Misses Peggy Smith, Nell Gilbert, Charlotte McCrea, Peggy Fuller, Jane McMillan, Elizabeth Whitten, Jane Morrow, Susanne Memminger, Helen Jackson, Frances MacKirgan, Patsy Thayer, Susanne Knox, Peggy Rector, Carolyn Cole and others.

Mrs. Hayward Weds George G. Green.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 16.—Of interest to Georgians was the wedding here today of Mrs. Underhill Hayward and George G. Green, of Dade county, Georgia, which was solemnized at the First Presbyterian church, in this city, Rev. John Garretson, pastor of the church, officiating. Mrs. A. N. Flora, of Cleveland, Ohio, a sister of Mrs. Hayward, and James A. Green, wealthy resident here, brother of Mr. Green, were the only attendants.

The bride was attired in an ensemble of dark brown crepe with accessories of beige and Mrs. Flora's dark crepe frock had inserts of net marking the distinctive lines of her toilette.

Mr. and Mrs. Green left immediately for Boston, Mass., for their future residence as the former will resume his post-graduate research studies at Harvard, and they will be established for the winter in an apartment in Boston or Cambridge.

Miss Demasters Weds L. Paul Brewster.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., Sept. 16.—(Special.)—Miss Mary Frances Demasters and L. Paul Brewster were married Monday morning at 9 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Demasters, parents of the bride, in the presence of a small company of relatives and friends. Rev. Neil G. Stevens, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony after which the couple left on an eastern honeymoon trip of a few days. They will make their home in Huntsville.

Miss Anna Knight And Mr. Daves Will Wed Sept. 23

Announcement of the wedding plans of Miss Anna Knight and Francis Daves are of wide social interest, the ceremony to take place Tuesday, September 23, at St. Philip's cathedral. Rev. Russell K. Smith will officiate. The bride-elect will be given in marriage by her father, J. O. Knight, and her sister, Miss Ray Knight, will be the maid of honor and the bride-elect's only attendant. Devereaux McClatchey will act as best man.

The ushers will be Stiles Hopkins and Hinton Hopkins, uncles of the groom-to-be; Henry E. Peeples, the bride-elect's uncle, and Judge Claude Pittman, of Cartersville, the groom-elect's brother-in-law.

Miss Knight will be honored at a number of social affairs prior to her marriage.

Miss Elizabeth Cole will entertain today at her home on Fifteenth street at a bridge-tea, complimenting Miss Knight and Mrs. D. F. McClatchey, Jr., a recent bride.

Friday, September 18, Mrs. D. I. MacIntyre, Jr., will entertain at her home on Polo drive. Saturday, Mrs. Frank C. Eastman will give a luncheon at her home on Alston drive. Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Chesnut will keep open house at their home on Springdale road, complimenting Miss Knight and Mr. Daves.

Monday, September 22, Mr. and Mrs. John I. Scott will entertain the members of the wedding party at a buffet supper at their home in Scottdale.

Group Honors Brides-To-Be.

Misses Virginia Branch, Alice Glenn and Miriam Broach were hostesses at a tea yesterday at Brookhaven, the Capital City Country Club, in honor of Misses Anna Knight and Julia McCullough, popular brides-elect. The guests included Misses Knight, McCullough, Merrill McMichael, Marion Park, Elizabeth Cole, Ray Knight, Lillian McMichael and Mesdames George Lester, George Chestnut, Devereaux McClatchey, Jr., Henry Peeples, Hinton Longino and Louis Dugger.

Miss Olive Bryant Weds Mr. Cayce.

A marriage of cordial interest to their friends was that of Miss Olive Bryant to Eugene Gladstone Cayce, which was quietly solemnized at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Dr. Horace R. Chase, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, performed the ceremony. Immediately after their marriage Mr and Mrs. Cayce left for a wedding trip to New York. They will be at home after October 1 at 1027 St. Charles avenue.

Miss Quillian and Mr. Stovall Wed at Home Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Roberta Melissa Quillian and Francis Abda Stovall took place yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. J. V. Poole, on Ivy road. The Rev. H. M. Quillian, uncle of the bride, performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives and friends.

The home was decorated with palms, dahlias and gladioli. In the living room, where the ceremony was performed, an improvised altar was banked with palms and large floor baskets filled with lilies. At either side were seven-branched candelabra holding tapers.

Preceding the ceremony Ray Nixon sang "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" and "All for You," accompanied by Mrs. Nixon, cousin of the bride. To the strains of the "Lohengrin" bridal chorus, the bride entered with her brother, Fletcher Quillian, by whom she was given in marriage, and were met at the altar by the bridegroom and P. M. Stovall, of Athens, who acted as best man.

The bride was lovely in a model of blue chiffon, fashioned along becoming lines, and her hat and shoes were in matching shades and her flowers were orchids and valley lilies.

Mr. and Mrs. Poole entertained at an informal reception and receiving with the hosts were the bride and bridegroom, Mrs. A. W. Willie and Mrs. J. T. Quillian. Presiding at the punch tables in the sun parlor and on the porch were Misses Elizabeth Poole, Frances Quillian, Christine Quillian and Jeanne Mathews.

Miss Whaley Weds William R. Bellows.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Sept. 16.—The marriage of Miss Ruby Inez Whaley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Keener Whaley, to William Rembert Bellows was solemnized Tuesday evening at the home of the bride's parents on Monte Sano avenue. First to enter were Miss Carolyn Howell, with Mrs. Earl Story, who were immediately followed by Miss Allene Bellows, sister of the groom, with Mrs. Alfred Clarkson. Miss Katherine Wiggins, with Miss Jessie Langham, and Miss Sue Brawner, with Miss Lucy Bellows, sister of the groom. Miss Mary Whaley, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, entered alone and was immediately followed by the bride, who entered with her father, the groom, attended by Paul Knox, of Abbeville, S. C., meeting her at the altar.

The bride was exquisite in her wedding gown of heavy white satin duchess, every line of which evidenced dignity and beauty. The unbroken line of the front, which moulded so exquisitely the figure in a wrap-around effect, was caught in the back with a very full shirred drapery from which fell in circular fullness the short train. Adding to the dignity of the gown were the long, tight-fitting sleeves. Extremely becoming was the three-piece veil of imported illusion, which fell from a close-fitting cap finished with tiny seed pearls, and which was held in place by iridescent orange blossoms. Her flowers were an armful of superb Easter lilies. The young couple left for a bridal trip, and on their return will be at home at 1320 Meigs street, where they have a most attractive apartment.

Here's New Way To Banish BODY ODORS

The quick way to banish blackheads and blemishes—how enchantingly smooth and velvety soft your skin is—your whole body just glows with an alluring beauty which Radox alone imparts. The perfect body deodorant.

Get a large package of Radox today at Jacobs' pharmacy or any drug-store. Enough for 8 of the most joyous, beautifying and rejuvenating baths you ever had in your life and if you don't agree—money back.—(adv.)

"Select it according to type of skin" say beauty experts

You can enhance the beauty of any skin by using the right face powder. But you can spoil the beauty of the most lovely skin by using the wrong one.

Make sure that you are using the right face powder! Ask yourself this important beauty question: Does my face powder conform exactly to my own individual type of skin.

Your face powder will suit your skin in every way if you will choose the right Plough Face Powder for your type. And you can—easily! For Plough has created three face powders to meet the particular needs of the three types of skin—oily, dry, normal.

Today—dip your puff into the Plough Face Powder made just for you, and smooth it on your skin. Note how marvelously soft it is, how fragrantly it is perfumed, how caressingly it clings, how pleasing and soothing it feels. Then look into your mirror. Gone are all imperfections and every trace of sallowness. In their place is perfect complexion-beauty: skin as smooth as satin, as fine-textured as silk, as fresh and youthful as dawn.

Each powder comes in White, Flesh, Pink, Brunette and Sun-Tan tints. Sensibly priced wherever beauty creations are sold, each affords a saving the modern woman appreciates.

Extravagance is out of date! Nowadays "it's smart to be thrifty." As more and more women are realizing this, are choosing Plough's 3 Face Powders. Not only because these modern powders are bringing greater beauty to their skins; but because of the economy afforded by fine quality at a sensible price.

Mrs. Beall and Henry Lee Wed.

FORT VALLEY, Ga., Sept. 16.—Mrs. J. E. Haslam, of Marshallville, announces the marriage of her daughter, Mrs. Theodocia Haslam Beall, to Henry Lee, of Marshallville, the marriage having taken place Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee are widely known in this section, both being from prominent families in Marshallville.

Miss Van Vatten Lacey Weds Mr. Speer.

DECATUR, Ga., Sept. 16.—The marriage of Miss Elisabeth Van Vatten Lacey and James T. Speer was performed Friday evening at 9 o'clock, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. B. Ficklen, Presbyterian minister, at the home of Mrs. L. D. Adams, 324 West Ponce de Leon avenue in Decatur, sister of the groom.

The ceremony was performed before an improvised altar in the living room, snapdragons, sweet peas, clematis, budlea, pink roses, with baskets filled with pink crepe myrtle and ferns forming the background. Crystal candelabras holding white candles cast a glow over the wedding party.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Clara Belle Adams sang "Because," accompanied by Miss Agnes Adams. The bride and groom entered to the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin," played by Miss Clara Belle Adams.

The bride was lovely in an antique ivory taffeta, made bouffant style, and her slippers matched her gown. Her corsage was of orchids and valley lilies. The only ornament worn by the bride was a braclet set with sapphires, the gift of the groom.

Mrs. Speer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wesley Lacey, of Cheyenne, Wyo. She holds a responsible position as teacher of home economics in the University of Tennessee at Knoxville.

Mr. Speer is the son of the late Hon. and Mrs. T. J. Speer, of Newton county, Georgia, having held responsible positions with the government in Washington, D. C., and Cheyenne, Wyo., and is now located in Knoxville, Tenn.

The bride and groom left on a motor trip to Asheville, N. C., and the bride traveled in a black crepe satin suit with eggshell satin blouse, and slippers and hat to match. Upon their return they will be at home at 2218 White avenue, in Knoxville, Tenn.

Honoring her guest, Mrs. W. H. Burwell, of Miami, Fla., Mrs. W. L. Southwell entertained informally at dinner last evening at her home on Fifteenth street. Rosebuds in a colorful Wedgewood bowl formed the central decoration of the dining room table. Snapdragons, the shades of pink and heliotrope predominating, were used in decoration throughout the home. The guests included Mrs. Burwell, Mr. and Mrs. George Haskell, of Miami, Fla.; W. A. S. Wheeler, of Atlanta, formerly of New Orleans, La.; Miss Phoebe Rhett and others.

Mrs. Southwell has recently taken possession of her new home, the former George Muse residence, and the party was one of unusual interest and charm. Mrs. Burwell is widely known in Atlanta, having frequently visited here and made this city her home when Mr. Burwell was speaker of the house. A number of other parties have been planned for Mrs. Burwell while she is the guest of Mrs. Southwell.

Miss Mary Goddard Joins Debutante Club

Miss Mary Goddard, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Goddard, will be numbered among the charming members of the Debutante Club of 1930-31. She was graduated last June from the Spence school in New York city, one of the most fashionable finishing schools in the country, and enjoys the cultural benefits and advantages from travel in Europe and the United States.

Miss Goddard lately returned from a western tour under the chaperonage of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Richardson, and she spent the summer of 1929 traveling in Canada with her parents. She is one of the most attractive and popular young girls identified with the exclusive social life of the city, and will be central figure at a series of parties during her debutante season.

Kelley-Sanford Cards Issued.

Mrs. Gertrude Kelley announces the marriage of her daughter, Sara, to Dr. Shelton Palmer Sanford, Thursday, August 14, at Lake Junaluska, N. C. Dr. and Mrs. Sanford are at home at 89 Montgomery Ferry drive in Atlanta.

Mrs. Wifthoft Indorsed by Board For Service Star Legion President

Mrs. F. W. Wifthoft, of Fort Valley, was indorsed for national president of Service Star Legion at the executive session held recently at the Atlanta Woman's Club. Mrs. H. G. Hastings, of Decatur, southern director in the national organization, will carry this recommendation to the national board meeting to be held in Kansas City September 29. Mrs. Wifthoft is national historian of the legion, and is a very brilliant woman, having a complete understanding of this particular work.

Mrs. Mann Presides.

Mrs. W. E. Mann, of Dalton, the president, presided at the board meeting, and co-operation of Georgia division of Service Star Legion was pledged to the Eighty-second division, a unit of the American Expeditionary Forces serving in France, in plans for the reunion to be held in Atlanta this month. A letter was read from the national chairman of relief, Mrs. Effie Decker, commending the report of the southeastern division chairman, Mrs. E. B. Williams, of Atlanta.

Luncheon was served and the guests remained standing while a silent pledge was given to the memory of Mrs. Sam D. Jones, beloved founder and president emeritus for life of the Georgia division. Mrs. W. F. Melton acted as toastmistress and pledges were given to the state president, Mrs. W. E. Mann, by Mrs. F. W. Wifthoft, of Fort Valley; to the Gold Star mothers, by Mrs. H. G. Hastings, of Decatur; to the blind veterans, by Mrs. Mildred Seydel; to the past state presidents present, Mrs. W. F. Melton, of Emory University; Mrs. F. W. Wifthoft, of Fort Valley, and Mrs. L. P. Rosser, of Atlanta, by Mrs. Marcus W. Beck; to all members of Service Star Legion, by Mrs. C. H. Ashford, of Atlanta; to the growth of the organization, by Mrs. Crisp L. Bradley, of Dalton, and to the Eighty-second division by Mrs. W. F. Melton.

Visitors Speak.

Mrs. Leonora B. Ellis, of Tampa, Fla., gave a toast to the Atlanta Woman's Club, she having been a member of that club during the first year of its organization. Mrs. M. L. Brittain gave personal experience of having crossed over to France this past summer on the steamship with the Gold Star mothers who were making the pilgrimage to the graves of their sons. She told of the impressive ceremony on July 4, when a wreath was dropped overboard in memory of the American boys who made the supreme sacrifice. Mrs. R. H. Hankinson, of McDonough, state president of the Parent-Teacher Association, gave an interesting talk, pledging her help to the organization. A committee was appointed to select a child for the Nacoochee school scholarship, which is given to the child of a disabled veteran.

The next meeting of the executive board will be held in January.

Atlanta's Dominant Shoe Department for Twenty Years!

—Twenty years ago we organized our shoe department. Our rise since that time to the largest retailers of women's and children's shoes in the entire South is no accident. THERE ARE REASONS WHY WE NOW SELL THREE-QUARTERS OF A MILLION DOLLARS' WORTH OF SHOES ANNUALLY.

—Rich's shoe department is owned, managed, and operated by Southern-born, Atlanta-bred people. Understanding fully the tastes, needs, and modes of living of Southerners, we are eminently qualified to know and supply the kind of shoes they demand.

—We sell shoes of peerless quality, up-to-the-minute in style, at the lowest prices, because our immense business volume makes us pampered customers in the factories of the world. Advance styles at considerable price concessions are frequently accorded us as a bid for our trade.

—The personal contact between our salespeople and our customers is our particular point of pride. Contagious friendliness and intelligent service on the part of our clerks makes of every customer in the department an honored guest. Just another evidence of a gracious, hospitably Southern spirit that has merited the public confidence and good will for two decades.

Just Another Reason Why---

As told by Dr. Watson: Sherlock Holmes was the most methodical of men, yet the untidiest one that ever drove a fellow-lodger to distraction. His unanswered correspondence was transfixed with a jack-knife into the center of the wooden mantelpiece. He kept his cigars in the coal scuttle and his tobacco in the end of a Persian slipper.

To my mind pistol-practice is an outdoor pastime. Yet Holmes, in one of his strange moods, would sit in the arm-chair with his hair-trigger, and adorn the opposite wall with a patriotic VR in bullet-pocks. But his papers were my greatest cross. He had a horror of destroying documents, yet he seldom mustered energy to arrange them.

One Winter's night as we sat together by the fire, I ventured to suggest to him that he spend the next two hours in making our room a little more habitable. For his papers had accumulated until every corner was stacked with bundles of manuscript.

"Very well, Watson," Holmes sighed with a rueful face. He went off into his bedroom and in a few moments returned pulling a large tin box. Squatting upon a stool in front of it, he threw back the lid. The box was already a third full of bundles of paper tied with red tape into separate packages.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

Who struts and boasts and swaggers 'round
Fools but himself it will be found.
—Old Mother Nature.

Little Miss Frisky was now little Mrs. Impy. A very pretty little Chipmunk she was and Impy was very proud of her. She was even more proud of Impy, for you know his coat was coal black and a black-coated Chipmunk is seldom seen. It had pleased Impy that Mrs. Impy had been so pleased with his home. To be sure, she had changed the entrance. Impy had to admit that it was better hidden than the entrance he had made. Otherwise, she had been quite satisfied.

Now that he had a home and a mate Impy the black Chipmunk felt very important. Yes, indeed, he felt very important. He strutted. Why shouldn't he strut? Was he not the head of a home? He thought he was anyway. Yes, indeed, he thought he was very much the head of a home.

He and Mrs. Impy had been living together happily for several weeks and Impy was not aware that there had been any changes to amount to anything. To be sure, he discovered that Mrs. Impy had enlarged one of his storerooms; but he thought nothing of this. In fact, he decided it was an improvement. He was quite satisfied to have it so, for now that there were two of them, more storage space would be needed. Then his second storeroom was enlarged. It was done without his knowledge. He happened to be passing one day when he peeped in and discovered how much bigger it was than he remembered it.

"Did you make this room bigger?" he inquired of little Mrs. Impy.

"Yes," said she. "It really wasn't big enough. It might have done all right for you alone, but now that there are two of us we need plenty of room. By the way, we'll build a third storeroom shortly."

"Will we?" inquired Impy, looking a little surprised.

"Yes," replied little Mrs. Impy. "Come with me and I'll show you where we will start it."

Impy did as he was told to do. He followed little Mrs. Impy and when she showed him the place where the new storeroom was to be he not only agreed that that was a good place, but actually went to work digging as Mrs. Impy told him to. Moreover, he kept at it. Little Mrs. Impy helped at times but most of the time there was only room for one to work, and, of course, Impy was that one.

Impy no longer remained out after the coming of the Black Shadows, as he had once done. He would have told you that he no longer cared to stay out. That wasn't it at all. No, indeed, that wasn't it. It was all due to little Mrs. Impy. She had told him to come in with the setting of jolly, round, red Mr. Sun and so he had done as she desired. When they went on little expeditions in search of food little Mrs. Impy always decided where they should go. Impy never decided anything. Mrs. Impy decided everything.

Still Impy thought himself head of the home. Little Mrs. Impy watched him strut and swagger and boast and she grinned as she watched. Sometimes, right in the midst of his strutting she would tell Impy to do something and right away he would do it. In short, that Chipmunk home was managed and managed very well indeed by little Mrs. Impy, who had been lively, pretty little Miss Frisky. And she was quite willing that Impy should continue to think himself the head of the home if it gave him any pleasure.

He not only agreed that that was a good place, but actually went to work digging.

Hurley in Alabama On Way to Capital

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Satisfied with the results of his inspection trip down the Mississippi river from the Twin Cities to the Gulf of Mexico, Secretary Hurley was tonight homeward bound.

Flying his own airplane, the secretary, accompanied by Major-General Lytle Brown, chief of army engineers, arrived here late today to spend the night before continuing to the capital. Darkness prevented the secretary's continuing to Chattanooga, Tenn., where he had planned to stop tonight.

Upon his arrival in Washington tomorrow the secretary will confer immediately with President Hoover on the study which he has made of Mississippi river projects during the last two weeks. The trip down the river was made aboard the U. S. S. General Allen as far as St. Louis, where the U. S. S. Mississippi was taken for the trip down to New Orleans. Taking off from New Orleans today the secretary planned to arrive in Washington late tomorrow or early Thursday.

Briand Pays Tribute To German Friend

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The affection which M. Aristide Briand and Dr. Stresemann, the late German foreign minister, had for each other was recalled today when the French foreign minister, in an address to newspaper men, paid a remarkable tribute to his late colleague.

"He was a man whom I learned to love," M. Briand said. "Between us there never was any difference in aim, for both of us sought peace. We could sit down together in perfect confidence and loyalty to discuss the most serious problems. Generally our discussions yielded a solution."

Arthur Henderson, British foreign minister, who preceded M. Briand, paid his tribute to the "Man of Locarno."

"Whatever difference of opinion there may be in our methods," said Mr. Henderson, "M. Briand and I are absolutely of the same mind in our ambition for peace." About 300 newspaper men of all countries accredited to the League of Nations covering were guests.

GREAT WATER SPOUTS FRIGHTEN NEOPOLITANS

NAPLES, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Two great water spouts more than 50 feet high formed between Naples and Capri yesterday followed by two smaller ones. They rushed over the surface of the bay sending late bathers scurrying.

The phenomenon lasted 20 minutes and was believed to be due to a strong atmospheric depression which resulted in formation of a cyclonic center in the Gulf of Naples. It was witnessed by great crowds lining the seashore. There was no damage to shipping.

Reading Chairman Makes Request.

Pupils in the Atlanta public schools who participated in the Carnegie library and P.-T. A. program of children's reading for the summer are requested by Mrs. R. R. Ritchie, Atlanta chairman of children's reading, to give their library records of "Books I Have Read" or "Treasure Hunt" lists to their teachers after taking them to the library and receiving credit there for the ten books read. When this has been done the school P.-T. A. reading chairmen will be able to obtain accurate reports of the work and the teachers will have definite information as to books already read before making recommendations for the winter program.

Sigma Chi To Give Picnic.

Atlanta Alumni chapter of Sigma Chi and the active chapters located at Emory University and the Georgia School of Technology, will have the annual picnic commemorating the founding of the Constantine chapter on Wednesday, September 17. All Sigma Chis of Atlanta and vicinity are urged to meet at the Tech chapter house at 6 o'clock and take part. Transportation will be provided for all who have no cars.

Health Better Than Riches

"Before I was married, my mother and sister and I did all the farming work on a 64-acre farm for eleven years. I married a farmer and now in addition to my housework and the care of my children I help him with the outside work on our farm. After my last child was born, I began to suffer as many women do. Our family doctor gave me medicine but no results. One day he told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did and now I am a new woman and I know that good health is better than riches."—Mrs. Clyde I. Sherman, R. #1, Lickdale, Pennsylvania.

Steady Increase Marks Enrollment At High Museum

Steady increase in the enrollment of students in the day and night art school of the High Museum of Art is one of the many indications of the expansion and growth of the institution. Approximately 33 day and night students were included in the opening classes of 1929, whereas 44 have already enrolled for the courses this season. The inauguration of a third-year course with the consequent organization of smaller class groups will, it is believed, result in a more personally supervised course of instruction for each individual pupil. All classes are under the instruction of Benjamin Shute and Robert Rogers, graduates of the Art Institute of Chicago.

Among the courses which are offered at the museum are figure study, design, illustration, advertising, portrait painting, anatomy, etching and allied subjects. Free classes for children of the members of the Atlanta Art Association are conducted on Tuesdays, and free classes for pupils of the junior and senior high schools of the city on Saturday mornings. The museum is open to the public from 9 until 12 o'clock and from 1 until 4 o'clock throughout the week; from 7 to 9 o'clock Monday. Wednesday and Friday evenings, and from 3 to 5 o'clock Sunday afternoons.

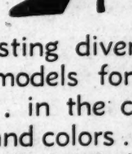

St. Philip's Aid To Give Dinner.

The Ladies' Aid of St. Philip's cathedral will serve a dinner at the lunch room, 11 Hunter street, S. W., from 11:30 to 2 o'clock today. The menu will include Swiss steak, rice and gravy, fresh Georgia grown vegetables, string beans, fried Hubbard squash, sliced tomatoes on lettuce with Thousand Island dressing, hot biscuits and cornsticks, with creamery butter. Plate, 25 cents; coffee, tea, iced or hot, milk or buttermilk, 5 cents; old-fashioned Georgia apple pie, home-baked, with cheese. The committee in charge includes: Mrs. Whitmire, Mrs. S. M. Finnegan, Mrs. Evan Butler, Mrs. J. M. Veal, Miss Eloise Hurtel and Miss Emily Rossignol.

INSTALLMENT XXXV.

Here, again, Sam was recognized and a good deal was made over him. When, at a late hour, he returned to Chinatown it was with a deeper feeling of disdain for the white people than he had ever experienced. Christians! His superiors! It made him laugh bitterly. They presumed to scorn him; a woman of that race had whipped him. What a cocksure attitude!

* * * *

A few days later Sam's lawyer called on what he announced to be an extraordinary errand. Mr. Carter was indignant and he explained his feelings by saying:

"You remember that fellow Himes who had a part in the Mona Stevens affair?"

"I'm not likely to forget him," Sam declared.

"Well, he has turned up again. He came to see me today on behalf of that Hart girl! The girl your father sent to Paris."

Sam stared incredulously at the speaker. "On her 'behalf'? What has happened to her? Perhaps I'd better say what does she want?"

"Alice Hart is back here in New York and threatens you with a breach of promise action. Blackmail, of course. Settlement out of court. Did you ever write her any letters?"

"No doubt."

"Himes referred to several which breathed poetic devotion of an exalted nature, also to pointed attentions, expensive gifts. He says you entertained her for a week or more at a New York hotel and that she visited your home."

"All true."

"There's no denying the fact that your father sent her to Paris and footed her bills up to the time of his death. Himes contends that a jury would construe such an action as due to the interest of a prospective father-in-law. I dare say if you had continued to foot those bills we'd have heard nothing from her."

There was a peculiar light in Sam's eyes when he said: "Miss Hart is a very charming girl and I was more than fond of her. What's more, I would have married her gladly. I infer that she has analyzed her feeling for me and discovers it to be love."

"Analyzed your bank account!"

"Anyhow she consents to become my wife."

"She does more than consent. She demands."

"Very well. I'll marry her. Promise her that she shall be the proud mistress of my three-roofed house, that she shall wear robes spun from shimmering moonlight and eat delicate foods from the thinnest of imperial porcelain bowls. A hundred docile servants shall bow to her——. But no, my ardor runs away with me. Tell her merely to come and see me, so, that my heart may speak its own message."

"Come here?" The attorney looked incredulous.

"Oh, the illustrious Himes may come with her! He should do so. He's the one to discuss the wedding arrangements, the bridal settlements and such things. A quaint and amusing custom, isn't it?"

Mr. Carter left in a good deal of a huff.

Sam's message, as relayed by his attorney, was not wholly pleasing to Everett Himes, but Carter declined to do more than repeat his client's demand, so an appointment was finally arranged and on the afternoon set Alice and her companion appeared.

Miss Hart, who was under a high nervous strain, rose and peered furtively through the half-open door, then she motioned to Himes. Sam Lee was sprawled on a couch at the far end of the room. He was in a magnificently embroidered robe and one languid arm was around the waist of a shiny-headed Chinese girl. Another girl, who held a thin-necked stringed instrument in her hands, sat cross-legged on a cushion: both were in loose Oriental jackets and pajama-like trousers, both were giggling and tittering. The visitors retreated noiselessly to their chairs.

Moy returned, he bowed them into his master's presence: Sam Lee had risen from the couch and he invited them to be seated. He took Alice's hand and kissed it, he ran his gaze over her and in a voice unnaturally thick and queerly disconcerting he began a ceremonial speech of greeting. The two Chinese girls had retreated across the room and were pretending to look out of a window into the roof garden. They stole occasional glances over their shoulders, clung nervously to each other and exchanged embarrassed giggles.

Alice noticed something else, too. On a tabouret beside the couch was a queerly shaped pipe, a peanut-oil lamp and other articles which evidently went with them. An opium layout! The fellow was drugged. That accounted for his behavior, for his heavy-lidded eyes.

Everett Himes was speaking now, he and Sam were saying something about the Stevens girl, but there was no rancor in their voices. Good heavens, how Chinese Sam had become! And what a change in this place since that night long ago.

Himes asserted gruffly. "What is it, yes or no? You asked her to marry you—am I right? . . . She wants to know what you propose to do about it."

"But why speak of courts, my dear? You long for me, I yearn for you. I bound forward with a shout. Marry you? Well, rather!"

"Let me go!" she gasped, and tried to shake him off.

"Never!" he drew her to him and his face was ablaze. "I'll marry you today, this hour—"

Miss Hart had found her voice and hysterically she reviled him. Himes was storming at him, too, but Sam only raved the louder. Alice ended the scene by suddenly turning and fleeing from the room. Himes followed her, cursing; he overtook her at the door to the steel stairway. She was sobbing and her knees shook, she cast terrified glances over her shoulder.

The sing-song girls, his "Oriental slaves," flung themselves upon the couch and rolled in convulsions of glee. They shrieked, they kicked, they hugged each other, and he joined in their laughter. One of them managed to gasp from the depths of the cushions:

"Oh, Mr. Lee, you're wonderful"

"'Alice I bound forward with a shout!' 'Posture girls!' He bought in China. Wouldn't that slay you, Iris? Do you mind if we tell father and mother?'"

"Of course not. It was nice of them to let you play in my little comedy. Burlesque, rather. I wonder that those people swallowed it."

Entertainment was in full swing, excitement was high in the place on the Drive one night when Moy searched out his employer and found him on one of the upper floors. This was not Moy's night off and Sam was surprised to see him, but the Korean explained that he had been forced to come.

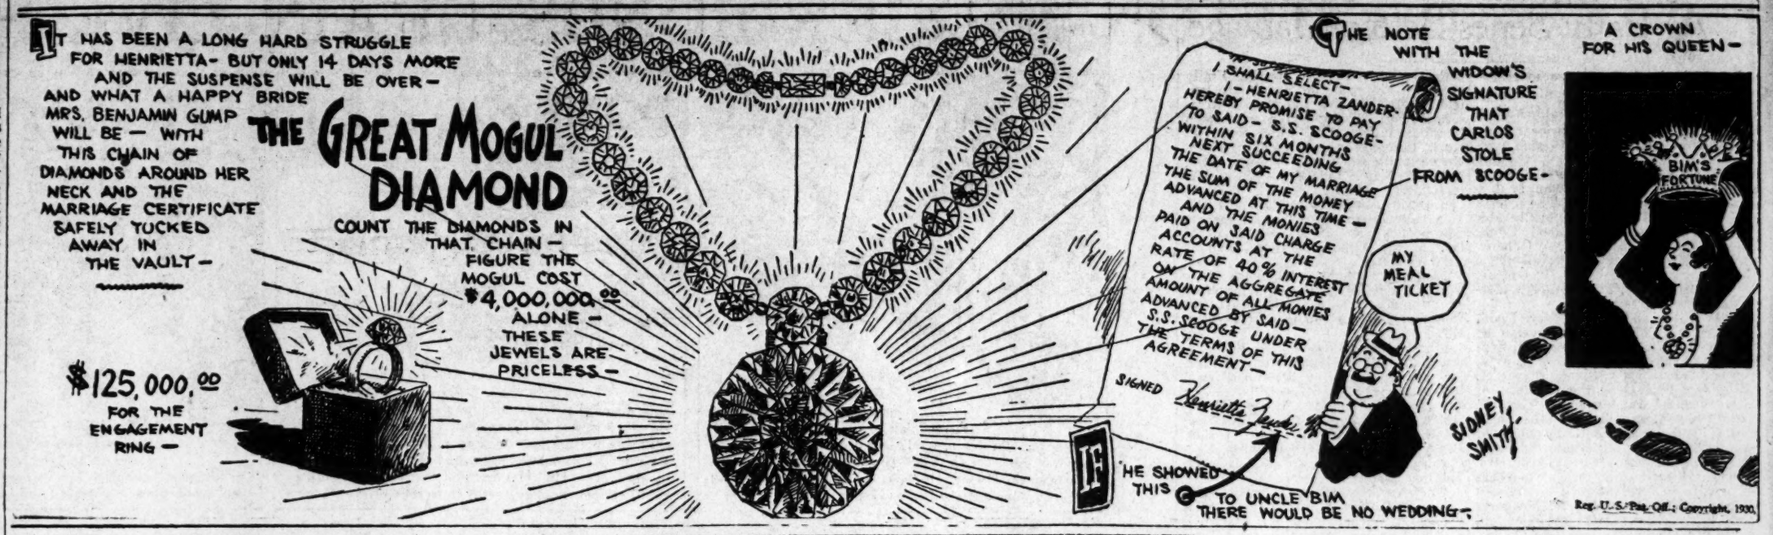

A gentleman had called up Sam's house on the telephone an hour or so before and had insisted upon speaking with him. The man was both uncomplimentary and unrefined. Moy had told him to go to hell.

After a lapse of time the person had appeared in the flesh; he had stormed into Sam's house, shattering its dignified repose with loud profanities and strident demands for immediate audience with the owner on a matter of life and death. He had finally given Moy a hundred-dollar bill and begged him immediately to lead the way to his employer. He was below at this instant.

As told by Dr. Watson:

Sherlock Holmes was the most methodical of men, yet the untidiest one that ever drove a fellow-lodger to distraction. His unanswered correspondence was transfixed with a jack-knife into the center of the wooden mantelpiece. He kept his cigars in the coal scuttle and his tobacco in the end of a Persian slipper.

To my mind pistol-practice is an outdoor pastime. Yet Holmes, in one of his strange moods, would sit in the arm-chair with his hair-trigger, and adorn the opposite wall with a patriotic V R in bullet-pocks. But his papers were my greatest cross. He had a horror of destroying documents, yet he seldom mustered energy to arrange them.

One Winter's night as we sat together by the fire, I ventured to suggest to him that he spend the next two hours in making our room a little more habitable. For his papers had accumulated until every corner was stacked with bundles of manuscript.

"Very well, Watson," Holmes sighed with a rueful face. He went off into his bedroom and in a few moments returned pulling a large tin box. Squatting upon a stool in front of it, he threw back the lid. The box was already a third full of bundles of paper tied with red tape into separate packages.

Steady Increase Marks Enrollment At High Museum

Steady increase in the enrollment of students in the day and night art school of the High Museum of Art is one of the many indications of the expansion and growth of the institution. Approximately 33 day and night students were included in the opening classes of 1929, whereas 44 have already enrolled for the courses this season. The inauguration of a third-year course with the consequent organization of smaller class groups will, it is believed, result in a more personally supervised course of instruction for each individual pupil. All classes are under the instruction of Benjamin Shute and Robert Rogers, graduates of the Art Institute of Chicago.

Among the courses which are offered at the museum are figure study, design, illustration, advertising, portrait painting, anatomy, etching and allied subjects. Free classes for children of the members of the Atlanta Art Association are conducted on Tuesdays, and free classes for pupils of the junior and senior high schools of the city on Saturday mornings. The museum is open to the public from 9 until 12 o'clock and from 1 until 4 o'clock throughout the week; from 7 to 9 o'clock Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, and from 3 to 5 o'clock Sunday afternoons.

Briand Pays Tribute To German Friend

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The affection which M. Aristide Briand and Dr. Stresemann, the late German foreign minister, had for each other was recalled today when the French foreign minister, in an address to newspaper men, paid a remarkable tribute to his late colleague.

"He was a man whom I learned to love," M. Briand said. "Between us there never was any difference in aim, for both of us sought peace. We could sit down together in perfect confidence and loyalty to discuss the most serious problems. Generally our discussions yielded a solution."

Arthur Henderson, British foreign minister, who preceded M. Briand, paid his tribute to the "Man of Locarno."

"Whatever difference of opinion there may be in our methods," said Mr. Henderson, "M. Briand and I are absolutely of the same mind in our ambition for peace." About 300 newspaper men of all countries accredited to the League of Nations covering were guests.

Reading Chairman Makes Request.

Pupils in the Atlanta public schools who participated in the Carnegie library and P.-T. A. program of children's reading for the summer are requested by Mrs. R. R. Ritchie, Atlanta chairman of children's reading, to give their library records of "Books I Have Read" or "Treasure Hunt" lists to their teachers after taking them to the library and receiving credit there for the ten books read. When this has been done the school P.-T. A. reading chairmen will be able to obtain accurate reports of the work and the teachers will have definite information as to books already read before making recommendations for the winter program.

Sigma Chi To Give Picnic.

Atlanta Alumni chapter of Sigma Chi and the active chapters located at Emory University and the Georgia School of Technology, will have the annual picnic commemorating the founding of the Constantine chapter on Wednesday, September 17. BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

Who struts and boasts and swaggers 'round
Fools but himself it will be found.
—Old Mother Nature.

Little Miss Frisky was now little Mrs. Impy. A very pretty little Chipmunk she was and Impy was very proud of her. She was even more proud of Impy, for you know his coat was coal black and a black-coated Chipmunk is seldom seen. It had pleased Impy that Mrs. Impy had been so pleased with his home. To be sure, she had changed the entrance. Impy had to admit that it was better hidden than the entrance he had made. Otherwise, she had been quite satisfied.

Now that he had a home and a mate Impy the black Chipmunk felt very important. Yes, indeed, he felt very important. He strutted. Why shouldn't he strut? Was he not the head of a home? He thought he was anyway. Yes, indeed, he thought he was very much the head of a home.

He and Mrs. Impy had been living together happily for several weeks and Impy was not aware that there had been any changes to amount to anything. To be sure, he discovered that Mrs. Impy had enlarged one of his storerooms; but he thought nothing of this. In fact, he decided it was an improvement. He was quite satisfied to have it so, for now that there were two of them, more storage space would be needed. Then his second storeroom was enlarged. It was done without his knowledge. He happened to be passing one day when he peeped in and discovered how much bigger it was than he remembered it.

"Did you make this room bigger?" he inquired of little Mrs. Impy.

"Yes," said she. "It really wasn't big enough. It might have done all right for you alone, but now that there are two of us we need plenty of room. By the way, we'll build a third storeroom shortly."

"Will we?" inquired Impy, looking a little surprised.

"Yes," replied little Mrs. Impy. "Come with me and I'll show you where we will start it."

Impy did as he was told to do. He followed little Mrs. Impy and when she showed him the place where the new storeroom was to be he not only agreed that that was a good place, but actually went to work digging as Mrs. Impy told him to. Moreover, he kept at it. Little Mrs. Impy helped at times but most of the time there was only room for one to work, and, of course, Impy was that one.

Impy no longer remained out after the coming of the Black Shadows, as he had once done. He would have told you that he no longer cared to stay out. That wasn't it at all. No, indeed, that wasn't it. It was all due to little Mrs. Impy. She had told him to come in with the setting of jolly, round, red Mr. Sun and so he had done as she desired. When they went on little expeditions in search of food little Mrs. Impy always decided where they should go. Impy never decided anything. Mrs. Impy decided everything.

Still Impy thought himself head of the home. Little Mrs. Impy watched him strut and swagger and boast and she grinned as she watched. Sometimes, right in the midst of his strutting she would tell Impy to do something and right away he would do it. In short, that Chipmunk home was managed and managed very well indeed by little Mrs. Impy, who had been lively, pretty little Miss Frisky. And she was quite willing that Impy should continue to think himself the head of the home if it gave him any pleasure.

He not only agreed that that was a good place, but actually went to work digging.

GREAT WATER SPOUTS FRIGHTEN NEOPOLITANS

NAPLES, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Two great water spouts more than 50 feet high formed between Naples and Capri yesterday followed by two smaller ones. They rushed over the surface of the bay sending late bathers scurrying.

The phenomenon lasted 20 minutes and was believed to be due to a strong atmospheric depression which resulted in formation of a cyclonic center in the Gulf of Naples. It was witnessed by great crowds lining the seashore. There was no damage to shipping.

Hurley in Alabama On Way to Capital

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Satisfied with the results of his inspection trip down the Mississippi river from the Twin Cities to the Gulf of Mexico, Secretary Hurley was tonight homeward bound.

Flying his own airplane, the secretary, accompanied by Major-General Lytle Brown, chief of army engineers, arrived here late today to spend the night before continuing to the capital. Darkness prevented the secretary's continuing to Chattanooga, Tenn., where he had planned to stop tonight.

Upon his arrival in Washington tomorrow the secretary will confer immediately with President Hoover on the study which he has made of Mississippi river projects during the last two weeks. The trip down the river was made aboard the U. S. S. General Allen as far as St. Louis, where the U. S. S. Mississippi was taken for the trip down to New Orleans. Taking off from New Orleans today the secretary planned to arrive in Washington late tomorrow or early Thursday.

Health Better Than Riches

"Before I was married, my mother and sister and I did all the farming work on a 64-acre farm for eleven years. I married a farmer and now in addition to my housework and the care of my children I help him with the outside work on our farm. After my last child was born, I began to suffer as many women do. Our family doctor gave me medicine but no results. One day he told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did and now I am a new woman and I know that good health is better than riches."—Mrs. Clyde I. Sherman, R. #1, Lickdale, Pennsylvania.

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN.
Associated Press Market Editor.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Soaring almost 4c a bushel as the result of a buyers' stampede, wheat today suddenly jerked backward at the last, losing part of the gain. The market showed evidence of having become greatly oversold, with many traders nervous about a sharp let-up in rural deliveries of wheat in Canada. There was also much concern apparent relative to advices that the 1930 wheat crop in France would amount to only 208,000,000 bushels and would be of poor quality, indicating unavoidable big imports.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled 1 7-8 to 2 5-8c higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1-2 to 1 1-4c up, oats 3-4 to 1 5-8c advance, and provisions varying from 10c decline to a rise of 7c.

Bulges in wheat values today were in the face of new low record prices at Liverpool. Setbacks in British wheat quotations had only a transient influence here, Chicago traders taking much more notice of advices at hand saying that despite heavy import duties an evident willingness to purchase wheat abroad was being shown on the part of European continental millers. Friends of higher prices contended also that the persistent successive price breaks of late in wheat were showing signs of having culminated, and that recoveries were now to be looked for. Under such circumstances, offerings of wheat future deliveries became unusually scarce here at times, and the market jumped at a rapid rate just before the final gong.

Specially arousing the anxiety of wheat traders who have been on the selling side were late dispatches showing that country marketings of wheat in Canada had decreased to 2,238,000 bushels for 24 hours, as against 3,952,000 bushels a year ago. Decided lessening of pressure today to sell wheat was also reported both at Winnipeg and Minneapolis, and talk was heard that the peak of the 1930 harvest movement of spring wheat northwest had been passed. On the other hand, export demand today for North American wheat was again lacking in volume, and the world's available supply increased 25,617,000 bushels for the week, making the total now 356,021,000 bushels compared with 371,972,000 bushels at this time last year.

Corn and oats followed wheat down early and up later.

Provisions averaged higher, largely as a consequence of a bigger decrease than was looked for in Chicago stocks of lard.

Sugar.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Raw sugar was easier for near-by supplies today, but later shipments held steady. Trading was not very active and the only sales confirmed were 23,400 bags of Philippines afloat at 3.13 and 9,000 bags for September-October shipment at 3.16.

An early partial setback was recovered later in raw futures, but the volume of business was small. The market opened unchanged to 2 points lower under liquidation and commission house selling, promoted by the decline in spots and the disappointing London cables, but the offerings were soon absorbed and the market later steadied on covering and buying by houses with trade and Cuban connections, with the close 1 to 3 points net higher. The day's business aggregated only 12,550 tons. No. 2 contracts closed net unchanged to 2 points higher, with September at 3.02 and December at 3.13, with no sales. Closing prices for No. 1: September 1.11; December 1.18; January 1.20; March 1.29; May 1.38; July 1.45 and next September 1.52.

The refined market was steady, with prices unchanged at 4.35 to 4.45 for fine granulated, with only one refiner quoting the inside price. The withdrawal demand was again of fair proportions, stimulated by the continued warm weather, but new business was light. Some resale granulated was available at 4.40 to 4.42½.

BY DONALD C. BOLLES,
Associated Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(AP)—High-grade domestic issues held a firm trend in a quiet session of the bond market today and a few issues established new highs for the year. The volume of business improved, but the heavy volume of new offerings with which the week has started apparently detracted from the activity in the listed market.

Buying was of a very selective nature, but demand was sufficient to carry the market to a new high for the year in the composite average of 30 bonds. The price movement was irregular as on the previous day with changes of small proportions for the most part.

Activity in the railroad group centered in issues that rank slightly under the best. Canadian Northern 4 1-2s were in demand and reached a new high, and closed unchanged. New peaks were registered also by Big Four 4 1-2s (Cairo division), Hocking Valley 4 1-2s and Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh 4 1-2s. Pennsylvania 4 1-2s duplicated their recent year's peak. The construction 4s of the same company and Allegheny 5s were weak spots.

Several utility issues profited from good buying. Columbia Gas 5s and Laclede Gas Light 5s reached new highs, and other strong bonds were Denver Gas and Electric 5s, Detroit Edison 5s, the latter up 1 point.

More interest developed for some high-grade industrial issues. McKesson & Robbins 5 1-2s were very active and firm. By-Products Coke 5 1-2s attained a new high. American Sugar Refining 5s, Armour & Co. 5 1-2s, National Dairy 5 1-4s and Wheeling Steel 4 1-2s advanced. Central Steel 8s rose 4 1-2 points. Ajax Rubber 8s dropped nearly 5.

German government issues regained some of the ground lost in the selling movement yesterday. The 5 1-2s closed 5-8 net higher, and the 7s advanced 1-2. Some municipal and industrial issues showed weakness, notably Berlin 6s, Berlin Electric 6s and 6 1-2s and United Steel Work 6 1-2s. In the Latin-American group Mexican defaulted issues sagged. Brazilian 8s and Buenos Aires 6 1-2s were strong. Argentine 6s sold off 3-4.

The stock privilege group suffered from selling inspired by the heaviness of stocks. In a large turnover, International Telephone 4 1-2s sagged 3-4. Pathe Warrant 7s lost 2 points. Lautaro Nitrate 6s were weak.

Offerings will be made tomorrow of $5,000,000 4 1-4 water bonds of the city of Los Angeles, Cal., and $1,500,000 Tarrant county Texas, district No. 1, 4 1-2 per cent water bonds.

U. S. Foreign Trade Mounts, Hoover Told

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—President Hoover has been informed by the commerce department that American foreign trade for August, is running at between 80 and 85 per cent in quantity of like foreign trade last year and has registered some gain over early months of 1930.

"I have received from the department of commerce preliminary figures on foreign trade for the month of August," the president said today. "They show total imports of $217,000,000 and total exports of about $300,000,000. The exports show an increase of about $38,000,000 over July.

"The department has made a study as to how far imports and exports have been affected by the fall in prices as distinguished from actual quantity. During the first seven months of this year our exports have decreased about 30 per cent in quantity and our imports have decreased about 5 per cent indicating that our buying power has held up much better than that of foreign countries."

Since wholesale prices on world markets have fallen about 15 per cent during the last year on the average covering all commodities, the departmental studies indicate quantities in foreign trade of the United States are not much below 1929 figures.

The counts, however, having been kept in values, have shown a greater decline in dollars than they actually would in unit of quantity.

Early Drive by Bears Is Centered on Utilities

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER.
Associated Press Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The curb market finished narrowly irregular today. A rally in the final hour saved many pivotal issues from sinking to new lows on the current selling movement which set in last week. Changes were fractional for the most part, with few outstanding examples of strength or weakness except among inactive industrial issues.

The trend throughout most of the session was toward lower levels. There were several ineffectual efforts to stage a recovery but advances brought out a volume of offerings sufficient to force a decline. Late buying, principally attributed to covering operations by shorts, carried prices to the best levels of the session. The volume of business totaled 349,600 shares.

Bears, concentrating on utilities, found Electric Bond & Share, American & Foreign Power warrants, United Light & Power "A," Central States Electric, American Superpower open to attack. Electric Bond & Share sagged 2 points. At the finish the former was off only 1-4 and the latter was firm. The others were little changed. Short covering carried Public Utility Holding up more than a point. Brazilian Traction moved against the trend, closing at 36 5-8, up 1 1-8.

As in the previous session, oil shares were less affected by the selling movement. Cosden and Humble gained about 1-2 point each. Cities Service closed net unchanged, while Standard of Indiana, Gulf, Vacuum and Standard of Nebraska were slightly lower.

There was little activity in the specialty group. Technicolor was the feature. Duplicating its performance on Monday, it reached another new low in moderate trading, closing at 20 3-4, a net loss of 2 1-4 points. Translux lost 1-2. Deere moved up more than a point on this buying. Dresser Manufacturing was strong. American Cyanamid "B" and Anglo-Chilean Nitrate were soft spots.

Price movement of investment and holding companies shares was very narrow. The late rally carried Goldman Sachs, Pennroad and Shenandoah slightly higher. Aviation stocks were irregular. National Aviation was strong. Western Air Express sagged 2 points.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.

Receipts, 764; shipments, 32; stocks, 43,014.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Trading in cotton was quiet here today with price holding generally steady except for some irregularity toward the close, when there appeared to be a little more southern selling and near-month liquidation. The new December contract, after selling up from 11.07 to 11.14, closed at 11.11 and the general market closed steady at net advances of 1 to 11 points, except for the old January contract, which was 2 points net lower.

The opening was steady at an advance of 2 to 11 points in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables. Comparatively light offerings were absorbed on moderate setbacks and the market soon firmed up again on trade buying and covering. The failure of southern hedge selling to develop in greater volume seemed to be accountable for some of the covering, while the trade buying was accompanied by rumors that there were resting orders in the market to buy for that account on declines and prices developed considerable firmness before the end of the morning.

New October contracts sold up to 10.96 and March to 11.39, making net advances of about 10 to 13 points on the more active months, but these prices brought out a little more realizing and the market sagged off again in the later trading. Southern selling was a little more in evidence during the last half hour and there was further near-month liquidation, particularly in the old style contracts. New October closed at 10.91 and the old October at 10.92, while March closed at 11.37. There was considerable switching from near to late months during the day.

A considerable part of the day's business was attributed to evening up of near months in preparation of the possibility of October notices on Thursday of next week. These operations were partly in the way of switching from near to late months and from old style to new style contracts resulting in a narrowing of difference between the new and old contracts and a widening of differences between near and late months.

Liverpool cables said that continental buying and trade calling had absorbed hedge selling in that market and reported moderate sales of cotton cloths and yarns. Exports today 83,055, making 785,455 so far this season. Port receipts 72,924. U. S. port stocks 2,176,125.

SPOTS GAIN AT NEW ORLEANS.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 16.—(AP).—The cotton market was comparatively quiet today and prices were narrow, but the trend was upward. Cables were favorable and the weather map showed too much rain in the central and eastern belts and insufficient in the west. These influences and large exports for the day caused prices to advance nearly half a dollar a bale during the morning or 8 points above the previous close. While this bulge attracted some ring selling, causing a dip of 5 points, the market soon rallied again to the highs.

The market continued steady in early afternoon and advanced to new highs for the day on the large exports 95,081 bales, 10 points above the previous close, but eased off slightly at end on realizing. The general market closed steady at net gains of 5 to 7 points.

Liverpool came in 2 to 3 points better than due and first trades here showed gains of 3 to 4 points in sympathy. Prices continued to gain after the call, October trading up to 10.98 and December to 11.16, up 8 points compared with the previous close.

This advance attracted some selling by ring traders and a little hedge selling and prices eased off 5 points to 10.93 for October and 11.10 for December, but promptly rallied again to the earlier highs. In the early afternoon October advanced to 11.00 and December to 11.18, new highs 10 points above the previous close, but eased off 3 to 4 points at the end on realizing, October closing at 10.96 and December at 11.15, or 6 to 7 points net higher for the day on those active months.

Port receipts 85,850; for week 214,707; for season 1,471,946; last season 1,066,539. Exports 95,081; for week 140,116; for season 764,761; last season 571,457. Port stock 2,180,100; last year 910,042. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 77,255; last year 77,244. Spot sales at southern markets 41,150; last year 39,702.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The stock market rallied in the last hour of a quiet session today, but the recovery did little more than eliminate the day's loses. It was the fifth successive day in which the dominant trend had been downward.

Sentiment seemed influenced to an important degree by the movement of grains, for the shorts sold stocks most actively while corn and wheat were easing and shares only showed recuperative powers on the afternoon upturn in those commodities. The covering that appeared in stocks when wheat soared 3 1-2 to 4 cents a bushel from the day's lows received some further impetus from the Washington announcement of a $38,000,000 estimated increase in August exports over July.

Volume of trading picked up a little on the decline, especially in the forenoon when some commission house selling was uncovered, but this was well absorbed and moderate early losses were recovered. Shorts, who had been paying their respects to the motion picture and radio shares, as well as to some of the old-line industrial favorites, soon put out new lines, selecting the chain store and farm implement stocks. They were somewhat more successful with the special groups than with U. S. Steel, American Can, Westinghouse Electric, General Electric and American Telephone, although losses of a point and more appeared in these favorites.

Sears, Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Case and International Harvester yielded 2 to 4 points before meeting support. Grigsby Grunow, sagging to 6 3-4, another new low, Real Silk Hosiery, off nearly 4 and Atlas Powder were other soft spots. On the other hand, bull pool operations went forward in Kroger Grocery and Safeway Stores which rose 3 and 4 points, respectively.

Business news was generally featureless. Reports from the northwest indicated that the movement of wheat had reached about 4,000,000 bushels daily on four large carriers, foreshadowing an improvement in railway operating incomes. Missouri-Kansas-Texas' president said his road would make a better showing this month, predicting that the last four months of the year would exceed last year's results for the same period.

Bearish professionals stressed the point that the market had been extremely lazy on the recent rallies and they suggested that interests which had worked for the advance had become tired and were liquidating. It was noticeable, however, that support was waiting for the highest grade shares and this was in turn discouraging to the bear faction. As the rally got under way the market was extremely dull.

Money was comfortable and there was no noticeable congestion from the quarterly financing by the government and the September income tax payments. Call loans renewed at 2 1-2 per cent, but dropped to 2 shortly after noon.

The advance in wheat after the September future had come within an eighth of a cent of yesterday's post-war low reflected an oversold condition in that market. Although final quotations were off from the top, prices ranged from 2 to 2 1-2 cents net higher. Corn firmed in sympathy and in response to a strong cash market, rising 1-8 to 1 cent. Cotton closed stead, 1 to 11 points, although the old January contract closed 2 points off.

In general, stocks made narrow moves on the day. United States Steel, Electric Power & Light, American Power & Light, Eastman Kodak, Foster Wheeler and Union Carbide showed gains of about a point and there were fractional advances in General Electric, American Telephone, General Motors, Westinghouse Electric and Radio. International Harvester's 4-point drop was halved and so was Montgomery Ward's 2-point decline. Sears, Roebuck and Johns-Manville finished fractionally lower. American Water Works was strong, rallying a couple of points. J. I. Case closed 1 3-4 higher and Diamond Match soared.

Grain Exports Shown Decreasing

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Exports of grain from the United States in the week ended September 13 totaled 2,570,000 bushels, as compared with 3,872,000 bushels in the preceding week and 5,148,000 bushels in the corresponding week of 1929.

Wheat exports reported to the department of commerce amounted to 2,451,000 bushels during the week ended September 13, against 3,386,000 in the preceding week; barley 72,000, against 407,000; corn 46,000, against 38,000; oats 1,000, against 1,000; rye none, against 40,000.

Canadian grains in transit cleared from United States Atlantic ports totaled 1,697,000 bushels, against 1,523,000, while Canadian wheat flour shipped from United States ports totaled 20,000 barrels, against 39,000 barrels. United States wheat flour exported amounted to 303,000 barrels, against 164,000.

Mississippi Delta Ginnings Decrease

CLEVELAND, Miss., Sept. 16—(AP) First ginning reports from a half dozen delta counties indicate there is 50 to 60 per cent decrease in the 1930 cotton crop in comparison with last year's ginnings. First ginnings in Sunflower, Tallahatchie, Bolivar, Coahoma and other counties last year averaged 4,000 to 5,000 bales and this year it averages only 1,000 to 1,500 bales. Sunflower, particularly, has fallen off. Conservative estimates are for a production this year of 100,000 bales against 165,000 last year.

Retail Druggists Told Their Business Good

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 16. (AP)—The retail drug business is in a healthy condition despite chain store competition and trade depression, Thomas Roach, of Oklahoma City, president of the National Association of Retail Druggists, told delegates to annual convention today.

"My candid opinion is that aside from the lesser volume of business handled, our industry has shown a decided improvement during the year," Mr. Roach said in his annual report.

Cottonseed Oil.

NEW ORLEANS.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 16.—The market for cottonseed oil futures was very quiet but prices were steady in sympathy with the course of cotton prices. Prime summer yellow oil closed unchanged at 7.45 and prime crude closed at 6.37½ to 6.50. Futures closed steady; September 7.35; October 7.30; December 7.43; January 7.44; March 7.45.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The cottonseed oil market was quiet today, but was featured by a gradual improvement in tone due to the late strength in grain markets.

The closing was steady with old contracts 1 to 11 points net higher and new contracts 1 to 5 points higher. Total sales were 2,000 barrels, including 1,100 barrels in the old and 1,500 in the new contract. Prime crude 6.55; prime summer yellow, old: Spot 8.35; September 8.26; October 8.21; December 8.20; new: December and January 7.65; March 7.82.

Market Gossip

Cotton Letters.

BEER & CO.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The cotton market Tuesday was a quiet and featureless affair, opening 4 points up from previous close on good Liverpool cables, absence of hedge selling and fairly good trade buying. The trading was within a very narrow range and what strength there was, was probably injected by the heavy exports, amounting to 95,081 bales against 20,744 last year and for the season 764,761 against 571,487 a year ago, almost 200,000 bales ahead of last season.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Trading was on a very small scale Tuesday, but the market ruled very steady in the absence of any selling pressure either from the south or other sources. The trade demand around 11 cents for new December continues to hold the market in the absence of any burdensome hedge pressure. This demand from the trade seems likely to sustain prices for the time being especially as there are no indications of any marked increase in hedge offerings owing to the prevailing holding movement.

FENNER & BEANE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—There was more inclination to buy cotton Tuesday and less to sell owing to improvement in dry goods news, large export movement, small volume of hedge sales, continued tightness of spots, improvement in other markets and uncertainty over review of the weather bureau Wednesday.

Trading was fairly lively at times and market was strong from start to finish with the best prices made after the exports were posted. Trade interest reported good buyers. There was a good deal of switching from October to later months on account of near approach of first notice day for that month, but this did not affect values. Tenders are expected to be light.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The market after an early advance of ten points due to better cables, held very steady the remainder of the day, with distant months relatively stronger. Hedge selling remains small. The principal activity was transferring from October to distant months ahead of first notice day. Market closed about ten points up on the day. Despite the continued favorable weather selling from the south is extremely small for this season of the year with trade buying on all moderate setbacks. Liverpool futures are due tomorrow. October 5.91, January 6.02.

ORVIS BROS. & CO.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Our market opened 1 to 10 points higher and advanced to gains of 10 to 12 points on active months. Buying of December and March by professionals was believed to be short covering. Outside interest was limited and prices fluctuated within a narrow range.

A letter received Tuesday from one of our most valued correspondents, who is a large and eminently successful textile manufacturer, is so closely in accord with our views of the market situation that we are by permission, passing it on to all of our friends in the trade:

"I believe that it will not be long before there will be a big demand for textile products because of the low price basis. I think this demand will start as soon as general business picks up. I do not expect big profits but I do think next year the mills ought to be in better shape than this year. It seems to me, as to cotton, that the market ought to sag some more, but, when it goes down appreciably lower than the present basis I believe that the market is going to attract speculators from all over the country who realize that the price is well below the cost of production and who feel that there is not a great deal of risk in buying it provided they can hold it for a reasonable time."

We believe the foregoing deserves the careful consideration of every cotton manufacturer and of prospective investors.

Stock Letters.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—There was some pressure on the leading issues in the morning trading, especially in United States Steel and Monday's lows in most cases were broken. The afternoon witnessed a rally which enabled the market to close with a small-sized gain for the day. Volume of trading showed little change from Monday. The market was materially benefited by a 2-cent advance in the price of wheat. A reduction in the price of copper to 10½ cents by some custom smelters had little effect marketwise. There were two news items which had a favorable bearing on the business situation. The first was a statement by Eugene N. Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel, that steel prices are slowly but steadily strengthning as a result of better accord on price policy by leading interests in the industry. The other was the announcement that retail deliveries of General Motors cars have shown up better than earlier forecasts for the first time in several months.

BEER & CO.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Prices Tuesday gave a favorable technical indication by making new lows for the move followed by a higher close than that of last night. Preliminary industrial averages showed a gain of about half a point. Most of the leading stocks made worth while gains, led by United States Steel, up over a point; Union Carbide, nearly 2 points, and General Electric almost a point.

Ordinarily a reversal such as took place Tuesday afternoon when the market rallied after early weakness would provide a basis of expecting an up move of substantial proportions. Actually it was no more than natural that after four days of declining prices a rally should develop.

JACKSON BROS., BOESEL & CO.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Grain prices touched new post-war lows on Monday and duplicated those lows in Tuesday's market. Then followed a very sharp rally which carried wheat prices up almost 4 cents before resistance was met. The rally in grain, as anticipated, inspired a sharp recovery in the stock market. We anticipate that the stock market, for some time to come, will take its cue from the grain market. A close watch on the grain market is, therefore, suggested for those who are interested in making trading turns in stocks.

We have been in touch during the last few days with two important mercantile sources and in each case we found a marked change in optimistic sentiment compared with 30 days ago. In each case it was revealed that a large buying movement had set in for requirements way beyond immediate needs. This adds evidence to substantiate the conclusion that some lines of business have definitely turned the corner. We cannot expect that all industries will move together in registering improvement.

COURTS & CO.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Leading stocks Tuesday, after selling off to new lows on the reaction, staged a fair rally during the afternoon. This rally resulted in a recovery of slightly more than the losses recorded up to 1 o'clock. The industrial averages showed a net gain of 60 cents, closing at 237.22. Their low for the day was 232.85. This represented an extreme decline of nearly 15 points from the highest average level, reached Wednesday a week ago, or approximately 50 per cent of the total 32-point advance from the lows of August 13.

We believe that the rally which started Tuesday afternoon should continue further. After five days of rather persistent selling the market appears entitled to something more than a two-hour rally. Several technical factors indicate the probability of further recovery. Of these, the one which impresses us most favorably is the fact that despite the recent persistent selling no important active stock has shown any signs of fundamental weakness. All stocks of this character have held at logical support points established during the past two to four weeks.

FENNER & BEANE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—After four successive days of decline stocks found support Tuesday at a level just above the low point of the reaction which preceded the breaking of 140 resistance level. From a technical viewpoint, checking of reaction at this point has favorable significance, evidencing an upward revision of recent support levels.

To a large extent Tuesday's rally may be attributed to technical strength developed as a result of the recent reaction of about 8 points in the Dow-Jones indusrial averages. In so far as technical considerations dictated the rally recovery in prices can be expected to be limited unless new influences make their appearance in the form of convincing evidence of business improvement.

Dry Goods.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Cotton gray goods were unchanged today and the market was firm. Some inquiry continued for print cloths. Better sales were reported in fine goods. Burlaps were unchanged to a shade firmer with the market quiet. The downward trend continued in raw silks, with heavy selling in Japan and a dull market here.

Rice.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 16.—Rough rice 2,741; nominal. Clean rice none; quiet.

Oldest Raleigh Bank Suspends Operation

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 16.—(UN) The Raleigh Banking and Trust Company, oldest financial institution in Wake county, failed to open for business today due to lack of confidence resulting from independent failure of one of the bank's directors.

Harry Fagan, cashier of the closed bank, told the United News today the bank's condition began slipping two weeks ago after shortage was discovered in the accounts of the Durfey and Marr brokerage firm. Carey K. Durfey, partner in the defunct brokerage firm and director of the bank for many years, proved the connecting link, Fagan said.

State banking department agents began an audit of the bank's accounts today preparatory to giving over the business to the Page Trust Company, Aberdeen, N. C., which will act as liquidating agent and open new accounts under the Page name. Deposits totaled $2,167,180.28.

Wall Street Briefs.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton Textile Institute, announced today at the third annual trade conference that a fund of $250,000 has been authorized and is to be spent by the cotton industry in 1931 to continue the institute's advertising and education program in behalf of styled cottons and other uses of cotton. He said that if fashion follows the same cycles which it has in the past there is "every reason to believe that the prominence with which cotton has been featured in every price range during the past two years will greatly aid the manufacturers of popular priced cotton dresses and fabrics."

LINGLE SUSPECT FOUND IN LOUISVILLE JAIL

Geisking Denies Killing Reporter or That He Knew Him.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 16.—(AP) Ted Geisking, sought as the suspected murderer of Alfred Lingle, Chicago reporter, was found today to have been in jail here on vagrancy charges since last Friday. A detective recognized him by a picture.

Hardly had the man admitted his identity before press dispatches from Chicago said authorities there were not so certain after all that Geisking shot the reporter. The man himself flatly denied that he had done it, or even knew Lingle. Police said he admitted rum running and hijacking.

A man brought here by George Williams, Chicago detective, and said to have seen the Lingle slayer, said "that looks like the man except for his hair," and so Geisking was given a shampoo. That, however, failed to disclose any evidence of hair dye.

Geisking was picked up as a vagrant and gave his name as Emmeral Harris, 22, Chicago laborer. Another man arrested with him said he was Stanley Harris, and that they were brothers. Geisking declined to say what this man's real name was, or to give details about two women also arrested last Friday. One he said was his wife, but he would not give her maiden name, nor would he give the real name of the other one listed as Adeline Patricia Graham. They were released in $300 bond each yesterday, and Geisking's bond was placed at $1,000 but before he could make it, a murder and fugitive charge was filed. Today he was held without bond on this charge and word was received that Pat Roche, special investigator, was coming here from Chicago to press extradition proceedings.

Geisking, meanwhile, hired a lawyer and it was indicated he would fight extradition. Police said Geisking's picture had been identified as one of the robbers who seized $100,000 in jewelry from Jason F. Whitney and his party at Evanston, Ill., recently, and Indiana authorities were said to want him on various liquor running charges. Geisking told reporters he was being "framed" in the Lingle case.

Franklin Died Backtracking, Flyer Thinks

EDMONTON, Alberta, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Returning from his flight to King William Island, Major L. T. Burwash, Canadian explorer, today advanced the theory that Sir John Franklin and his 128 men perished on the arctic island 85 years ago while backtracking to their ships after a vain attempt to march overland to civilization.

This theory, he said, was substantiated by the discovery of sites of camps of the lost explorers and groups of graves. Relics of the expedition, broadcloth, tent material and rope, were recovered. No trace was found of the Franklin ships, the Erebus and Terror, believed to have been wrecked along the western shore of the island.

In addition to his flight to King Wiliam island, Major Burwash and his pilot, William E. Gilbert, mapped more than 2,00 miles of coastline within the arctic circle, made an inspection of copper claims in the far north and landed at the magnetic pole to check a possible shifting of the pole.

At the magnetic pole, some 1,200 miles north of Winnipeg, they found evidence of a visit by Raold Amundsen, noted explorer. In the presence of R. Finney, an observer of the department of the interior, who accompanied them on that leg of the flight, a cairn found at the pole was opened and found to contain a photograph of Dr. Neumeyer, of Germany, who financed Amundsen's expedition.

The relics of the Franklin expedition were crated by Major Burwash at Port Smith and are being shipped to Ottawa.

Youth Held By Police For Laundry Robbery

A man giving his name as John T. Sims, 18, of Birmingham, Ala., was arrested late Tuesday night in a garage building adjacent to the Trio laundry, at Peachtree and Baker streets, where he is said to have fled after robbing the laundry of a quantity of small change.

According to police Sims was seen in the laundry by a passerby who turned in an alarm to which Call Officers Maddox and Hardy responded. From the laundry the officers trailed him over roofs to the garage where he was found with about $10 in nickels, dimes, and quarters, in his possession. Police said he admitted taking the silver from the laundry and attempting to hide in the garage when the officers arrived.

Democrats Refuse Johnston Recount

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 16.—(UN)—By unanimous vote the democratic state executive committee today declared Solicitor Ira C. Blackwood, Spartanburg, democratic nominee for governor. The action denied a petition for recount tendered by Olin D. Johnson, also of Spartanburg, who lost to Blackwood by a margin of 969 votes of 236,000 votes cast. Former Congressman James F. Byrnes was declared the senatorial nominee over Coleman Livingston Blease, incumbent, corroborating the run-off primary.

Carolinian Faces Sentence of Death

KINSTON, N. C., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Herman Casey, 45-year-old truck driver, was convicted in superior court here this afternoon of the murder July 3 of J. C. Causey, Suffolk, Va., lumberman. Sentence will be passed tomorrow. The verdict automatically carries a death sentence. Casey showed no emotion when the jury's verdict was read at 4:05 p. m.

MAN SHOOTS SELF AS DOCTORS LISTEN

DOTHAN, Ala., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Burkett Vann, 28, guest at a hotel last night, called two doctors and after requesting the switchboard operator to hold the connections, fired a pistol bullet into his left chest. He will recover.

The physicians rushed to the hotel after hearing the report of the shot through the receiver. The bullet entered the chest just above the heart. Domestic trouble was said by Vann to have been responsible for the shooting.

Alice Brady, Famous Star, Arrives To Play at Erlanger

Alice Brady, famous star of stage and screen, was greeted at Brookwood station by Lewis Haase, manager of the Erlanger theater, upon her arrival to play an engagement of several weeks as guest star of the Erlanger Theater Players, popular local stock company.

Alice Brady, internationally known as a star both of the legitimate stage and of the screen, is now in Atlanta, preparing for her opening performance next Monday at the Erlanger theater, where she is to appear as guest star with the Erlanger Theater Players. The production in which she will play the leading role next week is Brock Pemberton's famous play about a temperamental opera star and her home life, "Enter Madame."

Miss Brady, who arrived from New York Monday, has been busy rehearsing with the Players daily since. She has appeared with practically all members of the company in other cities and they are thus familiar with her style of work.

The engagement of Miss Brady, which is for a period of several weeks, marks the inauguration of a new policy for the Players, under which a number of the most famous stars of the American stage will come here for limited engagements. During the coming season it is expected that Margaret Anglin, Fay Bainter, Frances Starr, Madge Kennedy and others will appear before Erlanger audiences in the plays in which they have scored their greatest Broadway successes.

BRITISH SPORTSMAN A BIT AGHAST IN MACHINE AGE

Now Being Made by Lipton

BY CORNELIUS VANDERBILT, JR.
United News Special Correspondent.
(Copyright, 1930, by United News.)

ABOARD SIR THOMAS LIPTON'S YACHT ERIN, OFF NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 16.—(UN)—Sir Thomas Lipton has challenged for the last time.

Time has passed him by. He is a yachtsman of the old line school. The mechanical age has left him in its wake. Nevertheless, he marvels at it, and its swift precision in getting things done efficiently and promptly.

"Of course, I am disappointed," he told me today, "but I think Harold Vanderbilt is a darned fine fellow, and his yacht the marvel of the seven seas. If I had a boat like that, I'd take her into every yachting harbor in the world, and give those fellows all a good licking."

My preconceptions of the world's greatest sportsman were shattered today. He may be old in years, but his youth in physique and conversation is still amazing. We chatted for a long time together, uninterrupted in his sumptuously furnished cabin amidship. It was not the questionnaire type of talk; it was a fraternal matter.

"America is unbelievably extraordinary," he continued. "We, in Europe, have not the faintest conception of the true meaning of the mechanical age. Men still accomplish things for us. Machines are discussed, dreamed of, investigated, but get no further. The brawn of the human being is still paid for and is worth something to our population.

"Over here, an inventor takes his product to someone. A group or syndicate is formed. Bankers finance it. Within 24 hours the factory is being built; and within seven days the product is being turned out by the thousands.

"It would be beyond the conception of our rocking-chair fleet at home yacht clubs that a sloop such as is Enterprise could ever actually appear, and upon appearance, sail as though a great phantom being propelled it, and yet with every single move of the sails, commands are heard upon the competing vessel, and a splendidly trained crew, in Enterprise's hull, execute them.

"I suppose some day," he said, with that twinkling eye, which has made him so famous, "you fellows will be harnessing radio, and using it in your amateur sports also."

Through the large plate-glass windows of his private office were wafted the lazy sing-songs of Ireland. A score or more small vessels, black with humanity, popped in and out of the pockets of fog which shrouded the Erin from the yachts in the outer harbor. They sang lustily the songs of Killarney, and Sir Thomas' face lit up a bit as they passed by.

"It's like the peasants' songs in the hill country," he said. "I've never had such a welcome; it overcomes me sometimes, and at night, when I seek my bunk, and hear those young voices out there it makes me feel as if I'd lost 60 of my 81 years. But I am old, and if I lose this race I shall not challenge again.

"When I come on deck in the morning and see grim reality, my mind is filled with little mechanical gadgets, adjusters, releases, winches and metal masts. I am in the midst of a world of machinery, and I wonder how those poor dear lads over there on Shamrock can commence to comprehend it. They are learning early in life the greatness of America, the nation which welcomed the rest of the world to her shores and taught them what machines could do.

"I am a bit disappointed that we were not informed in England of Mr. Vanderbilt's mechanical hull. I doubt, perhaps, if, sailing abroad, he would be permitted to use the metal mast, boom, and so forth; but surely the winches would be allowed. All of the six-meter boats which England has sent to America have had them. They are not new, in sailing vessels, I know. But they prove beyond a doubt that with them a yacht can be sailed to precision, which is impossible, in my opinion, with simply man power."

Asked Sir Thomas then, a rather impertinent question:

"Certainly not," he answered quickly. "Mr. Vanderbilt's Enterprise is the finest racing sloop afloat. I think he is a plain, wholesome gentleman. There are no frills to him.

"I like Harold Vanderbilt especially because he knows he has a good boat. He sails her well. He's given Shamrock every consideration that he could. But he's kept himself above the pettiness of some advisers who would have him toss a race to us. The man who would do a thing like that would not be a clean sportsman."

Sir Thomas is, of course, disappointed. But there may be more days, with better breezes coming to Newport. And he feels he still has a chance. Shamrock might prove herself to be an exceptionally good heavy weather sloop. I spent the day with Sir Thomas; and as I left him, he took me to the gangway to send me ashore in his launch.

Leaving the Erin, I shouted up to him: "Are we downhearted, Sir?" And the reply came back clear and strong, "No!"

Henry Fails To Rally After Spine Operation

After a delicate operation performed by Grady hospital surgeons in an effort to repair his shattered spine, Ewell Henry, 25, of 571 East avenue, who received the injury in an automobile accident near Copper Hill, Tenn., last week still was in a critical condition late Tuesday night, according to hospital attendants.

The operation, technically known as "laminectomy," consisted in the removal of chipped bone from several splintered lumbar vertabrae in order to relieve the unnatural pressure in the spinal cord to which doctors attributed his state of partial paralysis. He has a 100-to-1 chance for recovery, attendants say.

Floridian Becomes Head of Odd Fellows

Mrs. Amelia Plank, of San Antonio, Texas, was elevated from the vice presidency to president of the Association Rebekah Assemblies.

Other officers elected by the sovereign grand lodge were Joseph Powley, Toronto, Ont., deputy grand sire; M. J. Edward Kroh, Baltimore, grand secretary, and William H. Cox, Maysville, Ky., grand treasurer.

Officers of the Rebekah assembly elected in addition to Mrs. Blank were: Mrs. Edyth Florence Kelly, Roseburg, Ore., vice president; Miss Ruby Gleiser, Estevan, Sask., treasurer, and Mrs. Josie Morrow, Jacksonville, Fla., secretary.

SHANTY BOATDWELLERS BATTLE DRY RAIDERS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 16.—(AP) A family of Mississippi river shanty boat dwellers battled four sheriff's deputies today in an unsuccessful effort to block a liquor raid on their houseboat moored near here.

John Lung, 35, his wife and their son, Warren, 18, were arrested on charges of threatened breach of the peace and liquor law violation.

The officers said Mrs. Lung smashed jugs of whisky while they fought the son. A battle royal with the whole family, accompanied by much broken crockery and swinging of fists, preceded the arrests.

MONTANA SHOWS LOSS IN NUMBER OF FARMS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Montana, the one state showing decrease in population in the last decade, lost 17.5 per cent of its farms in that period. Colorado, however, gained by 1 per cent.

A census bureau announcement today showed Montana as having 47,563 farms in 1930 as against 57,677 farms in 1920, a numerical loss of 10,114 farms. Colorado's 1930 state total was 60,563 farms as against 59,934 in 1920, a numerical increase of 629 farms.

Air Corps Troop School Is Resumed

Following suspension during the summer months, the local Air Corps Troop school resumed sessions for the fall and winter season Tuesday night with a well-attended meeting in the reserve army headquarters of the Fourth Corps Area, 210 Red Rock building.

The session was featured by reception of several new members, discussions and talks by Major R. K. Greene, Captain Austin, Lieutenant Van H. Burgin and L. B. Neuberger. Two-hour class sessions will be in order in future.

U. S. Bridge Team Again Beats British

LONDON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The United States bridge team competing against British players in an international contest led by 4,325 points tonight when the day's play ended—and, that, despite the fact that England gained 1,000 points in the final hand, the fifty-sixth.

Play will be resumed Thursday afternoon.

When the first day's play ended yesterday the Americans had a lead of 905 points.

'Red Top' Night Club In Receiver's Hands

The "Red Top" Night Club, located at 76 North Forsyth street, Tuesday night went into the hands of Paul Ginsberg, receiver, according to Ben F. Taylor, Jr., attorney for Mrs. Sarah Donald, on whose petition the receivership went into effect. Mrs. Mary Louise Booth, joint partner in the night club with Mrs. Donald, is defendant in the case, which resulted from a dispute over finances, Mr. Taylor said. The receiver was given authority to operate the club through Tuesday night with the proviso that the place should be closed by 9 o'clock this morning. A. A. Baumstark is assisting Mr. Taylor for the plaintiff.

'Mother' Jones Given But Few Days to Live

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—"Mother" Mary Jones, militant labor leader for 60 of her 100 years, gradually is lapsing into a coma and her physician said today she had, at best, but a few more days to live.

"Mother" Jones has been ill since last fall, but for the last two weeks she has been unable to assimilate solid food. Today she retained a small quantity of diluted milk and a heart stimulant. Her physician said there would be no attempt at artificial feeding as it would only cause her pain and discomfort.

As the end appears approaching the aged labor leader, heretofore always mentally alert, seemingly has lost her usual interest in occurrences. Her wakeful periods shorten daily.

Detroit Police Hold Buckley Death 'Voice'

DETROIT, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Police claimed tonight to have under arrest the woman who called Jerry Buckley to his death in the lobby of the La Salle hotel at 1:50 a. m., July 23, two hours after he announced the recall of Mayor Charles Bowles over radio station WMBC.

The woman under arrest is Mrs. Sinnig, alias Dorothy Duvall, alias Helen Chazel, also known as "Little Paula." Detectives had searched for her for several weeks as the "Voice Woman" in the case. Her husband, H. C. Sinnig, was arrested today in his room at the La Salle hotel. Mrs. Sinnig was traced through telephone numbers found in her husband's room.

Police say Mrs. Sinnig telephoned Buckley about midnight, July 22, after Buckley finished broadcasting returns from the recall election. Police said they had information that she knew Angelo Livecchi, held here on charges of slaying Buckley, Ted Pizzino, under arrest in New York for the slaying, and another alleged participant in the killing, "Black Leo" Cellura, all of whom lived in the hotel where Buckley's radio station was located and in the lobby of which he was shot to death.

Police said there is a possibility that she drove the automobile in which the killers escaped.

NYE GROUP DROPS PROBE OF ESPIONAGE

Mrs. McCormick Charges Act Seeks To Forestall Revelations.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—(AP)—All espionage charges, and evidence pertaining to espionage, were summarily dropped today by the senate committee, which is inquiring into senatorial campaign expenditures in Illinois.

The committee decided to return forthwith to its main line of inquiry, that being investigation of the expenditures of Congresswoman Ruth Hanna McCormick in the primary election which gave her the republican nomination to the United States senate.

Senator Nye gave as his reason the fact that the committee is pressed for time and desirous of concluding its work in Chicago by Saturday night.

As the committee reached this decision, Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom, of Illinois, stood by with a statement "in defense of the honor of Mrs. McCormick," and had present two witnesses by which he declared he would prove investigators for the committee practiced both espionage and wiretapping.

He was not allowed to read his statement and his witnesses were not allowed to testify. To his protests, Chairman Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, replied each time with "Call Mrs. Reinecke."

Mrs. Mabel C. Reinecke was a witness. She turned upon the committee with a lecture.

"You have disrupted our whole campaign," she charged. "It has seemed strange to us that while Mrs. McCormick, the only woman to be nominated for the United States senate, is interferred with, other candidates have not been."

Nye protested, saying the committee had no intention to interfere with Mrs. McCormick's campaign.

There followed repartee in which every member of the committee participated except Senator Roscoe Patterson, of Missouri.

Carlstrom's statement, while not a part of the record, was released to the press. It charged certain tests made by W. C. Dannenberg, owner of the detective agency employed by Mrs. McCormick, to shadow Senator Nye, proved a connection between the chairman and espionage upon Mrs. McCormick.

An operative for Dannenberg pretended to betray his employer, the statement said, and furnished to David Groh, alleged investigator for the committee, certain names of Dannenberg employes. These employes were immediately subpoenaed to appear before the committee, the statement alleged.

Nye, himself, read a lengthy statement at the beginning of the day's session in which he denied the committee had caused any espionage of any sort on any candidate.

"The most conclusive answer to the slanderous insinuation that the committee instigated the alleged theft of these records may be found in the fact that it could not possibly make use of any records obtained by such methods," the chairman declared. "On the other hand, if the records contained any information pertinent to the inquiry, the committee was armed with ample authority to obtain and use them."

Another statement, prepared but barred, was that of Dannenberg in which he intended to inform the committee he declined to furnish certain of his records which they had subpoenaed.

The committee had, however, in dropping the investigation of espionage upon Senator Nye, dismissed Dannenberg and his employes as witnesses. Nye said the espionage angle of the investigation would not again be discussed unless employment of the detectives should be considered part of Mrs. McCormick's campaign expenses.

FLORIDA EDITOR FIGURES IN FIGHT

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Fred P. Eberhardt, publisher of the Florida State News here, who shot and slightly wounded O. L. Bengston, of Santa Rosa county, after the latter had attacked the editor on a downtown street this afternoon, made bond for $250 shortly after the affair on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Bengston, who was charged with assault and battery, was expected to make a similar bond and was released in custody of his attorney while they sought a bondsman.

J. M. Harvell, who was present at the time of the altercation, was questioned by the authorities and released.

Eberhardt said following his release that he had a permit from the county commissioners to carry a gun. His nose was knocked out of place during the attack.

Eberhardt said he recently had received several anonymous telephone calls and letters, all postmarked or originating in west Florida, warning him not to publish a serial story he is preparing in which he purports to give his side of the recent case in which he was released on charges of conspiring to procure the assassination of Governor Doyle E. Carlton.

Eberhardt and two others charged with the conspiracy were released after a preliminary hearing when only the state presented testimony. The court ruled there had not been sufficient evidence to hold the men.

The editor said he expects to start his serial story in his own paper under a copyright next Sunday. He declared he believed the attack made upon him today had a bearing on some of the calls and letters he recently had received from west Florida.

Bengston, who Eberhardt said was a stranger to him, hit the editor on the nose as the publisher stood in front of the courthouse, according to witnesses. Eberhardt then pulled his gun and fired, the bullet striking Bengston on the thumb. It appeared as though Eberhardt was trying to fire a second time, when Harvell forced the gun into the air and no further shots were forthcoming.

Reed Sees No Hope For Tax Reduction

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Senator David A. Reed, ranking republican on the senate finance committee, which deals with tax matters, said today he did not see how the one per cent income tax reduction could be continued next year unless government expenditures decreased or an unlooked for increase in revenue materialized.

The Pennsylvanian noted he had just returned from vacation, however, and said further study might cause him to change his mind. Late in August President Hoover and Secretary Mellon said there was no ground for predictions of an impending deficit which would prevent continuance of the one per cent reduction in income taxes made applicable to last year's incomes.

Blease Again to Seek Place in U. S. Senate

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 16.—(AP) Senator Cole L. Blease, beaten in the democratic primary this year by James F. Byrnes, of Spartanburg, will run again for United States senate.

In a statement today he said:

"I thank my friends and supporters for their loyalty and devotion to me, and say to them that I shall again be a candidate for the United States senate."

The next South Carolina senatorial election is in 1932. The seat to be filled at that time is now held by Senator E. D. Smith.

TARZAN AND THE LOST EMPIRE No. 57

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Furiously jealous of von Harben's easy success in the eyes of the lovely Favonia, Fulvus Fupus clambered from the pool and donned his garments. Forthwith he sought an audience with the emperor, Validus Augustus. "There is a stranger in Castrum Mare," he said, "who is a spy from Castra Sanguinarius."

Impressed by the patrician's story, the emperor ordered Erich von Harben brought before him. Favonius and Lepus accompanied him, introducing Erich as a chieftain from Germania. The tales that Erich told of modern Rome so interested the emperor that he commanded the young German to write a history for him.

"There is no evidence of this man being a spy," the emperor said to Falvus Fupus. "Get out. I shall attend to you later." Overcome by mortification Fupus departed, vowing revenge, while Erich was escorted in honor to the emperor's library, where he was to come every day to consult the parchments.

From these parhhments on Harben learned that in the year 90 A. D., Marcus Crispus Sanguinarius, Roman prefect in Africa, had struck down with a dagger a messenger sent by the Emperor Nerva and caused word to be spread that the man had been an assassin sent from Rome and that Sanguinarius had killed in self-defense.

New Power Rate Schedule To Be Submitted on Nov. 17

Compromise Reached Between Interested Groups To Permit Extension of Time for Hearing.

November 17 was the date fixed Tuesday by the Georgia public service commission for the submission by the Georgia Power Company of a new schedule on wholesale, commercial and municipal electric rates to apply in Georgia.

When the schedule and other information is submitted and made available to other parties, a future hearing, perhaps 30 days later, will be held on the question of revision of rates.

Preston S. Arkwright, president of the power company, appeared before the commission in response to a rule nisi which ordered the company to show cause why the wholesale, commercial and municipal rates should not be uniform. He told the commission his company was making a survey of the more than 500 individual wholesale consumers in Georgia and that it would require at least a year to complete this examination.

Rate experts at the commission indicated that that body also will make an examination of the rates charged to large users of power with the prospect that a definite determination of new rates, if any revision is made, will not be made before the fall of 1931.

If rates now applicable in north Georgia were fixed for the entire state, Mr. Arkwright told the commission, the Georgia Power Company would lose $440,000 annually. He stated to the commission that the company's revenue has been decreased more than $2,000,000 in the last two years by cuts in rates ordered by the public service authorities.

William Lester, of Augusta, representing the Georgia Municipalities Rate Association, agreed to a postponement of the hearing, but asked that the power company's survey be made within 30 days. Mr. Arkwright had asked until January 1 to submit new rates and information asked for by the commission, and George Jones, of Macon, and Herman H. Swift, of Columbus, representing manufacturing interests in their territories, agreed to the compromise date suggested by the commission.

Contractor To Serve 60 Days in Stockade

C. D. Crockett, well-known Atlanta contractor, Tuesday began serving a 60-day sentence in the stockade with the possibility of a longer term on the county chain gang, as the result of an accident July 8 when his car, according to police, struck another car, whose occupant, Mrs. L. H. Adams, of 226 King's highway, was injured in the crash.

Crockett, who appeared before Recorder A. W. Callaway on charges of driving an automobile while drunk and of leaving the scene of an accident, was sentenced to 30 days on each charge and bound over to criminal court under $1,000 bond on additional charges of assault and battery.

According to police, Crockett leaped from his car and fled after it had struck Mrs. Adams' machine at Peachtree and Fifth streets.

Bishop R. L. Rudolph Dies at Age of 64

DORSET, Vt., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Bishop Robert L. Rudolph, of the Reformed Episcopal diocese of New York and Philadelphia, died suddenly at his summer home here today. He was 64 years old. Bishop Rudolph lived in Philadelphia.

He was consecrated bishop in 1909. He had been vice president of the general conference of the Reformed Episcopal church and president of the board of missions of that body.

He also served as a member of the executive committee of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

GEORGIA, FULTON COUNTY.
TO THE SUPERIOR COURT OF SAID COUNTY:

The petition of A. M. Robinson Company shows:

(1)

That heretofore, towit, on the 30th day of October, 1900, it was duly incorporated by order of this court with a maximum capital stock of Two Hundred Fifty Thousand ($250,000.00) Dollars, and that its charter as thus granted by this court was renewed in terms of the law on the 30th day of October, 1920.

(2)

That by an amendment to its said charter duly granted by this court on December 18, 1922, its capital stock was increased to a maximum of One Million ($1,000,000.00) Dollars, of which amount, Five Hundred Forty Thousand ($540,000.00) Dollars has been issued and is now outstanding, divided into common stock of the par value of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars per share.

(3)

That said capital stock now outstanding of Five Hundred Forty Thousand ($540,000.00) Dollars is far in excess of the actual needs of the corporation, and a capital stock of Two Hundred Thousand ($200,000.00) Dollars is amply sufficient for the corporation at the present time.

(4)

That at a special meeting of the stockholders of said corporation, held in the office of the corporation in the City of Atlanta, Fulton County, Georgia, on September 5th, 1930, due notice of the time, place and purpose of said meeting having been given to each stockholder, a resolution was unanimously adopted, authorizing the securing of an amendment to the charter of the corporation vesting in the stockholders, by a majority vote of the then outstanding capital stock, the power to decrease the amount of the capital stock of the corporation at any time, or from time to time, to any amount not less than Two Hundred Thousand ($200,000.00) Dollars, to be divided into common stock of the par value of one hundred ($100.00) dollars per share, and instructing the attorneys and officers of the corporation to take such steps as is necessary to carry said resolution into effect. A certified copy of said resolution is attached to this petition and made a part of the same, and marked as Exhibit "A".

WHEREFORE petitioner prays that an order be granted by this court amending its charter by authorizing the stockholders of the corporation by a majority vote of the then outstanding capital stock to reduce the capital stock of the corporation at any time, or from time to time, to any amount not less than Two Hundred Thousand ($200,000.00) Dollars, as herein prayed.

HOWELL, HEYMAN & BOLDING,

EXHIBIT "A."
RESOLUTION FOR REDUCTION OF CAPITAL STOCK.

"That whereas, the amount of the present authorized capital stock of A. M. Robinson Company is $540,000.00, divided into common stock at par value of $100.00 per share, which amount is in excess of the actual needs of the corporation, and that a capital stock of $200,000.00 would be ample for the present needs of said corporation;

"Now, therefore, be it resolved by the stockholders of A. M. Robinson Company that an amendment to the charter of said corporation be secured, authorizing the stockholders of the corporation upon a majority vote of the then outstanding capital stock of the corporation to reduce the capital stock of the corporation at any time, or from time to time, to any amount not less than $200,000.00, to be divided into common stock of the par value of $100.00 per share;

"Resolved further, that the attorneys and officers of the corporation be, and they are hereby instructed, to take such steps as are necessary to carry into effect this resolution."

I, J. R. Mobley, Secretary of A. M. Robinson Company, do hereby certify that the above and foregoing is a true, correct and a complete copy of the resolution passed by the stockholders of the A. M. Robinson Company, at a special meeting of said stockholders held in the office of the Company in Atlanta, Georgia, at 3 P. M., September 5th, 1930, due notice of the time, place and purpose of said meeting having been given to each stockholder, and all of the stockholders being present at said meeting, as the same appears of file and on record on the minutes of the Company.

Witness my signature and the corporate seal of A. M. Robinson Company, this the 5th day of September, 1930.

J. R. MOBLEY, Secretary.

Filed in office, this the 16th day of September, 1930.

STATE OF GEORGIA,
COUNTY OF FULTON.

I, J. W. Simmons, Clerk of the Superior Court of Fulton County, Georgia, do hereby certify that the within and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the application of A. M. Robinson Company for an amendment to the charter of said company, as the same appears of file in this office.

Witness my official signature and the seal of said court, this the 16th day of September, 1930.

50 Clowns To Make Merry For Sells-Floto Audiences

Sells Floto circus is provided this season with a great company of clowns and funny men gathered from various partsof the world. When this big show comes to Atlanta next Monday afternoon and night, September 22, the laughing season will be on in good earnest. An army of 50 of the world's most celebrated clowns, buffoons, jesters and fools have been engaged to make people laugh. It is said they are earning their salaries.

Howls of merriment are evoked by these artistic ribticklers. They are best of Europe's exponents of the latest and highest class farcical hilarity.

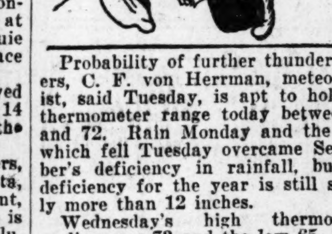

At all times during the long program the pauses between thrilling and dangerous acts are filled with the drollest and most clever of burlesques, satires, travesties on political and public events, funny pantomimes, farces and skits. Its coming to Atlanta in an important event.

And of course, everybody knows that Tom Mix, in person, and his wonder horse, Tony, are coming here with Sells Floto. Tom and Tony appear at every performance, heading a crowd of new and famous circus acts which fill three rings and two stages.

Matinee and night shows will start at 2 and 8 p. m., respectively. The doors will be open one hour earlier.

Cool Weather To Be Followed, By Warm Days

September's excess of rainfall, finally recorded at the local weather bureau station Tuesday morning, will bring a little cooler weather, but there is no indication that it won't get warmer again before fall is officially ushered in.

Probability of further thundershowers, C. F. von Herrman, meteorologist, said Tuesday, is apt to hold the thermometer range today between 60 and 72. Rain Monday and the little which fell Tuesday overcame September's deficiency in rainfall, but the deficiency for the year is still slightly more than 12 inches.

Wednesday's high thermometer reading was 73 and the low 65.

Trio Held in Robbery Placed Under Bond

W. C. White, J. R. Slaughter and F. A. Ritchie, arrested last week on charges of robbing James W. Jones, a soldier, of Jefferson Barracks, Mo., of $100, were bound over to the grand jury Tuesday by Judge Murphy M. Holloway on bonds of $3,000 each. The robbery occurred while Jones was in Atlanta on his way to Cordele on a leave of absence.

SMITH BENNETT DIES OF APOPLEXY STROKE

Smith Bennett, 64, of 770 Boulevard, N. E., real estate salesman on the staff of J. H. Ewing & Sons, and father of Claude S. Bennett, well-known local jeweler, dropped dead in the Ewing offices at about 5:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Death, which apparently resulted from a stroke of apoplexy, occurred before the arrival of an ambulance.

Born in Mississippi Mr. Bennett moved to Georgia at an early age and had been a resident of Atlanta for about 45 years. His connection with the Ewing realty concern was formed about 15 years ago. He was a member of the Druid Hills Baptist church and the following secret orders: Oglethorpe Lodge, F. & A. M., Red Men, Junior Order, and Odd Fellows. Funeral services will be conducted at Spring Hill chapel by Dr. Louie D. Newton, time to be announced later by H. M. Patterson & Son.

He is survived by his widow; two daughters, Mrs. W. A. Coleman, of Nashville, and Miss Annie D. Bennett, of Atlanta, and three sons, Fred Bennett, of New York city; Thomas E. Bennett, of New Orleans, and Claude S. Bennett, of Atlanta.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 o'clock Thursday morning at Spring Hill chapel by the Rev. Louie D. Newton and the Rev. R. Z. Tyler. Interment will be in Crest Lawn cemetery with H. M. Patterson & Son in charge.

The following will serve as pallbearers: Dr. B. O. Holtzendorf, Charles Ewing, R. W. Evans, F. W. Laird, C. H. Greenleaf, Fred Morris, D. W. Lovett, J. H. Ewing, J. W. Bedell and Morris Ewing.

FLORIDA STORM BOLT KILLS QUITMAN MAN

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Two men were killed instantly and another was seriously burned last night when lightning struck Fort Matanzas, near here, in which five fishermen took refuge from a storm.

The dead were Gene E. Godwin, of Quitman, Ga., and J. H. Gurr, of Matanzas.

J. V. Osteen, of Cartersville, near here, was brought to a hospital suffering severe burns.

Osteen was knocked unconscious when the lightning struck.

The two Gurr boys ran for help, but before they returned Osteen regained consciousness and his shouts attracted George Quigley, who lived nearby.

Osteen and the bodies of Godwin and Gurr were taken to a Boy Scout camp near the fort. Later, Osteen was brought to a hospital here, while an undertaker took charge of the two bodies.

During the same storm, Chester E. Benet was knocked down and slightly injured when another bolt of lightning struck a flagpole on the municipal pier, where he was lowering a flag.

Threatening Officer, Negro Badly Wounded

LeRoy Benton, a negro, living in the rear of 1024 Gordon street, Tuesday was shot through the right chest and the right leg by Motorcycle Officer S. C. Wallace, who was off duty at the time and driving his own car, accompanied by his wife and children, according to police reports. The shooting occurred at the corner of Larkin and Roach streets.

According to Wallace the negro was blocking the street, cursing and threatening his elderly father when Wallace drove up and commanded him to clear the way. The negro replied by cursing the officer, the latter stated, and producing a knife which he refused to drop on command of the policeman. Wallace's report was later corroborated by Benton's father. The negro was in a critical condition Tuesday night, according to hospital attendants.

MAN HELD UNDER BOND FOR ATTACK ON BOY, 13

News Carrier Suffers Broken Arm, Claims Assailant Dragged Him Down Stairs.

Charged with drunk and disorderly conduct, B. E. Tighe, 23, of 822 Penn avenue, N. E., Tuesday night was held in bond of $500 following his arrest on the accusation of J. C. Shelley, 13, a newscarrier, who told police Tighe had severely beaten him after dragging him from the seventh floor to the second floor of the Healey building. The boy's arm was dislocated and broken, and he told officers Tighe had struck him in the mouth several times without provocation.

Shelley, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Shelley, of 521 Glenwood avenue, said he is employed by the Fulton County Daily Report Publishing Company to carry a route which includes certain offices in the Healey building. He said he was accosted by Tighe on the seventh floor of that building Tuesday night and, at the man's demand, gave him two of his papers. Without any ado, he said, Tighe suddenly twisted his arm over his back and dragged him down six flights of steps.

On the second floor, the boy said, Tighe became infuriated and struck him in the mouth, knocking him down the steps to the halfway landing between the second and first floors. He screamed, he said, and Tighe began to run.

The man was chased by an officer, but meanwhile a companion of Shelley, Harvey McWarters, 16, of 485 Glenwood avenue, saw the pursuit and tackled Tighe near Luckie street, downing him and hanging on until a policeman arrived. At police station, Tighe made no statement. Officers said he was too intoxicated to give an explanation.

Admiral C. F. Hughes Retires From Navy

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(AP)—President Hoover today accepted the resignation of Admiral Charles F. Hughes, chief of naval operations, who leaves active service in the navy tomorrow when he is relieved by Admiral William V. Pratt.

"During your service in the navy," the president said, "you have successfully commanded all units of the fleet, culminating in the present highest office offered by the navy, from which you now feel it is your duty to resign. I wish to express my appreciation of the splendid services you have performed, and also the conviction that your resignation will be received with deep regret, not only from the naval service, but from the country as a whole."

Although Admiral Hughes will not have reached the statutory age of retirement, 64 years, until October 14, he said he took the action at this time "because of the realization that during the next two months important surveys and plans must be made for the future development of the navy."

The chief of naval operations is ex officio chairman of the navy general board which, late this month, will meet to prepare a navy building program.
